

DALLAS PLUS ONE YEAR

Editor's Note—The shots that killed John Fitzgerald Kennedy changed a world for many others, too. Two widows grieve, another has found a new life; a mother rages at fate, a killer plays dominoes and hears voices, a salesman lives in fear, a woman wonders . . . one year has passed, but that terrible day is not yet over.

By SID MOODY

DALLAS (AP)—The sorrowful year has passed and the motorcade has turned the corner and vanished into the shades of history.

The shots ring only in the heart. The yellow lights of the clock sign atop the brick building are winking another time now.

But, for some, the hour signaled still is 12:30 November 22, 1963—the moment their separate lives collided at that fated crossroads.

Their lives have gone on, but they aren't the same. Lee Harvey Oswald saw to that.

Not the same for the camera hobbyist, who must steel himself to look through the eye of a zoom lens where once he saw sudden blood. Not for the widow, misty with grief at the sight of the family station wagon in the driveway—empty. Not for the graying woman, fiery and angry in her struggle to clear the name that marks her. Not for the tall, thoughtful man of power who admits his power is no protection against the tremor he feels at a sudden noise, be it only the pop of a burst balloon. Not for the young mother who drives herself with self-doubt as to why she did not see more than she did in the stranger welcomed into her home.

These are the people of the assassination and a year has not healed all their wounds.

Riches Brought to Some

Some still mourn. Some hide their sorrow and shock in work. Some, the tragedy has touched lightly. Some it has made wealthy—And one of them would gladly trade the wealth for her loss. Others look for riches. One crouches on the floor and listens for voices none else can hear. Another fears a mysterious assassin none can explain.

They are as varied as they ever were—governor and schoolboy, housewife and elegant beauty of the world. But now, peculiarly, they can trace a kinship through the blood of a fallen President. They tell their stories:

... Abraham Zapruder, balding, emotional clothing merchant, happy to be out of New York's harried garment district and working in a loft next to the Texas Schoolbook Depository. He walked out into the noonday sun to see the President and, at his secretary's urging, had brought his camera. Zapruder had been taking movies of his children for 25 years and when the presidential limousine came into the viewfinder of his zoom lens he began taking pictures reflexively, pictures that would never die . . .

"I heard the shot and saw the President grab his heart and lean over toward Jacqueline. I thought he was making believe saying 'Oh, he got me' but then I thought 'No, a President wouldn't be joking.' Then another shot broke his head open. I started yelling 'They killed him! They killed him!' But I kept on taking pictures until the limousine disappeared, still aiming through the viewfinder."

Zapruder went back to the office kicking at desks in a mixture of grief and disbelief. Months later, when he saw the pictures he had sold to a magazine (Life) he was too stricken to talk.

Only now has he agreed to talk to a newsmen. When he was through, his eyes were moist. But he prided himself on getting through the ordeal of remembrance without breaking down.

Historic Camera Preserved

He has a new camera now. The manufacturer took the old one for its archives. He was glad to see it go.

"I don't shoot as many pictures as I did. When I pick up the camera and put it next to my eye it's tough. It's taken a little starch out of me." And when he thinks about the street outside, where it happened, he feels a cramp, "like a cramp in my heart."

... Jacqueline Kennedy and Marina Oswald are from different worlds, the regal patrician who had everything, the humble Russian girl who had nothing. Their only bond is the bloody mayhem that made them both widows . . .

For Jacqueline Kennedy it has been a year of mourning. She lives in a Manhattan apartment, takes walks in Central Park with her children, is rarely men-

Teamsters Urge State Job Surety

Higher Benefits Sought With Taxpayers' Aid

By CHARLES SUTTON

The Teamsters Union said Saturday it will ask the legislature to approve limited state financing of unemployment insurance as part of a sweeping and radical overhaul of California's social insurance laws.

In a series of proposals to be submitted to the 1965 session of the legislature, the Teamsters also will ask for a sharp hike in jobless pay and extension of unemployment insurance to California's farm workers.

The UI fund now is financed almost exclusively from employer-paid premiums, but under the Teamster plan, the state—for the first time ever—would share the costs with both employers and employees.

THE TEAMSTER proposals were mailed last week to all state legislators, and

Ship Sinks, Abandoned Off Mexico

A freighter radioed the Coast Guard in Long Beach Saturday night that it was sinking off Mexico's Baja California coast. The first rescue vessel to reach the scene spotted only wreckage and a distress flare.

Coast Guard headquarters here said it was presumed that the freighter Archangelos went down off Magdalena Bay, 700 miles to the south.

A radio message from the freighter Avanos, first ship to reach the scene, said: "Spotted wreckage. Spotted pistol rocket. Proceeding."

THERE was no immediate word of the fate of the 30 crewmen aboard the 7,000-ton freighter. The radioman sent a message that a hold was ruptured, then said everyone was taking to lifeboats.

BOMBED-OUT CHILDREN LOOK FOR TOYS

With a hole attributed to Syrian mortar shell gaping over their heads, Israeli children return to their home in upper Galilee to rummage through the rubble for toys. They had fled to the safety of an underground shelter during Friday's Israeli-Syrian border clash.

DOWN TO EARTH

Brown Seeking Space Thinkers

Gov. Brown told a conference of industrial and business leaders Saturday he plans to put some of California's space genius to work on such earthly problems as transportation and government planning.

Outlining a bold new program for the application of aerospace brains to human needs, in talks at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, he soon will call for bids from California's aerospace firms to develop programs in such areas as prison and hospital management and air, stream and sea pollution.

Brown announced his plan at a conference called by the University of California Extension service to consider means of solving the dilemma of dwindling federal expenditures in California, and the state's prospects of converting to a less defense-oriented economy.

HIS PROPOSAL immediately was hailed by aerospace industry leaders.

Donald Douglas Jr., president of Douglas Aircraft Co., called the Brown plan "an imaginative and yet practical approach to some of California's pressing economic and social problems."

Douglas, in a telegram to Brown, said the governor's plan "has the value of effectively utilizing on a broader scale what I consider one of the greatest sources of technological talent in the nation—the aerospace and electronic industries in this state."

Douglas closed the telegram by offering Brown "the wholehearted cooperation of Douglas Aircraft Co."

Syria Asks U.N. Probe of Flareup

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Syria asked Saturday for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council on charges of Israeli aggression after the second aerial dogfight between the countries in two days.

Ambassador Rafik Asha, head of the Syrian delegation, made the request in a letter to U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, president of the 11-nation council this month.

Stevenson was understood to be in Washington.

'Weak Spot' Probe Next, Barry Says

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater said Saturday he would make a nationwide survey of the Republican Party to discover weak spots because so many Republicans had voted for the Democratic candidate, President Johnson.

He said he was going to continue analysis and study to find out why people who traditionally had voted Republican acted as they did. He also said he still was opposed to the Civil Rights Act because he held it was unconstitutional.

HE HAD sworn by the Bible to uphold the Constitution of the United States and therefore he still was opposed to the bill, he said. Asked about his present

L.B. Alarmed by TV 'Bomb'

A brief television newscast late Saturday alarmed hundreds of Long Beach area residents who feared the city had been destroyed in a hydrogen bomb attack.

The news report dealt with a simulated H-bombing conducted Saturday by the Civil Air Patrol as a routine test. Newspaper and law-enforcement telephone switchboards were jammed with calls from alarmed residents.

STORM FIT FOR ESKIMOS

Alaska Gives Us a Cold Shoulder

Let's blame it on Alaska, our uppity young 50th state.

The fourth storm in a week hit Southern California Saturday, striking with rain, snow, sleet, hail and freezing temperatures.

The storm was spawned in Alaska. It brought frigid winds and unseasonal cold. Snow fell below 3,000 feet, which was coming close to foothill suburbs. At mountain resorts the mercury dropped to as low as 6 degrees.

IT'S NOT OVER YET. Predicted high today in Long Beach is 58, with a low tonight of 45.

Elsewhere, it's worse. Freezing temperatures were predicted for agricultural areas at higher elevations, and citrus farmers were warned to use heaters in many districts. Only the area around San Juan Capistrano was believed to be endangered in Orange County.

Hail and sleet fell even in coastal areas, including La Jolla.

Bright sunshine prevailed between showers. The winds blew smog away and visibility was 50 miles.

THERE WAS THOUGHT to be little danger from mudslides, unless the scattered downpours happen to fall in areas where ground cover burned off in summer brushfires.

The highway patrol warned that persons going to the mountains should take chains and have ample antifreeze in their radiators. Saturday night all roads were passable without chains, but motorists were advised that weather conditions now are quite erratic and unpredictable.

City College Wins, State Tripped 7-0

Long Beach City College remained in contention for the Junior Rose Bowl bid Saturday night by whipping El Camino, 21-14, but Long Beach State bowed to Los Angeles State in the CCAA title game, 7-0.

Harbor College toppled Compton, 16-8, to finish a 9-0 season and also remain in the running for the JRB bid.

In major college action, Notre Dame routed Michigan State, 34-7, to strengthen its No. 1 rating. Alabama and Nebraska also won to remain unbeaten.

A crowd of over 10,000 watched Marv Motley gain nearly 300 yards in City College's victory. (See sports section.)

'Operation Birthright' in Works

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson and two cabinet members talked Saturday of launching "operation birthright" for the young and getting health care and bigger Social Security checks for the elderly.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz pictured the next 60 days of financial and legislative planning by the administration as providing "an extraordinary opportunity for really a magnificent breakthrough."

He described Operation Birthright as an effort to keep college and factory doors from slamming in the faces of half a million of the 3.5 million boys and girls who will reach 18 in 1965. Details still are vague.

WIRTZ replied, "No, sir, I do not" when asked if he expects a rail strike.

Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze predicted passage of some sort of hospital-insurance program for the elderly patterned after the administration bill to tie it to the Social Security system.

Celebrezze also predicted the administration will seek something in the nature of a flat $7-a-month increase in Social Security benefits, approved by the Senate this year, as part of

Dental Process in Secret Code

FORMULA 'WORTH $100,000' MISSING

A dental formula written in secret code and valued by its owner at $100,000 was missing late Saturday from a Long Beach laboratory safe and police were seeking someone who knew the combination.

Gold and platinum worth "several thousand dollars" were ignored by a thief who entered Mac-Donald Dental Ceramic Laboratory, 2501 Atlantic Ave., and made off with the formula for porcelain used in restoring teeth.

Owner Ronald MacDonald, 54, of Garden Grove, told investigators he recently had been offered $100,000 for the formula.

MacDonald reported to Officer Charles R. Beason that he arrived at his office about 8 a.m. Saturday and found it ransacked, with many items strewn about.

A window was open. The door of an office safe was ajar and the papers missing.

Money and the precious metals inside apparently were not touched, police said.

The laboratory is in the rear of a one-story frame building with offices in front. It employs six technicians.

MacDonald could not be reached for comment later Saturday.

However, a Long Beach dentist explained to The Independent, Press-Telegram that formulas of this type are used in elaborate technical processes in the reconstruction of individual teeth.

He said the process involves porcelain fused with intense heat to metal—sometimes gold and platinum—to make tooth crowns or to rebuild entire teeth.

He said there are several different processes, all similar and comparatively new. It is the most expensive dental work, he said.

L.A.C. Says: When the People Really Get Mad

One continues to hear reasons why George Murphy won the race for U. S. Senator. With such a small margin, any of many reasons could have been the cause of victory. But, in my opinion, the defeat of Pierre Salinger can be definitely placed on one issue. That was his intemperate attacks on supporters of Prop. 13—whom he referred to as bigots. The Long Beach and Orange County areas accounted for 75% of the 205,000 state majority received by Murphy—although they accounted for only 7% of the total 7 million state votes. They also accounted for the largest percentage of Yes votes on Prop. 13.

It is an example of what the voters will—and can do when they really get mad. It can be said the carpetbagger issue contributed to his defeat—but I doubt it. It did not defeat Bobby Kennedy. A more careful analysis of the results should cause voters to realize their power if they take the trouble to use it.

In my opinion, the defeat of Salinger in a state that is registered 60% to 40% in favor of the Democratic party will have a strong influence on all congressmen. When they face the issue of denying urban renewal funds to California, based on approval of Prop. 13, they will realize the same thing could happen to them if it was an issue in their own states. Being very much influenced by public opinion, this issue will have a strong bearing on future congressional action on such civil rights legislation.

Murphy received 51.4% and Salinger 48.6% of the statewide popular vote. This means a 1½% switch in votes would have elected Salinger. By comparison, over the state, Prop. 13 received 66% of the vote—which means a large percentage of Democrats voted for Prop. 13—and undoubtedly crossed party lines to vote against Salinger who was strongly opposed to the measure.

As an example: Assemblyman Joseph Kennick in the 44th District—Long Beach and Lakewood—barely squeaked by with 54% of the vote. But his district is 63% Democratic in registration. By contrast, in 1962 Kennick received 66.5% of the total vote. He lost this large 1962 lead because he was a co-sponsor of the Rumford Act and his opponent, Reg Dupuy, made it the dominant issue. This almost 20% in reduced percentage of the vote—if applied to Salinger—is evidence that this issue was the cause of his defeat.

It is equally evident that Murphy's majority was small due to the fact that he refused to state his position on the issue. He was justified in his position that it was a state, and not a federal issue. But Salinger had made it an issue. Had Murphy stated his support of Prop. 13, it is probable he would have won by a half million, or greater majority.

The only reason for this analysis is to point out that the reasons why the threats of refusing urban renewal money to California may not be as drastic as has been threatened. It is apparent from other states that they would probably vote the same way California did on such an issue. The elected public officials and the public agencies will take a hard look at this expression of public opinion before they set such policies.

In this area the vote for Prop. 13 was 78%, compared with the state's 66%. It is an example of the more conservative and responsible attitude of the people of this area. It is also a warning that they must continue to fight for the principles they believe in or they will be destroyed by the more liberal elements that dominate some areas of the state. But over the state it shows what can be done when the people get mad and fight for their rights. Unfortunately, they do so all too seldom.—L.A.C.

Union Urges State Finance Jobless Pay

to numerous state officials, businessmen and labor leaders.

The union said the package, which also includes proposed changes in the disability insurance and workmen's compensation laws, will be presented to the legislature in January as "an essential part" of President Johnson's war on poverty in California, and as a hedge against any future economic crises in the state.

Teamster officials noted that unemployment could skyrocket overnight if problems develop in the agricultural or defense sectors of the state's economy.

CALIFORNIA, with 10% of the nation's population, now gets 28% of the nation's defense business, and there's no telling how long the state can keep such a large hunk of the defense pie, they asserted. In any event, they warned, the time to act is now, and not when there's a crisis.

Teamster legislative representative Tom Harris, a key architect of the Teamster program, said the state probably would be asked to contribute $50 million a year to the unemployment insurance program — or a 10th of its current annual cost.

However, Harris admitted he doesn't expect the initial contribution to be quite that large.

The Teamster representative said the state's contribution would come from the general fund, and would almost certainly have to be financed through additional taxes.

Assuming the state share is $50 million a year, and assuming the proposal is written into law, the outlay would cost Californians $2.75 per capita annually.

While he refused to say exactly what chance he thought the program had, Harris nevertheless pointed out that the Teamsters had a "pretty good" legislative batting average in Sacramento.

Informed sources in Sacramento, however, said the package—and particularly the part calling for state government financing of jobless insurance—would have tough sledding. Certainly the Brown administration is not likely to favor the revolutionary financing feature, they said, adding that the administration has enough tax problems on its hands without piling on new ones.

PROSPECTS for increased UI benefits, on the other hand, would appear brighter.

A number of groups, including most labor unions, have called for higher benefits to conform to rising salaries, and Brown has said he favors such increases.

It's "semantic nonsense" to believe that the employer actually foots the bill, Harris says, because the costs eventually are passed on to the consumer.

The Teamster spokesman said inclusion of farm workers and other groups not now covered by UI, plus a boost in benefits, would add about $100 million a year to the cost of the UI program.

position in the party, he said the leadership is now in other hands and he intended to work with the leaders in both Houses.

Goldwater told a news conference at a Jamaica golf club there was no titular leader of the party.

Asked whether he would desire nomination as party candidate in the 1968 presidential campaign, he said he would not be looking for nomination and he did not think he would be nominated.

DEFEATED vice-presidential candidate William Miller and Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican Party, sat in on the conference.

Goldwater said he would not be making any effort to gain nomination but he would do everything to help his party.

Asked about the alleged misuse of funds collected by the GOP National Committee, he said he hoped the question did not indicate any suspicion of dishonesty as he had never seen money so quickly raised and properly accounted for and responsibly spent.

He said it was the first time in his experience that the Republicans had saved money and had funds left in the bank after an election.

Goldwater said President Johnson, in his campaign, offered nothing to the people and he hated to see the country controlled by fear.

NEW YORK (AP)—Broderrick Crawford, the actor who has built a reputation with tough-guy roles, walked into a glass door at Kennedy Airport Saturday—and stayed in character.

"Don't worry about it, it didn't hurt a bit. I'm feeling fine. It's nothing. I just walked through a door that wasn't open."

Then he boarded a plane bound for Paris.

Brown Says GOP Aims at Statehouse

By JACK BALDWIN

Gov. Brown conceded Saturday that the Republicans were better than the Democrats during the recent campaign in at least one respect. "They out-Madison-Avenued us."

The governor made the comment in an exclusive interview with The Independent Press-Telegram following his appearance before the board of directors of the California Democratic Council, meeting in Thunderbird Hotel, El Segundo.

Brown claimed that defeats of some candidates and the passage of Proposition 13 were due to the fact that, "We didn't have as good public relations as the Republicans."

"I think their billboards were better. I think their newspaper ads were better. We had the ideals but they had the propaganda," the governor said.

IN HIS talk before an enthusiastic standing-room-only crowd of some 400 loudly-applauding CDC members, the governor said he felt the Democrats had "lost contact with the public."

Asked to comment on this after the meeting, the governor said that was not what he meant.

"I didn't mean we had lost contact. I meant that sometimes we moved too fast without trying to find out why people felt the way they did," he said.

In his speech before the luncheon crowd, Gov. Brown said he did not feel the defeat of Democratic senate candidate Pierre Salinger was linked to Proposition 13.

"I just can't believe it," he said.

HE SAID he believed the main factor was that the Republicans "hit, and hit hard on the carpetbagging issue."

He told the audience which frequently interrupted his post-election talk with applause that matched pre-election enthusiasm. "The Republicans are taking dead aim on the state capital."

"If the Republican conservatives gain a foothold in Sacramento, the Democrats will lose six years of work," he said.

The governor was preceded to the podium by Congressman James Roosevelt, D-Los Angeles, who told the group that in his opinion the 89th Congress would adopt a broader Social Security program, including Medicare.

AT A pre-luncheon meeting of the group, Tom Carvey, CDC president, introduced Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson. In his speech the state's number 2 executive labeled as "ridiculous" the cost of campaigning for a statewide office. He claimed that some candidates spent as much as $1 million on their campaigns.

"I suggest that campaign contributions be limited to $25 and claimed as an income-tax deduction. Nobody could put the thumb on you (a candidate) if they had only contributed $25 instead of $1,000," Anderson said.

Carvey announced the next gathering would be the 13th CDC Convention in Fresno, Jan. 23 and 24.

PT&T Wage Hikes Total $3 Million

LOS ANGELES (U-P) — Wage increases, totaling more than $3 million a year, were negotiated Saturday by the Communications Workers of America AF-CIO and the Pacific Telephone Co., the union announced.

The wage hikes, affecting 13,608 workers, will become effective Nov. 15, if the new agreement is ratified by the union membership.

Robert Rivers, area director of the CWA, said the proposed increases were the result of the first wage reopening as provided in the three-year contract signed 14 months ago.

He said the agreement affects workers in 31 Southern California cities from Brawley to Santa Maria.

TORRANCE BIOLOGISTS REPORT

Giant Scavenger Cell Suspect in Infertility

By BEN ZINSER

I, P-T Medical Editor

Powerful electron-microscope pictures of a phenomenon that may be related to infertility problems were shown at a medical meeting by Southland researchers Saturday.

The pictures, taken at Harbor General Hospital, show microscopic cells engulfing sperm after the male germ cells have been deposited in the female reproductive tract.

The cells, similar to white blood cells, are known as tissue macrophages. The electron micrographs, some with magnifications up to 25,000 times natural size, show one cell entrapping from one to six male germ cells.

THE PICTURES are the first of their kind ever produced, according to Dr. Dean L. Moyer, chief of pathology at Harbor General and codirector of the Division of Reproductive Biology at the hospital.

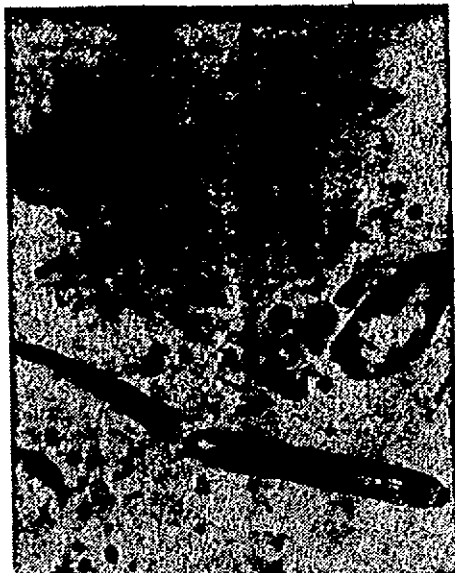

His report was made to the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Fertility Society in Palm Springs.

In mammals there is a 99.9999% decrease in number of sperm deposited in the female reproductive tract by the time surviving sperm reach the area where fertilization can take place.

Fertilization is the union of one sperm cell with one ovum (female germ cell) in the oviduct or fallopian tube—the passage-way between the ovary area and the womb.

ANIMAL experiments at Harbor General show that 10 trillion to several hundred million of the macrophages may be active in the female reproductive tract of a rabbit.

The electron microscope shows how these cells surround and ingest excess sperm.

Researchers hope to determine whether this phenomenon has any bearing on infertility problems. Right now its significance, if any, in infertility is not known.

Most of the project's experiments to date have centered on rabbits and guinea pigs. The Harbor General investigators now have begun experiments involving monkeys. In humans, samples of cervical mucus are examined under the electron microscope to study this phenomenon.

In humans, one-half billion sperm may be deposited in a single seminal ejaculate, yet only 200 to 300 of them reach the site where conception may take place.

IN LABORATORY rats, 50 million sperm are reduced to about 30 at site of fertilization. In rabbits, 200 million sperm are reduced to 249 in the fertilization area. It all adds up to a 99.9999% reduction in sperm count.

Dr. Moyer says the cells that swallow up excessive sperm sometimes increase in number under certain conditions, and this aspect of the phenomenon is now being studied.

INVESTIGATORS assisting Dr. Moyer are two visiting scientists — Dr. Vernon Henderson, professor of biology at Virginia State College, Petersburg, Va., and Dr. Hiromi Maruta, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Kumamoto University, Japan.

The visitors are undergoing a one-year training program in Harbor General's Division of Reproductive Biology.

Dr. Luigi Mastrolanni, Jr., chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Harbor General, is codirector of the division.

Runaway Plane Slams Into Building; 4 Injured

A family of five escaped serious injury Saturday at Long Beach Airport when their pilotless plane crashed into a hangar without ever leaving the ground.

Police said Earl Elchhorn, 34, of Los Angeles, a member of the Air Force Reserve Flying Club which owns the 1950 Beechcraft Bonanza, loaded his wife and three children aboard at about 3:55 p.m. and cranked the engine.

The brakes apparently failed to hold and the aircraft began rolling toward the hangar the moment the engine started, police reported.

Elchhorn's wife, Betty, 33, and their children, Bert, 3, Juli, 9, and Jeri, 7, received superficial injuries as the craft lurched forward, knock-

DALLAS PLUS ONE YEAR

IN A SCENE that will not be re-enacted, John F. Kennedy Jr. runs exuberantly into father's arms as he arrives home for weekend in summer of 1963.

tioned in the headlines she once dominated and then only indirectly. She refuses interviews. Her thoughts are her own. The brilliance of her life as First Lady has been put away, like a treasured memento.

For Marina, however, life is a Cinderella dream compared to the cheap apartments and beatings she knew a year ago. She lives in a modern 3-bedroom brick house in a Dallas suburb. It is air-conditioned, has modern appliances including the washing machine. Lee Harvey Oswald had promised her the night before he shot John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

She is enjoying a life her saturnine husband denied her. She wears lipstick, frets over her hairdo like any 22-year-old, buys stylish clothes from the famous Neiman-Marcus store, likes beer and the cigarettes her husband once slapped her for smoking. She has periodic dates at the Music Box, a dimly lit private club near downtown Dallas that offers drinks and dance music and the gaiety of fun-seeking young people.

She will chat, in passable English, about how she likes life in Texas and about her two blond little daughters on whom she dotes. She will not discuss Lee or the assassination, although she has said she loved him, a man who somehow changed from the one she married.

She lives comfortably but not lavishly on the $100,000 she received from donations and magazines. She stands to make another $50,000 or so on a book being written by Priscilla Johnson, one of two American newswomen who interviewed Lee Harvey Oswald in Russia. She is not unaware of her monetary potential. She became furious at a Dallas newsman for releasing her husband's Russian diary. She could have made $100,000 from it if she had sold it instead of the fraction of that she did receive.

"I have two children to look out for," she told one man. "I must make a little money."

Buys Contract

She paid $12,500 to break an exclusive 10-year contract she had signed with her first advisers. She later broke with a respected Dallas lawyer who had been managing her affairs and has now entrusted the job to Declan Ford, a geologist, and his Russian-born wife.

She is suspicious of being had and at times she has been, said a man who had once advised her. If Marina Oswald is wary of those who would treat her as a property and not a person she is enjoying the company of those who are showing her a life she could only have dreamed of a year ago. "Black," said a man who has been close to her, "is not Marina's color."

schoolboy who went with friends to the end of the motorcade route because he thought they could get a better view than in the crowds downtown. He saw the President fine. And also saw a rifle being withdrawn from the sixth floor of the depository...

Threatened

Ever since, the phone has been ringing at the Euins home. Often it is a man with a heavy voice saying, "Amos better be careful with what he says. I have a complete copy of what he told police."

"I got a phone call just last week," said Amos's mother, Eva, 40. "Twenty minutes later he called back. It sounded like the same heavy voice. I don't think it's a prank 'cuz no grown man is going to play that much. It makes me uneasy, it really does."

The Euins told police but didn't ask for protection and none was offered. There have been a lot of crank calls to figures in the assassination. Meanwhile, at the Euins a home a light burns on the front and back porches all night.

Amos doesn't usually take the bus to school. Members of the family take him by car. He isn't allowed to roam too far alone. Amos does not appear concerned over the calls.

"But you know children," said his mother. "They can't see as far down the line as grownups. When you get worried about something, the first thing you think about is crawling in a hole and staying out of sight. But you can't do this and stay on this earth."

So the lights still burn all night at the Euins.

Oswald's Boss

Roy Truly, manager of the depository, slight, kindly, the man who hired Oswald... "Business has been very good this year. Whether it is due to the publicity, we just don't know. Every one was sort of feeling his way around the first few months but we've been so busy, people have put it out of their minds. There have been a lot of books moved around up there since that day."

"Sometimes, if I happen to pass a certain spot, I remember Oswald, or if I look out the window to the underpass, I get a little grim. But I go on about my business because that's what I have to do."

Bomb Feared

A. C. Johnson, lanky, shuffling Texan who was Oswald's landlord...

Threatening phone calls warning him "not to talk" got so bad he lost his housekeeper, Mrs. Earlene Roberts, who was afraid someone might bomb the house. He got an unlisted number and nothing has happened since. People from all over the country drop by occasionally to see Oswald's room, vacant since the assassination. It's really only a tiny alcove off the dining room, barely big enough for the bed, neatly made, a few cheap wall decorations above the head. Just a bed. Why doesn't he move it out, get rid of it?

"Well, you just got to get used to these things."

"If I'd been smart, I'd have made some money out of this but you don't think about it at the time," He grinned. "The police have all Oswald's bedding still. I wish I could get it back. I might rip it up and sell the pieces. I heard they were selling strips of the Beatles' sheets for $25 each."

Tense Waiting

Warren Reynolds, young used-car salesman, gave chase to Oswald after the shooting of Patrolman J. D. Tippit...

Friendly, leaning against one of his cars in the warm Texas sun, Reynolds looks unmarked until he shows you the scars on his right temple and left jaw, the marks of a .22 bullet that passed through his head. It happened last Jan. 23 in the basement of the little office building on his lot. A gunman who had been lying in wait fired once at Reynolds. Reynolds was about to flick the lights. Reynolds staggered upstairs, the gunman following. The gunman stared at him, then fled. Two witnesses said he seemed to have a dark complexion, and carried a rifle. The only evidence is the bullet. Reynolds is lucky to be alive. Lucky?

OF ALL THOSE whose lives were changed by the Kennedy assassination, Marina Oswald seems to be the one enjoying life a year later. Here she is with her daughters, June Lee and baby Rachel.

Life Changed

He doesn't know if the man will come back, or even why he came in the first place. "Nothing was stolen. And you don't hold up someone with a rifle."

"I don't live like I used to."

His house is ringed by floodlights he can turn on in an instant. He bought a dog. He doesn't take walks at night. There is always someone at the lot with him after dark. He worries about himself and about his family.

"I've never had fights with people. I believe you treat your customers good they'll treat you good." He had just given a set of tires free to a customer who said the ones on the car Reynolds had sold him were no good.

The Warren Commission said in its report it could find no evidence Reynolds' shooting had any connection with the assassination or Tippit's murder. But there isn't any concrete evidence at all one way or another except the bullet.

"Any connection? I don't know. That's the worrying thing. I don't know. Nobody knows. It's weird."

Loved One Gone

Mrs. Tippit, mother of three, widowed by Lee Oswald in his dash to somewhere...

She is rich now. She would rather have her husband. Just last month the money she has received from people the world over was distributed by the court. Prior to that, she had been getting by on her police widow's pension of $225 a month. The court gave Mrs. Tippit a check for $312,916. Another $330,946 was placed in trust for her two boys, 14 and 5, and daughter, 11. Zapruder reportedly gave $25,000 to the fund from money paid for his movies.

In the dining room of her three-bedroom bungalow is a picture of the Kennedy family with an inscription from Mrs. Kennedy:

"There is another bond we share. We must remind our children all the time what brave men their fathers were."

'Do Your Best'

"It's hard to go on when the one you loved and lived for is gone," says Mrs. Tippit. "There's often no point to anything. But I have three of his children whom I love very much and that's a big responsibility. When so many people write that they are thinking and praying for you—well, you know you've got to do your best."

An acquaintance said: "It's nice she got the money and all, but she had that inner stuff that made it a foregone conclusion she would raise her family well no matter what."

The future? The mortgage has been paid off by a Philadelphia bank as a gift. The boys have been offered scholarships to Texas A&M. She still has not bought the rug her husband planned to buy last Christmas. "We didn't have one when J.D. was with us. So what's the hurry now?" Maybe the house will be painted and she will buy a new car.

"Every time I see the old one in the driveway I think J.D. ought to be inside."

Mother Grieves

And in another city, Fort Worth, another mother grieves. And seethes...

In the sitting room of her small two-family house Mrs. Marguerite Oswald spoke of her battle to redeem her son, adjudged an assassin. Above the sofa where she sat was a reproduction of Whistler's serene painting of his mother.

Mrs. Oswald sat, then stalked the room, then doodled vigorously on a scrap of paper while she talked on about how her son was a "patsy", how the Warren Commission had failed history, how she would never give up until she vindicated her son. She plans a book—"with beautiful pictures"—on his burial, then a later full-scale book on the whole case.

Lacks Sympathy

"I'm doing this to honor my son. Even if he was guilty he should not be forgotten. I know the television and the press will be full of President Kennedy Nov. 22 and not Lee Harvey Oswald. But I'm not going to let him just be

"I am proud Lee Harvey Oswald didn't want to take things from those Russian friends of Marina's. He wanted to support his wife himself. That shows principle. And where did he get that principle? From his mother!"

Sleeps Well

"They say Lee Harvey Oswald threw a toy gun at a sitter when he was little. Well, lah-de-dah, how many little boys don't throw toys around? The commission had to have this environment business to strengthen their evidence."

"I am taking an unpopular position but at least I sleep well. If this is what I must do, I will. If anybody today or tomorrow wanted to do away with me, I would at least know I had spoken and not had my mouth closed as my son's was."

"My evidence (she won't disclose it until she feels the time is right) would support the fact that there was more than one assassin. I think Lee was a patsy. I think President Kennedy was a victim of people in the State Department. I think we have a good government but there are, as in any business, a few corrupt people in government. Thank God Lee Oswald had a mother. They didn't bank on her when they planned this. It's frightening to think what would have happened if I had kept quiet like my sons and Marina."

Brainwashing?

She has not seen Marina since last winter, thinks her daughter-in-law may have been brainwashed into accepting the Warren report. Why, she said striding across the floor, didn't the commission give her the courtesy to cross-examine witnesses? Why didn't Marina and her own son, Robert, consult her, "the head of the family," before testifying?

... And there was another woman who knew Lee Harvey Oswald, or thought she did.

Mrs. Ruth Paine is 32, tall, bright and troubled. She is troubled because she failed to see any trace of the assassin in the sullen man who was a guest in her home, whose wife she had befriended and sheltered.

She sits in the very room where Oswald once sat playing with his children and hers, and wonders if there was anything she might have done, anything.

Thin Threads

"Oswald's chances to murder hung on so many thin threads any one of which might have snapped. Suppose I had not had a birthday party the weekend before the assassination and Marina had not told Lee to stay away? I am left with the speculation whether this tiny matter might have made a difference."

The might have been: a kinder word or a closer look into the blanket where Oswald hid his rifle, perhaps a little more perception of the man who lounged almost wordlessly around her home for six weekends, perhaps a little more adding of two and two of the little foreshadowings.

What of Ruby?

... And the other killer. What of him?

Jack Ruby stares at the walls of his cell, plays dominoes with the guards who constantly watch him, tugs the remaining hairs from his head. He has tried to commit suicide three times by hanging his head against a wall, hanging himself with his trousers and jamming his finger into an electric-light socket. He asked a psychiatrist to get down on the floor of his cell with him to listen to the screams of the Jews who were being castrated and boiled in oil.

"All of the Jews are being killed because I killed a Communist," says Ruby. He begged one of his lawyers, Joe Tonahill, to kidnap his sister and brothers before they are slaughtered and take them some place where they will be safe.

Called Insane

A psychiatrist who examined him after his trial said he was technically insane and recommended Ruby be committed to a hospital immediately and put under close supervision. In any event, his lawyers hope to have his trial appealed by the end of the year.

If Ruby cares he doesn't seem to show it. He would rather talk to Henry Wade, the prosecutor who convicted him to die, than to his own lawyers.

He sits in his cell. His mind possibly gone, his night club closed then reopened under new management, his beloved dogs he called his children given away. He keeps but two things in his cell: a Bible and a picture of John F. Kennedy.

... There were other players in those November days: the professionals, men to whom death is no stranger. A priest. A doctor. A policeman.

Doctor's Jolted

The doctors at Parkland Hospital are still there. Dr. Malcolm Perry, who worked over both the President and Lee Oswald, is an assistant professor of surgery and still answers call to the emergency room. Dr. Charles Carriaco is now in his second year as a resident in surgery. They have made their reports, given their testimony. They don't want to talk any more of the assassination.

But one of them said, "It is something you're not likely to forget. When you lose someone, whoever it is, it gives you a jolt. When it is the President, it jolts you particularly. What we did we have done many times in the past. And we will do it many times in the future. It's our work."

Priest Recalls

Father Oscar Huber, C.M., 71, has a photographic memory. He memorizes his sermons. He remembers the first person he gave last rites to years ago. He vividly recalls giving last rites to the President—"I noticed the whiteness of his feet and thought 'There is no blood in this man'—and he remembers just as vividly a woman lying in the street after an accident in front of his church.

"The assassination doesn't haunt me. Maybe it is because I am a priest. I have seen a lot of people die. Administering to the President was my duty and I did it."

A Memory

Sgt. Patrick Dean has a memory, too. It is of the smoke from Ruby's pistol curling upwards into a ray of sunlight after Ruby shot Oswald. Dean was in charge of security in the basement.

"This was the biggest thing that has ever happened to me. One of the greatest men of the century is assassinated by one of the sorriest and we goofed and let him be killed. Sure, we all still have

Hard of Hearing?

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else.

Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to eustachian dysfunction, a different treatment is given.

If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

We are one of the busiest offices in Southern California, so if we cannot help you, be assured that we will not take your case.

The total charge is $3.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling 591-1305, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L. B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

it on our minds but what are you going to do?"

Do? Keep working. Try to be a good cop. Dean does, and it is not often that he thinks backwards and sees the smoke, hazing a sunbeam.

Sensitized

... There was another man shot November 22.

Although Gov. John B. Connally still has trouble extending his right arm, his clasp is firm when he greets you. He appears tan, relaxed, composed. He is campaigning for re-election, only this time it is different.

The crowds make him uneasy. They recall the crowd on another day.

"I am extremely sensitive to loud noises. A car backfiring or a balloon popping. I have a very marked reaction."

He has driven in several motorcades since Nov. 22 and does not like the feeling. He has driven down Elm St. past the book depository a number of times.

"I never go by without reliving the tragedy. But it is nothing you can run from. You develop a mental condition that permits you to think about it without being overwhelmed." Nonetheless, he and his wife never talk about that day.

Other Marks

The assassination and his own near death have left other marks on the governor. "I have a greater realization that you never can be sure when your time may come and so you have little time to be shallow or selfish. I try to devote more conscientiously whatever energy and talents I may have that will have a lasting effect both on my family and the problems of this state."

"It's also drawn our family closer together." And it has created a desire to go off alone and think.

"That's why I like to go down to the ranch and just ride around on a horse or in a jeep to look at the grass, look at the cattle, admire the wildflowers."

Recently the governor and his wife visited several other neighboring states and presented their governors with paintings of wildflowers on their ranch.

"It was a choice determined by an appreciation of beautiful things. By the magnificence of nature, a desire to give something personal. I don't know if I would have done something like that a year ago." ... Those are some of the people. There are also the places.

Tributes

The little colonnade on Dealey Plaza, a small triangle of grass, has been draped with bunting for the Texas State Fair. On the other side of the colonnade are the plastic floral decorations, some dusty and weathered, some new.

Someone has pinned a blank check from the Brownfield Bank & Trust Co. to a wreath and written on the back: "To a very great man who was very brave and a good leader." "A great man we should not forget. God bless his wife and children"—says a note from someone in Shoals, W. Va.

People have come from Mexico City; Iquitos, Peru; Lausanne, Switzerland; Garfield, N. J., and written their little tributes.

Turning to the right and looking over a small pool you can see the sixth-floor window of the book depository, stacked high with cartons. Cars rush by in a steady blur and there are always a few people, pointing, snapping pictures or just standing, looking at a spot in the road.

And the city? Who can say, despite the many who have tried, what a city is thinking? But, unlike six months ago, there are Kennedy souvenirs now in shop windows. A camera store has an illuminated display of colored slides of the depository, 50 cents per slide.

A Green Plot

The last visit was to Rose Hill Memorial Park on the outskirts of Fort Worth. The only marker is a metal plaque in the ground and the words strike the eyes with almost physical force: "Lee Harvey Oswald, Oct. 18, 1939-Nov. 24, 1963."

The grass in the hilly graveyard is brown from the summer's dryness but this plot is bright green and a young tree and two small bushes are growing. The mother, they say, comes and cuts the grass that is so carefully watered. There are a plastic cross and a plastic floral wreath without inscription.

The gaze tries to penetrate the sod. What expression lies beneath? The proud affection of the newly wed in Minsk? The swagger of the backyard photo with pistol in the belt and rifle in hand? The defiant smirk of the first night in the Dallas jail? The bullet struck home?

The emotions suddenly rise. It is time to go, quickly without looking back.

Friends Laud Toby Wick, Apparent Suicide

Former Long Beach city councilman T. Victor (Toby) Wick was a man of intense loyalty and devotion to public service and private charity, friends said Saturday.

Wick, 51, of 310 Newport Ave., was found dead on a Redlands street Friday night. The San Bernardino County coroner's office concluded that he had taken his own life in despair over illness.

"He was intensely loyal," said City Atty. Leonard Putnam. "I don't think anyone was more dedicated to the whole city and everyone in it."

REDLANDS police said there was no suicide note, but their investigation indicated Wick had shot himself through the heart with a .45-caliber automatic pistol. Investigators said Wick had been seriously ill for some time, and the severe headaches which had plagued him for many years had become worse.

Wick was elected to the Long Beach City Council in 1954 by a 2-1 margin, served one term and declined to run for re-election. Then he worked as a civil service examiner for the city and later became administrative assistant to his close friend, the late Gerald Desmond, who then was city attorney. He remained in the post for a time after Desmond's death before returning to the civil service office about three months ago.

When he left the council, he was praised editorially for "the intelligent, devoted service he gave to the city."

A POLY HIGH graduate, Wick was classified advertising manager for The Press-Telegram until World War II. He served four years in the Army, and was recalled to active duty during the Korean conflict to serve as special aide to Gen. Albert Wedemeyer. He was on Adm. Turner Joy's staff at the Panmunjom armistice conference in Korea.

Between wars he was field secretary to the late Congressman Willis W. Bradley.

His father, the late Andrew Mrs. Rose McLennan, Mrs. A. Wick, pioneered in the development of North Long Beach.

Survivors include his mother and father, Mrs. Ragnhild I. Wick; rangeemts are pending at sisters, Mrs. Amy Erickson, Sponberg Mortuary.

LBJ Maps Aid to Young and Old

a one-package bill including health care.

THE SECRETARIES met with the President at his ranch Friday and Saturday and then with reporters Saturday afternoon at a press center in Austin.

The President put in a morning of work at the LBJ Ranch, broken with a stroll along the Pedernales River.

In midafternoon he motored to what is called the Schamhorst section of his ranchlands, about 14 miles to the northeast, to look at white-tailed deer on this first day of the hunting season.

Monday he goes back to Washington and a series of conference during the week on reports from task forces he named to come up with ideas for bettering the lot of America and Americans.

Both his cabinet visitors came from the ranch Saturday with word that Johnson once again is bearing down heavily on economy in the new budgets for their departments.

Celebrezze said he expects this budget to go up from about $7.1 billion this year to $7.9 billion next year because of 22 items of legislation passed in the latest Congress. None of the increase, he said, will be for new programs. These would have to be taken care of by an additional boost.

WITH respect to federal economizing, a report that reached Johnson Saturday from Budget Director Kermit Gordon said federal employment in September was at the lowest level in two and a half years.

It was down 34,000 from August, to a total of 2,449,527.

Celebrezze said Johnson showed an interest in the basic health menaces of heart diseases, cancer and stroke, which cause seven of 10 deaths.

"And I suspect," he said, "that legislation will be introduced to step up the research in these areas."

WIRTZ said with reference to 18-year-olds that a million more of them will reach that age next year than this, and it is the age when most of them either go on to college or into the work force.

"Unless we do more about this situation," he said, "one out of every seven of those 3.5 million boys and girls is going to have a door slammed in his or her face, and it is going to be either a job door or it is going to be a college door."

Two hundred thousand, he said, will be unable to get into college because there won't be room for them and 300,000 will be trying to get jobs that won't be available.

"So," the secretary said, "we have, in my view of it, starting on the first of January, about an eight-month countdown period to make good on our obligations to about half a million boys and girls in this country."

Embattled Syria in U.N. Plea

the meeting was not expected before Monday.

THE CHARGES involved Israeli flights over the border area Friday and Saturday.

Syria accused the Israeli air force of shooting up Syrian border posts Friday and violating Syrian air space again Saturday.

Israel admitted its jets shot up the border posts but contended that Saturday's battle started with Syrian violations of Israeli air-space.

The jets fought north of the Sea of Galilee, a day after the heaviest border fighting between the two enemies in years. Each side accused the other of provoking the air clash and each claimed victory.

Security Tightened Near Johnson Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—stacked up out of view of the Tightened security restrictions were placed in force Saturday along Ranch Road No. 1 in front of the LBJ Ranch 15 miles west of here.

Each time President or Mrs. Johnson ventured from the ranch house about 300 yards from the state road, state highway patrolmen and Secret Service agents blocked off all traffic for a mile in front of the ranch.

At one point, 12 cars were the church.

Brown Eyes Space Genius for Mundane Work

tion of Douglas Aircraft Co. in your efforts to make this program a success."

In outlining the program, Brown described it as "small and experimental. But," he added, "it has the most dramatic potential of any government program I have seen in my years in public life."

"First," he said, "we will ask the systems engineers to study ways to provide a complete transportation network within the state, efficiently coupled into land, sea and air transportation from out of that will 'improve our data state."

Brown said he will ask also that engineers design new ways to cope with "California's criminally and mentally ill," indicating that the engineers would be asked to study the logistics of custody of the two groups.

"The third problem we will propose is that of accurate collection of information on which government and industry can base decisions for years and even decades ahead." Among other things, he said, the state will ask engineers to design systems transportation from out of that will "improve our data on diseases and educational requirements."

And finally, the governor said, the state will seek a system for controlling the tremendous wastes "discharged into the air, soil and water of California."

Brown summed up by saying that the proposed program involved nothing less than "a conscious effort to restore the balance between man's scientific and social progress."

Various experts have been proposing just such an application of space-age science to the public domain for years, but Brown's program marks the first time that a governmental body has ever taken it up as a concrete plan of action.

How feasible it is, however, remained a question in the minds of some attending the conference.

Dr. Murray L. Weidenbaum, now associate professor of economics at Washington University, St. Louis, formerly executive secretary of the President's Committee on the Economic Impact of Defense and Disarmament, said, "transferability" of systems engineering to fields outside of missiles hasn't been proved. Nevertheless, he added, it was definitely worth trying.

In supporting the governor's plan, Weidenbaum said it undoubtedly "will kick off exploratory research which may lead in time to substantial production."

Defense expenditures started to slip nationally early this year, the conference was told. And the prediction was made that it will decline by 5 to 25% in the next five years.

Dr. Sidney Sonenblum, research economist at UCLA, said the decline has been gradual and is not serious over the long perspective. "If we are complacent in California and don't act, of course there will be a crisis," he said.

"Or if we get panicky and throw up our hands, there will be a crisis," he added.

Sonenblum indicated California appears to be on the right track and probably will solve its problems. He said much of the gradual slack resulting from defense cutbacks will be taken up by the "dynamics of our economy."

He said the state, with the assistance of the federal government, probably would create new jobs by tackling such problems as urban renewal, pollution, schools, and transportation.

Yes, There IS a 'Reb' AF

By JAMES T. YOUNG

MERCEDES, Tex. (UPI)—Well, sir, for a while there it looked like the Civil War was going to start all over again.

The word was out—in Denmark, of all places—that the South planned to rise again and the Confederate air force would help lead it.

Yes, there is a Confederate air force. It has 147 colonels. And 20 aircraft, left over from World War II.

The News that it was about to spring into action in a resumption of civil warfare was printed in Copenhagen, where a newspaper failed to find humor in a group of men dedicated to tinkering with airplanes and to convincing officials in Washington that the Capitol Building should be turned around so it would face south.

THE OCCASION for the mixup was the initiation of the 147th colonel into the CAF. (Everybody's a colonel in the CAF.) He was Andreas Anderson, a pilot for the Scandinavian Air Service from Copenhagen.

He was interviewed by telephone by Copenhagen newsmen—and immediately took his stand for the South in Impressive Rebel style.

"The Yankees are our sworn enemies and we must all fight them," he said, tongue-in-cheek. He also said he came from "South Copenhagen." He was taken seriously.

Actually, the Confederate air force should not be taken seriously.

It was created in 1957 by a few air buffs who decided to purchase an F51 fighter sold as U.S. Air Force surplus. They had no intention of going to war with the North.

In fact, it is doubtful they ever realized the CAF would be what it is today.

THE ORGANIZATION—led by the imaginary commander, Col. Jethro E. Culpeper—has grown from that single F51 to a fleet that includes at least one of every type plane flown by U.S. pilots during the war.

Although 60 of the colonels live in south Texas, the membership list includes men from all walks of life, living as far away as Canada, Australia and now Denmark. Not all the colonels fly, however, but all have the same goals.

The organization's aims—besides keeping alive the traditions of the South in any way possible—are to preserve in flying condition the military aircraft which played important roles in World War II, and to perpetuate in the minds and hearts of all Americans the spirit and memory of the accomplishments of those planes and their pilots.

The CAF is trying to find a Japanese Zero and a German Messerschmidt to add to the collection. It has struck out in all efforts to find a Zero.

FUTURE PLANS call for erection of a museum in Mercedes, a small city in deep south Texas. The museum, to cost about $200,000, will be used to house the vintage aircraft for public display.

The colonels have flown 20 different air shows in the country demonstrating the fighter planes for an estimated 20 million people.

Regretfully, they have to turn down more invitations than they accept, because the entire CAF is a hobby and not a business.

The Internal Revenue Service recently gave the CAF a tax-exempt status because it is operating for the good of the nation, historically and educationally.

The only paid employee is a secretary needed to handle all the mail and daily requests.

The colonels just have fun with their hobby.

The colonels are also dedicated to preserve such forgotten deep south pleasures as "good Southern cookin', leisurely drinkin', cat fishin', pocket knife, whittlin', rockin' chair rockin' and plain old shade tree settin'."

U.S. Nuclear Rockets to Space Seen Near

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atomic scientists believe a recent breakthrough can enable the United States to put nuclear-powered rockets into space by the early 1970's and send them to the moon or planets by 1975.

The scientists said that four recent ground tests of atomic space reactors in Nevada proved beyond a doubt the practicality of using atomic power for rocket flights. They called the test results the greatest advance in rocketry of the past 30 or 40 years.

At a briefing for newsmen given by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the scientists said the U.S. would be able to get a nuclear rocket off the ground within the next 10 years for an additional $1 billion. They predicted routine manned flights to the moon were possible before 1975. In addition, they said, unmanned exploratory flights to other planets by atomic rockets would be feasible by the middle of the next decade.

Present U.S. space plans call for the Apollo project to put two men on the moon by 1970. The Apollo space capsule is to be launched by means of chemically-powered rockets.

West Germany's Brentano Dies

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Former West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, 60, parliamentary leader of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats, died Saturday after a long illness.

Von Brentano

Brentano underwent a throat operation last December and since then had suffered two circulatory collapses.

The Christian Democratic Party announced that Brentano died "late Saturday evening." Cause of death was not immediately given.

He was admitted to a Darmstadt hospital Thursday following a sudden deterioration in his condition.

Brentano was foreign minister from 1955 to 1961, when he was replaced by Gerhard Schröder.

His political star rose—and set—during the Adenauer era of postwar Germany. He was considered the man most likely to succeed Adenauer as chancellor.

Bonn Buying 3 U.S. Missile Ships

WASHINGTON (UPI)—West Germany agreed Saturday to buy three guided-missile destroyers from U.S. shipyards at a cost of $150 million. It also signed four far-reaching military pacts involving increased cooperation with the United States.

The Bonn government thus moved further toward a position sharply opposite that urged by President Charles de Gaulle of France, who has been trying to wean the Germans away from cooperation with the United States.

Work on the warships, to be equipped with the latest U.S. anti-aircraft missiles, will be started early next year. Bids are to be advertised Dec. 1, with first deliveries scheduled for 1969.

West's Storm Dumps 14-Inch Snowfalls

By United Press International

An ocean-brewed storm which battered the West Coast pushed through the Rockies Saturday, dropping 14-inch snowfalls from Montana to New Mexico and howling out over the Great Plains.

The Weather Bureau posted warnings to motorists of 4 inches or more of snow due in areas of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and New Mexico.

By mid-evening Minot, N.D., measured 2 inches of snow and Lemmon, S.D., was reporting 2 inches.

Soviets Fired on, Detained at Yank Base

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—An American soldier fired a shot at a Soviet army sedan to halt its approach by a side road into a restricted U.S. military area near Nuernberg in West Germany last Wednesday, the U.S. Army reported Saturday. A Soviet colonel and his enlisted driver were detained seven hours.

The U.S. Army's European Headquarters here said the car belonged to the Soviet military liaison mission attached to the U.S. headquarters. U.S. officials protested to Soviet authorities Saturday but no Soviet response was reported.

U.S. Studying Move North in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's administration is again reviewing the strategy in Viet Nam and is coming closer to grips with the question of expanding the war north against the Reds.

Before the election Johnson gave notice that some time after his return from his Texas ranch he would call in advisers for the most complete kind of briefings on the Viet Nam problem.

Preparation for this has begun in a Viet Nam "task force" which includes experts from the State and Defense departments, intelligence and foreign-aid agencies.

The review is expected to move up soon to cabinet level. Some time in the next few weeks, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, is expected to come to Washington to participate.

Sabin Wins $40,000 Italian Prize

ROME (UPI)—Dr. Albert B. Sabin, discoverer of the oral antipolio vaccine, Saturday received the $40,000 1964 Antonio Feltrinelli Prize of the Italian Academy and called for continuous antipolio vaccination campaigns.

Phys-Ed Compromise OK'd by State School Board

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A compromise between California public schools and the state Board of Education on the physical-education requirement in the last day of a three-day session — said the legislature will be asked in its next session to eliminate the daily physical-education requirement. But the board also will ask that the daily requirement be replaced with another plan requiring the same amount of time and permitting individual districts to develop their own experimental exercise programs.

Some districts have thought of doubling the time required each day and holding gym periods every other day. State Supt. Max Rafferty has favored the current requirement. Other members had favored leaving the physical education policies up to individual school districts. The proposed legislation would affect all California youngsters from kindergarten to the 12th grade.

Present state law requires physical education be taught daily for a full class period. Dr. J. Graham Sullivan, an associate superintendent in the state Department of Education, offered the compromise proposal.

Although some board members wanted to keep the status quo, the vote was unanimous for a change.

New $5 Million Library Planned for Stanford

STANFORD (AP) — An unusual $5 million undergraduate library will be built, probably starting this month, at Stanford University, President Wallace Sterling said.

The four-story building, to be open in late 1966, will include reading alcoves, music listening areas, language laboratories, rooms for typing, viewing microfilm and reading aloud.

The library's construction will permit conversion of the main library to an expanded center for specialized study and research.

THERE'S A NEW KIND OF AUTOMATIC BLANKET WITH NO WIRES IN THE BLANKET!

FIELDCREST MAKES IT . . . WE HAVE IT!

THERMAFLO® Automatic Blanket/Warmth without weight, without wires.

The new Fieldcrest THERMAFLO looks and feels and "cuddles" like the most expensive lightweight blanket you can own. For Fieldcrest has developed a blanket that is completely different. It is completely automatic, and yet there are no wires in the blanket. It works on water to give you (or your children or your grandchildren) the most protected, the most comfortable sleep possible, and with no wires, no thermostats, no hot spots, no chance of overheating.

That's why it's ideal for you, for children, invalids, older people. And you can fold it over, tuck it under, bunch it, punch it, scrunch it together!

How does it work?

The principle is very simple.

The water is warmed in a reservoir in the control box till it's lukewarm (never warmer than a baby's bottle). Then it's circulated through a network of tiny, tough, watertight thermoplastic tubes in the blanket. The electricity stops at the control box.

Neither you, nor the water, nor the blanket, nor the tubes ever come in contact with electricity or wires.

Simple? Of course.

And the temperature remains constant.

There's a Night-Lite Dial with nine Comfort Settings. Just set the dial, flick the switch and relax under gentle, uniform warmth. A thermostat in the control is extremely sensitive to changes in room temperature and automatically adjusts itself to maintain the warmth you select on the dial. Circulating water, you know, is nature's most reliable way of distributing warmth evenly.

Is it really recommended for children?

It's the perfect blanket for children, because it keeps them warm, no matter how active they are when they sleep. And kids can even bounce on it, trounce on it, suck on it, chew on it.

What about special problems?

Can it help?

The THERMAFLO is ideal whenever gentle, even warmth is advised. It can also be of special value for daytime warmth when large areas of the body are involved.

Does it need special care?

No. The THERMAFLO is machine-washable. In fact, it doesn't even like dry cleaning! It washes fluffy and soft every time. And the thermoplastic tubing can "take it." It won't crimp or break or crack under any normal circumstances. That includes being folded up and stored for the summer.

Can it overheat?

No. Control unit cannot overheat. And a thermostatic control shuts it off completely if it runs out of water.

How often do you fill the reservoir?

Only a few times a season, even with constant use! And it just takes seconds.

What colors does it come in?

Mint Green, Ice Pink, Mist Blue, Tawny Beige, Antique Gold. But not very many of each, for the present. If you're planning to give one as a gift, better get it now.

YOU would have been proud had you witnessed with me the way Burton Chace, county supervisor and our fellow townsman, smacked a golf ball as the dedication drive at the new county golf course, Los Verdes, on the Palos Verdes Peninsula.

Swatting a golf ball under such circumstances is no cinch for an amateur (in golf an amateur is anybody who doesn't play for money). There are a lot of people standing around and all eyes are pinned on you. Pros are used to this sort of thing but others may get nervous—and a nervous guy can dub or miss one of those pellets. When Councilman Ray Kealer was L.B. mayor, at the opening of Sky Links course some years ago he hit the first ball off the toe of his club and it popped a woman spectator on the leg.

Supervisor Chace was well aware of his situation, and as he addressed the ball Friday morning at Los Verdes, he asked about bets as to whether he would miss. Then he stepped up, took one practice stroke, and let 'er have it. What followed was no great shakes of a drive, but it was respectable. It did go in the air on low trajectory and disappeared over the crest of the slope looking out toward the first green and the sea.

Bro. Chace looked great in silky chocolate slacks and a loose yellow sweater.

The next drive, by famed championship golfer Bobby Nichols, virtually disappeared in the blue horizon, but all things considered, it was no better than Chace's low flyer.

LOS Verdes, dedicated after a breakfast attended by a lot of public and semi-public characters—officials, golfers, civic leaders, newsmen—is a spectacular layout, undoubtedly ranking among the leaders in that category on the west coast.

It is carved out of the steep western slope of the peninsula, overhanging the blue Pacific, with the sweeping views, the chattering winds and the clear air that traditionally belong to such sites.

There's a handsome clubhouse with Vern Castle of Long Beach as concessionaire. The course is off Hawthorne Blvd.

The development was financed through a loan from the Los Angeles County Employees Retirement Fund, the loan to be liquidated mainly by income from the course.

IN some downtown area barbershop the other day a little act of generosity occurred, and I'm wondering if the man who did it knows how significant it was.

Walking north on Pine Ave. that day, I met three children of the nine-or-ten category. One little girl was in a wheelchair. A boy was pushing the chair, and a second little girl was running alongside. I noticed casually that the kids looked happy and excited.

Just as I reached them, the walking girl cried to me, pointing to the lass in the chair:

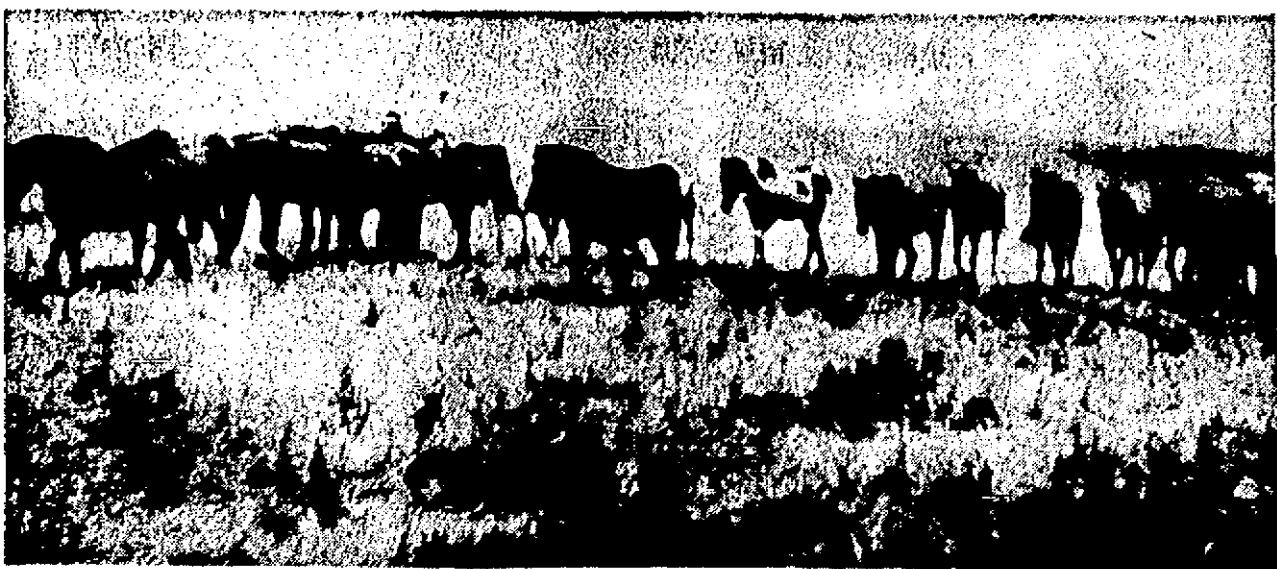

"A man in the barbershop gave her a quarter!"

They all giggled happily and hurried on up the street.

Coming on, I thought to myself that the fellow in the barbershop, whoever he is, ought to know. Perhaps he will find out if this comes to his attention. To him, a salute.

ITEM here the other day about a local fellow who has voted in 19 presidential elections brought a note from another reader, C. W. Clapp.

Clapp isn't certain how many times he's voted, but he remembers when people got sore at Grover Cleveland for going fishing on Memorial Day, and he recalls that he worked out his poll tax so he could vote for Wm. McKinley. I guess he rates as an old-timer, all right.

THE SPILLER HERD COMES HOME . . . Horses roam 8 1/2-acre ranch in densely populated Lakewood area.

Spiller's Spread

By Mary Neiswender

RANCH EQUIPMENT . . . Saddles galore.

SHOES FOR A KING . . . Palleo's Note shod.

Homes Cozy-Up to Working Lakewood Ranch

Everyone agrees:

A man who refuses to sell almost priceless land in order to give his horses and cattle grazing room is either a livestock man or a person who likes what he does and does what he likes.

Glenn Spiller, owner of the Lakewood Stables, is both.

His eight-and-a-half acre ranch at 11369 E. Carson St., Lakewood, sits in the middle of high-priced subdivision lands, bounded on one side by the San Gabriel River and on another side by one of the busiest arterials in the area.

"We've had lots of offers to sell—for tremendous amounts—but why should we. My wife, Jean, and I like it here—we like the weather, the room and the fact our horses, cattle, etc., have room to roam."

BORN on a ranch in the Dakotas, Spiller is used to wide-open spaces and seeing horses and cattle roam the range—even though the "range" is in the middle of a densely populated residential area.

"I've had a horse since I was six years old—a Shetland pony—and when I outgrew him, I traded for a larger horse—and I've been horse trading ever since," Spiller says.

There was only a short time in Spiller's life that he didn't devote all his time and energy to livestock.

"IT WAS during the depression and I was in high school, so I got a job in a men's clothing store. Horses were my sideline—I had my own horses and participated in rodeos."

"The store owner, H. H. Geiger, knew I wasn't happy indoors," Spiller relates, "so he financed me—became my partner—in my first horse ranch business. His son now operates the biggest western-type clothing store in the mid-west."

BUT SPILLER'S not sorry he left the store for ranching.

PRIZE BULL . . . Rests on laurels.

FIRST PRIZE-WINNING horse for Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Spiller, Monarch, still holds down top stall at the Spiller Ranch. The horse, now 19 years old, has been "retired."

"I guess ranching was sort of born in me," he says. "My father was a rancher in the Dakotas—and my wife's father started the first livestock sales pavilion in South Dakota."

A "break" in his career came when he sold a specially trained Appaloosa to actor-horseman Gene Autry.

"Out here—so near to Hollywood—I guess that doesn't mean a lot, but in the little cow-town I came from that was quite an honor," Spiller says.

After the sale he joined the Autry troop, in charge of all the saddle horses, equipment and wardrobe in the Autry show—the largest rodeo show to travel the nation.

HE'S NOT sorry he left the rodeo either.

"I got bumped up enough to be a veteran rodeo rider," he claims, "but I decided that wasn't the way to build a future. The only future in rodeo riding is a bunch of broken bones, and I've got my share of those."

"Col. William Evans talked me into coming West," the horseman claims. "The colonel was an early developer of the Lakewood area, and brought me out here. I bought my first ranch at Woodruff Ave. and Arbor Road, then moved out to this spread in 1949."

He's "pretty proud of this outfit," he says, because "we don't have any rough necks or dead beats."

THE "OUTFIT," the largest riding academy in the area isn't only for the part-time horseman or the weekend westerner.

Spiller's horses and Angus cattle are prize winners.

His pride—"Palleo's Note"—which he bought from Jockey Johnny Longden, the 37th horse in a field of 350,000 quarter horses to become an American Champion. He's listed in the Triple-A Register of Merit in racing.

His 50-cow herd of registered Angus Cattle also is bringing home blue ribbons. One cow won top honors in 31 shows.

BUT, IN addition to boarding more than 70 horses and renting out horses for pleasure riders and horses to pull hay wagons, Spiller says, it's a "working ranch."

But a working cattle and horse ranch in the middle of a growing community should have its problems. Not so, says Spiller.

"We're getting along fine with our neighbors."

Houses are built up within feet of his corals and hay loft.

"Instead of complaining," he says, "Our neighbors try to help us. They call when they see something that might bother us, and I've had many of them say that the bray of a donkey or the whinny of the horses bring back memories."

TRADITION IN WORDS, MUSIC

Inter-Faith Meet Nov. 22

Protestant, Catholic and Jewish tradition in word and music will be highlighted at the three-faith meeting, "Faith of Our Fathers" to be held at 3:30 p.m. next Sunday in Municipal Auditorium.

The meeting is sponsored by the Long Beach Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews in cooperation with the Long Beach Area Council of Churches, Roman Catholic Church of Long Beach, Board of Rabbis of the Long Beach and Harbor Area and the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Tradition of the three faiths, in word and music will be presented by the Rev. John Messer, minister, East Side Christian Church, music by the church's choir; Father Joseph M. Sartoris, assistant pastor, Saint Anthony Catholic Church, and Our Lady of Refuge Church Chorale, and Rabbi Sidney Guthman, Temple Sinai Congregation, with music by Cantors Morris Greenfield and David Kane, and Rabbi Yosef Miller of Temple Beth Shalom as narrator.

Spiritual leaders of the three faiths hailed the meeting.

THE REV. MESSER said:

"As a Protestant clergyman representing one of the contributing streams of religious thought for the community of Long Beach, I feel this is a most significant expression of our Judeo-Christian faith. Recognizing the invaluable contribution that each of the three streams of faith has made to the corporate concept of belief in God, our Father, this witness comes at a salutary time and will certainly strengthen the faith of all."

FATHER SARTORIS said:

"As Catholics we are happy to join in this community-wide expression of our faith in God. Public and social practices of religion are a reminder to us of our goal in life and of the rights of God over peoples and communities. We are convinced that such religious endeavors greatly help remedy tensions and conflicts among neighbors and in the world."

RABBI GUTHMAN said:

"To our changing world, and to every changing world, religion offers the basic realities—the reality of God, of goodness, of beauty, and truth. So when Christian and Jew and men of all faiths meet as we do on this Faith of our Fathers program, we give dramatic testimony to our common goal and our common destiny. The walls of our churches and temples may continue to separate us, but the spirit of our faiths unite us."

Wallace Arntzen is chairman of the Faith of Our Fathers program. Serving with him on the committee are Father Sartoris, Rabbi Guthman, Rev. Messer, the Rev. Robert Walker, Major Kenneth Anderson, Kirk Bender, Bob Clappett, and George McLean, chairman of the area NCCJ group, who will discuss aims of the organization.

Rev. Walker will give the invocation and James Hester, chaplain of the Armed Forces, will give the benediction. The Salvation Army band will play and musical selections will be presented by Louetta and Mario Farrar.

Hochmuth to Speak Tuesday

Major Gen. Bruno Arthur Hochmuth, USMC, commanding general of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego, will be guest speaker Wednesday at the dinner meeting of the Long Beach Chapter of the Navy League at Allen Center on Terminal Island.

"Gen. Hochmuth is one of the nation's most distinguished Marine officers," said Eugene Bishop, president of the Navy League chapter. "He commanded the 3rd Battalion, Fourth Marines, in the Okinawa campaign and made the initial landing on Japan as executive officer of the Fourth Marines. He served as Deputy Chief of Staff (Research and Development) of the Marine Corps before taking over his present assignment last year."

Activities planned by the Navy League in support of the United States Navy and the Marine Corps for 1965 will be outlined by Bishop.

Col. H. A. Traffert, local Marine reserve officer, is chairman of the committee planning the meeting in celebration of the 189th anniversary of the founding of the United States Marine Corps.

Collector Uniforms Ordered

Three hundred employees of the Public Service Department, including 220 rubbish and garbage collectors, will start out the new year in uniforms provided by the city.

Besides supplying easy identification, the tan shirts and tan slacks with blue and gold insignia are expected to give a lift to city recruitment for the department. Two changes will be provided weekly.

Others to receive uniforms are 80 employees in the building services division, chiefly custodians.

City Manager John R. Mansell has awarded a $19,905 contract to Uniform Rental Services for the first year's service. With City Council approval, Mansell was responsible earlier for providing uniforms for Gas Department meter readers. The Water Board also issues uniforms to its service personnel.

Opportunity for Jobs Meet Topic

"An Economic Opportunities Program for Long Beach" identification, the tan shirts will be the subject of the meeting of the Community Welfare Council at noon Friday at the Armed Services YMCA, 520 W. Seaside Blvd.

Dr. Paul O'Rourke, special assistant to the Governor for the Anti-Poverty program in California, and Robert Reynolds, regional Youth Consultant for the U.S. Department of Labor, will be the speakers.

Both officials will discuss benefits expected under Anti-Poverty program legislation and what cities must do to be able to participate. Persons who plan to apply for uniforms are invited to attend and inquire about eligibility.

Public Must Aid Tax Cut Efforts

LEST THERE BE some misunderstanding, the Los Angeles County Supervisors' recently declared determination to do some budget-cutting proposes nothing that would affect the tax bills just received by property holders. Their plan is to reduce the 1965-66 budget; the 1964-65 budget is set, the tax bills have gone out, and there's nothing that can be done about it. The angry protests over the 1964-65 taxes, however, did trigger the supervisors' resolution to trim the following year's financial schedule, and also has set off some strong new talk about broadening the tax base to relieve the real property taxpayer.

Key phase of the county's proposals is procurement of a half-cent county sales tax provision, which the supervisors estimate would cut the county tax rate by about 59 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. This would take enabling action by the Legislature, and recognizing that something must be done to help take the burden off real property, we agree that the sales tax project should be effectively pressed.

If it succeeds, and the county does get added money from this source, the next question will be whether it is applied to cut real property taxes from their current levels, or to prevent possible property tax increases resulting from higher spending. A pledge to use the sales tax money to "relieve the property taxpayer" can be interpreted either way.

The supervisors, by calling a special meeting for Nov. 23 to discuss 1965-66 budget reduction, indicate they are bent on some actual expense-cutting. It is a noble objective and it is to be hoped they succeed.

But whether it is a matter of cutting expenses, or simply holding the expense line so that income from new sources can be applied to cut property tax bills, the supervisors will need the advice and support of responsible organizations and citizens. The problem is not just theirs. It belongs to all of us and from the public should come something more constructive than merely screaming in protest when tax bills arrive in the mail.

Mr. Krusz's Service

HARRY KRUSZ came to Long Beach exactly five years ago today to assume the responsibilities of managing vice president of the Chamber of Commerce. He has had a busy and fruitful five years with us, and civic leaders are appropriately acknowledging the anniversary of an event that marked the beginning of outstanding service to the community.

Upon his arrival Mr. Krusz displayed remarkable courage. As a newcomer he gave Long Beach a careful analysis and announced his findings in a frank report released early the next year. It was not a peaches and cream statement, by any means, and there was some immediate backlash from various sources. But Mr. Krusz came to us with a reputation as a diagnostician of community ailments, and his realistic comments were generally appreciated and made the basis for constructive effort.

Since then, he has submitted periodical reports which indicate advancement on some fronts, status quo on others. He has never pulled punches, and he has recognized the responsibility of making the Chamber of Commerce a vital force for action in the fields where it is needed.

One of Mr. Krusz's outstanding accomplishments has been to develop cooperation among all community groups in working toward declared goals. The annual Community Progress Congress (the next one is Feb. 18) was his vehicle for accomplishing this, and it is so good other cities are copying it.

We offer congratulations to Mr. Krusz and the Long Beach area on this anniversary occasion.

Bronx Cheers in L.A.

BRONX CHEERS were inevitable when Los Angeles City Council bravely undertook the refurbishment of the city's noted midtown feature, Pershing Square to make it a little less convenient for loiterers, beatniks and gabbers.

They came at the dedication of the new facility. There were boos and shouts that present members of the Council wouldn't last long.

But Councilman Gilbert W. Lindsay, in charge of the event, stood his ground. He said he wanted to do everything possible to make downtown Los Angeles the most beautiful downtown in the nation.

There were enough agreeing citizens around to provide respectable applause. As for the others, it is significant that the report in one metropolitan paper indicates surprise and satisfaction that everyone stood at attention when the flags were posted!

Pumps Primed for a Rosy 1966

WASHINGTON—The Administration has evidently decided that it has to "prime the pump" again. The decision to repeal some of the excise taxes and reduce others in order to stimulate business in 1965 is a recognition of the possibility of a downturn that year.

There is no promise forthcoming as to when the budget will be balanced, though Secretary of the Treasury Dillon says this is not likely before 1968. The immediate consideration, however, is to keep the economy booming through 1965 and into 1966, when the next congressional elections will be held.

The experts who are master-minding the national economy through the exercise of governmental power scoff at the idea of a balanced budget, at least until full employment has been reached. The deficits are being defended as necessary because of the unemployment. Yet the rosy stories of prosperity which were circulated during the presidential campaign were for the most part unqualified.

The strategy of the Administration is based upon the theory that business needs to increase its volume of sales. There was a little downward turn in retail sales in October. This may have been due to labor problems in the auto industry, but it emphasized the importance of doing something about repealing several excise taxes. Levies of this kind were started during World War II and some of them were added during the Korean War. The total amount of receipts from excise taxes runs approximately $14 billion a year, and those items which are to be repealed will cause a loss of somewhere between $2 and $3 billion.

THERE is no doubt that there has been considerable pressure to secure the repeal of many of these excise taxes. The Senate Finance Committee approved a program of this kind last year, only to have it reversed by the White House because it did not fit in with the Administration's planned tax-reduction schedule and the belief that the economy would do well at least into 1965.

But now the repeal of some of the excise taxes, it is believed, will stimulate the business situation in the latter part of 1965, and it is hoped that this trend will continue through 1966.

What is not explained is how public confidence in the value of the dollar can be retained as the government postpones from year to year the balancing of the budget. Meanwhile, the tax burden on the American people is not really being decreased materially, because there is a steady rise in state and local taxes.

Concurrently, wages are being raised and costs are rising because of this increase. Many businesses, therefore, which cannot raise prices in order to absorb the higher wage rates will find themselves with shrunken profits, and this could diminish tax receipts from business in a considerable amount next year.

THE argument, of course, is being made that businessmen should hold down their prices, and there is talk about certain "guidelines" which the Administration would like to see them follow. Unfortunately, the government "guidelines" are being disregarded by the labor-union leaders, and some time between now and next spring, the steel industry will be confronted with a new labor contract which may inevitably force an upward trend in its prices.

It may take several years before the government's policy on deficit spending is proved fallacious. But eventually, as the purchasing power of the dollar declines, the big problem will be whether the unprecedented growth in mortgage credit and other factors, especially the balance-of-payments difficulties, may produce new causes for concern in the year 1965 as well as 1966.

A Consensus Can Become Boring

WASHINGTON—The cheeriest news of the week is the forecast that the consensus from which most people are now suffering will be over fairly soon.

Consensus is the 1964 catchword to describe the fact that nearly two out of every three voters didn't want Barry Goldwater to be President. It is the acorn from which giant mandates grow. To the extent that it denotes a harmonizing of differences, it's not a bad thing to have around. To the extent that it denotes conformity and political lassitude, it can be very boring.

ACCORDING to Arthur Schlesinger Jr., a compulsive historian of the Presidency, President Johnson is a "politician of consensus," as distinguished from Andrew Jackson, Theodore Roosevelt, and Harry Truman, who were "politicians of purpose," meaning combative.

But Schlesinger, in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News and World Report, goes on — "Now, the time may come—in fact, I believe it will come rather soon—when Lyndon Johnson will have to choose between being a politician of consensus and a politician of purpose. I doubt whether he can hold together forever the broad spectrum of people who voted for him this time. At some point he is going to have to make a decision which will alienate one or another element in the 1964 election."

BY THE end of the campaign, Mr. Johnson had taken on, in political terms, the form of a giant manta ray, extending his wings to cover just about every section of the body politic except for a little strip down the right hand edge. The man was practically inescapable. A good, healthy dissenter suddenly found Johnson agreeing with him in an exasperatingly kind way.

But this consensus, which had its desirable qualities as an alternative to irreconcilable division, had a potentially undesirable quality as a consensus in favor of the status quo.

WE'VE had just about all the consensus we can stand lately without drooping into conformity. We've had a consensus on Beatles, and Bonanza, and goofy dancing, and structurally unsound coiffures, and stretch pants, and textured feminine hosiery, water skiing, the need to possess outdoor motors, Tom Jones, the right to read Henry Miller (construed by some puritans as a moral obligation to read Henry Miller), disrespectful young ones, destructively young ones, permissiveness in child rearing, television in airlines, Italian shoes for men, pastel telephones, and dual headlights.

We do not need and probably could not stand a permanent consensus between management and labor on wage levels, between farmers and consumers on food price levels, between President and Congress on legislative programs, between George Murphy and Paul Douglas, Governor Rockefeller and Richard Nixon, Dwight Eisenhower and Dean Burch, the American Medical Association and the AFL-CIO, or even Hubert Humphrey and Lyndon Johnson.

WHAT THE country needs is a good old-fashioned fight under traditional conditions, nobody really getting into an uncontrollable rage, everybody willing to shake hands when the fight is settled and go on to fight about something else.

Probably the lesson of our recent experience is that a consensus ought to be arrived at only after a fair fight (which we didn't have this year), but that the end result of a fair fight ought to be a consensus. That way we can have a kind of glowing unity and lead lives much more interesting than they could possibly be in a state of perpetual agreement about everything.

China—Bigger Boom

Newspaper Enterprise Association
DR. RALPH E. LAPP, the nuclear physicist whose family fallout shelter was destroyed by a forest fire a few years ago, has come up with some cheering advice on how to make the Red Chinese all fall down and go boom.

He points out that China, with its huge population and area and absence of concentrated industrial centers, could absorb more punishment than could be inflicted by America's relatively small missile-borne nuclear warheads.

What we need for real deterrent value, he says, is a big, "dirty" bomb—one that could wipe out many of China's 700 million people and their food supply.

Although Dr. Lapp, who is sincerely interested only in atomizing as many Chinese as efficiently as possible, does not say this, there are also sound economic reasons for turning back the clock of civilization.

Big bombs require big bombers to carry them. This would mean a new lease on life for the manned bomber fleet. We might have to start building new ones. That would mean contracts, employment, pay checks.

LBJ's 5,000 Margin Here Registered in 34 Precincts

I, P-T Political Editor

ONE OF THE MOST dramatic statistics in the anatomy of the Long Beach vote for president Nov. 3 is that President Johnson won his edge here in only 34 precincts of the 745 total.

And he won that margin in a tightly-knit pattern of precincts in predominantly Negro residential areas.

A study of individual precinct voting shows, in other words, that without the almost unanimous pro-Johnson vote of Negroes reacting to Sen. Barry Goldwater's stand against the Civil Rights Bill of 1964, Long Beach might have registered a standoff or even a Goldwater victory in presidential balloting.

The drama of the figures heightens in their coincidence. Unofficial Long Beach returns made Johnson the winner 76,530 to 71,534 for a 4,996 vote margin.

The 34 precincts giving Johnson their vote by three to one, or more than 70%, totaled 6,141 for Johnson and 1,150 for Goldwater for an LBJ edge of 4,991—just five votes off the total Long Beach margin for Johnson.

THIS CITY'S polarized vote also turned up in the Goldwater count. There were 14 precincts which gave the Arizona Senator 70% or more of their vote. Eleven of the 14 fit like a bull's-eye over the Bixby Knolls and Los Cerritos areas, running generally from Bixby Road north to the north edge of Virginia Country Club and from the Flood Control Channel east to Orange Avenue. The other three Goldwater-landslide precincts were in Park Estates. While these 14 were voting from 71 to 81% for Barry, there were 14 others voting 94% for LBJ. One of these LBJ precincts, at 2052 Lewis Ave., went 275 to 5 for Johnson. All of the 14 are in the so-called Poly High section of town, ranging generally from Long Beach Boulevard east to Cherry Avenue and from Tenth Street north to Hill Street. Highest vote Goldwater got in the 14 precincts of this generally-Negro area was 29 votes in Precinct 218, but Johnson got 207 there.

BESIDES THESE 14 which were giving Johnson 94%, there were 20 other precincts marking for Johnson at 76% or better. About half of these also fell in the Poly High section and the rest were in the west side Lincoln Village area, ranging from Anaheim Street north to Wardlow Road and from the west city limits east to the Flood Control.

Biggest Goldwater precinct was Number 359 at 4244 Chestnut Ave., 24 to 103 or 81%. Precinct 457 at 3054 Pine Ave. went for Barry 35 to 149 for 80%.

Decent Citizens, Not Crackpots

EDITOR:

This letter is in defense of the Citizens for Decent Literature.

Why should a decent group of citizens be labeled "crackpots" or "would be censors" just for making an effort to wake up responsible adults? Granted, the world is full of filth and rubbish—movies reek of it—the beaches flaunt it—modesty is a word without meaning. The majority of parents today recognize this condition and make a feeble effort to keep their homes and children on a "middle of the road" course. But is that all it takes to make a moral citizen or a future leader? Why should we have to keep a barrier between home and community? Is it wrong to try and clean up our city?

If we start getting rid of the trash on the magazine racks we could very well find the dress and attitude of our people improving—the crime rate lowering.

The only argument I have with this group is their limited stand of keeping this material from "children." This is fine, but better yet keep it out of the sight and consequently more out of the minds of society as a whole.

These people are taking their first, faltering steps towards a better community... let's give them a supporting hand.

Election Should Not Be 'Tail' Tale

EDITOR:

After his election to national office as U. S. Senator, which now involves such matters as our very survival as a civilization and such lesser problems as water contamination as well as water shortages; air pollution; soil despoilation; inadequate and insufficient classrooms; over-crowded colleges; blighted cities; Frankenstein traffic and transit snarls; great pockets of substandard living conditions; juvenile and adult delinquency; racial tensions; the danger of brush-fire wars and social upheavals in dozens of sensitive world-spots, etc., etc., Mr. Murphy is quoted in the I-P.T. (11/8/64) as follows—

"Sure the issues are important but people make up their minds by the impression you make on them... I was anxious to let the public see us side by side. I was amazed how short Mr. Salinger looked beside me, and I knew then I had the advantage."

I guess Mr. Murphy would have lost the advantage if his opponent was seven feet tall!

If Mr. Murphy is correct in this summation, what a sad commentary on the voting citizenry!

Says Governor More Unpopular

EDITOR:

Is Governor Brown's throne tottering?

Evidence of his insecurity is clearly shown by: 1. The defeat of his senatorial appointee Salinger, by approximately 200,000 votes, 2. His pet Proposition 13 took a licking by at least a 3 to 2 margin. At the same time President Johnson ran away from Goldwater.

Governor Brown was the best man for the job in the last two state elections. A monument to his achievements is the Feather River Water project.

He is becoming increasingly unpopular of late due largely to his dictatorial attitude; his indifference to the greatest cause of respiratory irritation; the oil companies' refineries; dirty World War II method of cracking crude oil; his wish to have capital punishment abolished; his advocacy to have "the right to bear arms" taken away from private citizens; his inability to force a stricter control on harmful drugs.

If Governor Brown insists on trying to override the will of the majority of the voters by advocating Supreme Court action to declare it unconstitutional for the people to make their choice; then I believe he is committing political harikari.

Political affiliations neither make a person a paragon of virtue or a vicious demagogue. We can't expect an angel but we won't tolerate a devil.

Negro Leader Appeals to Racial Pride

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson's column is written today by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Buoyed up by their vindication at the polls, Negro leaders are now quarreling over what to do next to advance their cause. Some are calling for a return to the streets. Others believe they should demonstrate less and do more to raise Negro standards.

Outside of the South, the voters overwhelmingly repudiated the white extremists. Yet Negro extremists have seized upon the election results as justification for their militancy. They are now back upon their soap boxes, crying for riots and revolution.

It is no secret that a few Communists have managed to infiltrate the civil rights movement. Four members of the Freedom delegation that sought to represent Mississippi at the Democratic convention, for example, were known to have Communist ties.

They raised shrill objections to the slightest compromise, seemed more interested in stirring up trouble than in settling any issues. Now they, and others like them, are trying to incite violence again in Harlem. Still others, a few decades less shrill, are preaching non-violent revolution.

Among them, Bayard Rustin, not a Communist, and the backstage organizer of the 1963 march on Washington, is calling upon Negroes to enlist the support of poor whites in a "social revolution."

"If we can't win alone against the entire white power structure," he shouted at a recent Washington rally, "We must prove to our poor white brothers that our cause is their cause."

ALREADY he has set up a $5,000 pilot project to work among the poor whites in the Chicago tenement section. He is also trying to raise money for a similar project in the impoverished Appalachia area.

Most responsible Negro leaders want to take advantage of the election gains to build a political power base, which would give the Negroes a greater voice in government affairs.

Negroes won seats for the first time in the state legislatures of Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Tennessee. New York elected seven Negro assemblymen, three Negro state senators, and a Negro Supreme Court judge. Michigan sent nine Negroes to its House, two to its Senate. The state also elected two Negroes to the U.S. House of Representatives.

In Massachusetts, Negro Edward W. Brooke was re-elected state attorney general by a 900,000 landslide, thus emerging as the biggest Republican vote-getter in the state. He is already being mentioned as 72-year-old Sen. Leverett Saltonstall's most likely successor.

NOTING THESE gains, Harlem Congressman Adam Clayton Powell has urged fellow Negroes: "The civil rights movement in America should now shift emphasis and area of involvement toward (a) greater political activity and (b) economic development for the Negro masses."

Perhaps the most heartening development has been a new appeal to racial pride. Don Warden, president of the Afro-American Association, has sounded the keynote with a challenge to Negroes to get off the welfare rolls and stand on their own feet.

"The Chinese came to America; they found us at the bottom and they moved up. We're still at the bottom," he recently declared.

"WE MUST open up a gigantic war on dropouts and flunkouts," pleaded Warden, "if we're going to save the race. You cannot pass laws to make people want to learn. You cannot pass laws to require people to obtain economic skill. It's a problem of motivation."

"I want to know how many more factories we have put up every year. I want to know how many dropouts and flunkouts we have reduced every year. I want to know how much crime we have reduced every year. I want to know how many people we have taken out of public housing every year. So that I can hold these statistics up to my race and say, 'Look, we're making progress.'"

Declining Health May Spur De Gaulle's Anti-U.S. Goals

WASHINGTON — International analysts believe that General de Gaulle's health is worsening and that he is in haste to complete his Grand Design.

He seems to be moving towards bilateral agreements with Russia and against the interests of the United States and his other Western allies.

France may be under pressure from Russia. To hypothesize, if Russia has or could place a atomic missile (trained against France) in secret locations in North Africa, General de Gaulle's anxiety would be justified.

KELLY

He has often been compared to Prince von Bismarck, the political genius, who balanced power by striving for strong bilateral treaties, and who had little faith in the future.

France has little military power. But under De Gaulle's leadership, by power balancing manipulation plus economic strength, France's international influence has been greatly increased.

France seems pleased with the development of the Chinese nuclear bomb. France also dealt the United States a blow when she recognized Red China and called for the neutralization of Indo-China when the United States is spending lives and national treasure to preserve South Vietnam's independence.

General de Gaulle can destroy NATO. The United States and the other NATO allies must have our costly complex of installations on French soil which include U. S. Air Force Bases, Army depots, communication facilities, tank farms, pipe lines, and many other vital facilities. Nearly all the top NATO commands are in France. French installations are necessary to the Joint Allied communications and air defense.

GENERAL de Gaulle believes the European Communist bloc is fragmenting.

Although France has been protected by the U. S. nuclear shield for many years, De Gaulle evidently wishes to see the United States leave Europe, believing that France can be the controlling European power.

President de Gaulle, Premier Pompidou and Foreign Minister Couve de Murville have made ominous statements against NATO (if the U. S. concept of the multilateral force is pursued); Germany; the Common Market; and Britain, if she pulls out of the Anglo-French supersonic passenger plane project.

THE British Labor Government has already denied a rumor that they entered a "deal" with the U. S. involving scuttling the plane.

General de Gaulle blames the U. S. for many things including: Suez crisis interference; refusal to give France all atomic secrets and weapons; lack of courtesy to de Gaulle; and his conviction that the U. S. wishes to dominate Europe.

No Polls Better Than LBJ In Predicting His Election

The I. P.T. Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The major pollsters took bows for accuracy in predicting the election, but none came any closer to forecasting the outcome than President Johnson himself.

When Vice President-elect Hubert Humphrey flew down to the LBJ ranch to spend E-Day plus one as the President's guest, his host seated him by the fireplace and handed him a large piece of cardboard. It was one of those state-by-state tally sheets put out for television viewers on the night of the election.

The President had correctly picked the outcome in every state of the Union and the District of Columbia.

LBJ had also come very close to forecasting the exact number of seats the Democrats picked up in Congress.

WHEN A NEW senator walks down the center aisle of the chamber to be sworn in, custom calls for the senior senator from his state to act as escort. There'll be some forced smiles when the new senators from Arizona and California are sworn in. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., won office by defeating the political protégé of Arizona's senior senator, the venerable Carl Hayden, Democrat. And the frost is already on between California's Senator-elect George Murphy, and fellow Republican, Sen. Tom Kuchel, who declined to offer open support in the race against Sen. Pierre Salinger.

THERE WAS a plan to send Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey to Europe for a look-see at the new Labor government in Great Britain and maybe a talk with France's President Charles de Gaulle. The trip has been scotched because Britain's Prime Minister, Harold Wilson, is coming to Washington for chats with President Johnson. Things being pretty sticky with de Gaulle these days, it was thought best to keep any dealings with him in normal diplomatic channels, at least until President Johnson decides he wants a face-to-face confrontation with the difficult Frenchman.

If Humphrey makes any trips before inauguration the likeliest bet is a quickie to South America where he is extremely popular and where the American image could stand some bolstering.

FOR THE FIRST time in modern political history the Democratic Party may purge two of its members from the House of Representatives because they did not support the party's presidential candidate.

The two representatives are John Bell Williams of Mississippi and Albert Watson of South Carolina.

Democratic liberals argue that the only way to keep party members in line is to kick them out of the party when they have so actively campaigned against the party choice for president.

The same problem arose in 1948 when a group of segregationist Democrats walked out of the national convention to form the Dixiecrat Party led by Sen. Strom Thurmond, who recently switched parties. "At that time," one Democratic House member said, "we couldn't kick those guys out because there were so few Democrats in Congress, but now we have such a large majority we don't really need them."

The Democrats will have a 295 to 140 majority in the House when the 89th Congress commences—the largest since 1936.

WHEN PRESIDENT JOHNSON won the election by the overwhelming majority of 62%, Democrats cautioned him against taking it as "a personal mandate."

They said it was a rejection of Sen. Barry Goldwater rather than an endorsement of President Johnson. And they are probably right because a year ago the Gallup Poll showed that President Kennedy had a 60% rating over Sen. Goldwater.

The Gallup Poll of Oct. 28, 1963 showed President Kennedy rated at 63% over Goldwater in the East and Midwest; a 56% rating in the Far West; but Goldwater led Kennedy in the South by, 55 to 45%.

'TROOPS' AIR GRIEVANCES

Arts Junta Plans Revolution

By JIM MELTON

There's a cultural revolution brewing in Long Beach. The arts junta plotting the revolution held its first meeting Saturday in Edgewater Inn.

Like all good revolutionists, the generals of the local cultural troops presented their grievances against the status quo before deciding to make a "cultural attack." Some ideas for the offensive were presented with lists of unsatisfactory conditions, but the strategy was left to later meetings.

THE GROUP is called the Long Beach Arts Council. "The audience itself is our problem," said Harvey Waggoner of the Long Beach Civic Light Opera. "People are getting tired of the jam in the parking lot, the long walk to the Municipal Auditorium, the inconvenience of getting to your seats, the bad seats we are forced to sell, and antiquated restroom facilities, the poor acoustics and then, the problem of getting back to the parking lot and the jam getting out."

He concluded: "We need a cultural arts complex in Long Beach and I believe that through the Arts Council we can accomplish this."

MARVIN CLOYD, representing the Chamber of Commerce, spoke of the enemy within: "We need a pride in the cultural activities in Long Beach and we need to foster that pride."

He said the people of Long Beach were not thinking of cultural pride when they went to the polls this month. They failed to pass a library bond issue.

Pat Brown of Magnolia Theater and Fred Black, city art director, warned that the enemy outside should not be forgotten.

"Much of the money that is available in the Long Beach area is being siphoned off by the larger, more well-known counterparts in Los Angeles," Black said.

"This is reasonable," he admitted, "but it's not because there is more talent in other areas. It's just that the different groups are not getting their messages through to the public in this area."

MRS. BROWN SAID, "We are the one group who have made it very plain that we want a professional theater group in Long Beach. We are a large city and it is amazing that we don't have a successful professional theater group such as those that numerous other cities our size have.

"People are going to outlying areas to spend their entertainment dollar rather than looking for entertainment here in Long Beach."

"Perhaps what is missing is that we have not created an image," she concluded.

HARRY KRUSZ, Chamber of Commerce secretary, is a general who fights similar battles on many fronts.

He told the cultural leaders they should not let financial troubles discourage them, that this has been the history of the arts.

"We cannot gripe our way to success," he told the cultural army. "We must sell cultural arts to the people. We have to be ingenious enough to give the type of programs that will sell."

THERE WAS general agreement with Krusz's statement: "Communications is the major problem of most of the organizations represented here today."

Laura Killingsworth of Long Beach Music Council summed it up when she said: "We now recognize that the problem is communications and support from the community. We are all the same ones that attend other gatherings in this city... We don't get to the people, we just get to ourselves. We have to sell a product and that product is culture."

One suggestion was to bring in mercenaries to fight the battle — hire professional publicists.

"This would be one way to overcome the communications problem," Black said.

Another problem was lack of cooperation between the cultural forces. The council hopes its joint effort will solve that. Regular meetings will be held, study groups set up, dates coordinated, mailing and phone lists set up, funds raised, facilities promoted and above all, an information service established.

The cultural revolution has a promising start with broad support theater, music and art groups, colleges and schools, City Council, Chamber of Commerce, City Library and the public.

They have agreed on the need for action. Now all they need is a battle plan that will enlist the public in their campaign.

Sleigh Ride Planned for Yule Singers

Christmas carolers will cruise Lakewood streets in a truck-mounted "snow sleigh" next month, visiting hospitals, shut-ins, shopping centers and residential neighborhoods.

Signups for the sleigh, available to Lakewood organizations, will start Monday at the recreation office in the City Administration Building, 5050 Clark Ave.

THE SLEIGH will be operated from Dec. 11 through Dec. 24. To reserve the sleigh, organizations must have a minimum of 20 carolers. The maximum is set at 35 for children, and 30 for teen-agers and adults.

Recreation Supt. Dave Mills said the sleigh gives organizations an opportunity to "add a touch of human warmth, in keeping with the spirit of the season, to hospitals and shut-ins."

Santa Parades Start Saturday

By Fred Taylor Kraft

Travel Editor

The annual go-around of brilliant parades heralding the Christmas season starts next weekend with well over a million persons expected to view six top events of this kind in the Southland during November. Others are scheduled for next month.

While Santa arrives in all of them, each is different in its way.

For instance, in Hollywood on the evening of Nov. 25—Thanksgiving Eve—more than 100 movie and television celebrities will escort Santa in the annual Santa Claus Lane Parade of the Stars along Hollywood Boulevard, "Main Street of the Stars." Top radio and video announcers will broadcast commentaries over a p.a. system along the route.

HOLLYWOOD'S mammoth parade starts at 7:30 o'clock. Stars who have appeared in past parades include Art Linkletter, Nick Adams, Virginia Mayo, Lawrence Welk, Jayne Mansfield, Caesar Romero and Danny Thomas.

Another tremendous crowd pleaser—rated one of the top two November events in the nation by the National Association of Travel Organizations, and the West's top children's procession—is the Mother Goose Parade starting at 2 p.m. Nov. 22 at El Cajon, near San Diego.

The El Cajon event, made up mostly of giant animated Mother Goose and fairy tale floats, is arranged by a non-profit association strictly for the benefit of children. That's why it is held on Sunday, when school is out.

Also in the parade will be 25 bands, more than a dozen horse and rider units, clowns, and such Hollywood notables as Lassie and the Lone Ranger.

STILL ANOTHER PARADE that draws heavily from all over the Southwest each year is the Long Beach All Western Band Review, to be held at noon on Saturday, Nov. 28.

In this all-music procession, Long Beach greets the winter tourist season—but Santa will be along for the ride. Up to 70 top school marching bands with drum majors and majorettes will participate along Ocean Boulevard, each playing its own concert for the course of the parade.

West Arcadia's Band Review, with 44 high school marching bands and majorette drill teams, begins at 10 a.m. next Saturday.

San Diego holds its Giant Balloon Parade, with huge balloons in shapes of fairytale and toyland figures, at 6 p.m. Nov. 23. Some of the floats will be 14 feet tall. Yes, Santa will be there, too.

Covina's 14th annual Christmas Parade, featuring "Christmas in Other Lands," starts at 7 p.m. Nov. 30 with 3,000 participants. The floats will be lighted, and so will the bandmen's instruments and accessories.

GOP to Hail New Citizens

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

New American citizens will be honored at an officers installation luncheon of Los Angeles Republican Women Federated Tuesday noon at the Hawaiian Restaurant.

Vito Romans, instructor in citizenship at Long Beach City College, will introduce two new citizens, Margrit Compton, formerly of Bremen, Germany, and Angela Wolfram, who came from Mexico City.

Mrs. Wilbur Drowne, past president of the club, will install a slate of new officers headed by Mrs. Melvin Hughes, president. A gift of books for the Mamie Eisenhower Library project will be presented to the college.

'NONE DARE' AUTHOR

Dr. Julian Foster, author of "None Dare Call It Reason," a critique of the controversial best seller "None Dare Call It Treason," will speak at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Room 502, Art Building, Long Beach City College.

Dr. Foster's subject, "How to Write Political Pornography," will include a discussion of his critique and the attacks which have been made on him since its publication. Dr. Foster charged that "Treason" author John Stormer made many errors and false statements in his book.

The speaker is a native of England, an Oxford graduate with B.A. and M.A. degrees, earned his Ph. D. in political science at UCLA and now is assistant professor of political science, California State College, Fullerton.

GOODNIGHT TALK

Mrs. Dorothy Goodnight, president of the California Federation of Republican Women and a board member of the national federation, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday for the Evening Division, Republican Women's Club, in the O'Donnell Conference Room, 3350 Olive Ave.

Mrs. Goodnight's topic: "We Are Republicans, Period." Members and friends are welcome.

Ben Burrell, who with his wife, the former Elizabeth Giannini, lived in Long Beach for 20 years, has been elected a Justice Court Judge in Chino, unseating an incumbent judge by a two-to-one majority.

Rites Due for Victim of Crash

Service for Harold Francis Cormack, killed early Saturday in a flaming car crash, is scheduled Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. in Hunter Mortuary.

Cormack, 35, of 3303 Traford St., was found in the charred remains of his car just before 1 a.m. He was the city's 53rd traffic fatality this year.

Witnesses told police Cormack's car was westbound on South Street approaching Brayton Avenue when it swerved into a parked vehicle. Both cars burst into flames.

Cormack had been enclosed in a cast except for his arms and a leg, having been injured three years ago in an off-road accident. He had been living with a brother, Albert.

Also surviving are two sons, Harold and David; two daughters, Marian and Diane; his mother, Mrs. Mabel Cormack; six other brothers, Neil, Daniel, Curtis, Lee, Glenn and Lawrence; and two sisters, Mrs. Edith Hanson and Mrs. Claudia Whitwell.

Burrell, a 17-year resident of Chino with his family, served 13 years with the California Highway Patrol and once was a correctional officer at the California Institution for Men. Burrell was successful as a write-in candidate in the June primary.

Judge and Mrs. Burrell were 1937 graduates of Jordan High School.

MURPHY FOR GOV.

Al Palladino, of Norwalk, chairman of the George Murphy for Senate campaign in the 19th Congressional District, announced Saturday he is raising a trial balloon for Murphy for Governor in 1966.

and hopes it turns into a boom.

Palladino says he has interested a few Murphy workers in the idea and has set up a Murphy for Governor billboard in front of his home at 13722 S. Pioneer Blvd., but admits he has not discussed the idea with Senator-elect Murphy.

ROOSTING ON FREEWAY

Guinea Hens Lay an Egg

A flock of guinea hens picked the worst possible place Saturday afternoon to escape their poultry-truck cage.

When Highway Patrolman J. S. Carter found them, 10 surviving fowl were huddled on the center divider of the Harbor Freeway. At least five others were killed in the 65-m.p.h. traffic.

Carter and Deputy Garland Smith of the county pound shooed the birds off the freeway as wildly careening motorists did double takes.

MAUDE CELEBRATES 100th BIRTHDAY

Maude Angel celebrates her 100th birthday Saturday in Signal Hill Convalescent Home. Earlier, she had told Mrs. Raymond Crocker, the director of nurses (right) who was helping her get ready to greet well-wishers, "You're fussing too much!" But it was Maude's day to be fussed over, and more than 40 guests wished her happy birthday. She was born in Illinois, where her father was a congressman in the Theodore Roosevelt era. Her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Van Gundy of Seal Beach, recalls Mrs. Angel's many stories about her career, before the turn of the century, as a newspaper reporter covering Fairhaven, Wash., on a bicycle. Mrs. Angel, a widow for 57 years, lived alone until she was well into her 90s. She came to Long Beach in 1947, moved to the rest home in May.

2 Booked in Theft of Imports

Two harbor-area men were arrested Saturday and charged with stealing $8,000 worth of tape recorders from a shipment of imports.

Booked at Harbor Division jail in San Pedro were Rex Edward Thwaites, 29, of 909 Wilmington Blvd., a salesman, and Joseph Paul Calise, 23, of 1722 W. 253rd St., Lomita, a longshoreman.

They were arrested by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, U. S. Customs Service Officers and Los Angeles police.

Thwaites and Calise were accused of stealing the recorders from a container at Berth 188 in Wilmington a week earlier. Officers said they were arrested after an attempt to sell one of the recorders.

The men are expected to be arraigned Monday before a U. S. commissioner in Los Angeles.

Strike Grounds Japan Air Lines

TOKYO, Sunday (AP)—Japan Air Lines today canceled its overseas flights — including flight 800 to San Francisco and flight 860 to Los Angeles — because of a pilots' strike.

The pilots' union, which began the strike with sporadic walkouts Thursday, accused the air line of violating an agreement not to hire additional foreign crew members.

Modern Dental Plates

Aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques," used in the construction of dental plates, Dental Science has followed a "progressive" path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than those possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples of modern dental plates, upper, lower, and partials. GOOD dental plates need not be expensive. THE COST IS SMALL.

Fewer Fleeing Cuba to Florida in Boats

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Arrivals of Cuban refugees in boats, which had averaged one person every four or five hours, have slowed to a trickle. So far this month, only three have registered at the Cuban refugee center. In October, only 47 arrived, compared with more than 100 during each of the first nine months, including 230 in July. The decrease is attributed to the exile colony to unfavorable weather conditions and increased vigilance by Fidel Castro forces. The Castro government, it was pointed out, recently nationalized all boats. Anyone using a boat must register before going out.

World Travel Show Ends Today

Sponsors of the United Arab Republic exhibit at the World Travel Show winding up at the Long Beach Arena today, are not the least bit disturbed that one item on display is entirely out of character with other exotic artifacts on display at the booth. Standing in the middle of an ornate Arabian brass "coffee table" is a tall sweepstakes trophy presented to M. Fouad Shadi, consul for tourism information for the U.A.R., for having won the "best-of-show" honors earlier this week.

F. H. "Skip" Creger, show-producer, presented the trophy to Shadi as a climax to the show's activities on Veterans Day.

The unique exhibit won the top award following the judging by a panel of four Southern California experts on travel. Among the 207 exhibits currently on display at the ocean front arena were three other exhibits catering to the interests of the travel-minded public which won runner-up awards for their elaborate displays. These included the displays by Trans-World Airlines—second place; the Jamaica Tourist Board—third place; and the Japanese Joint Exhibit—fourth place.

Honorable mention awards were made to the exhibitors for South Africa, France, Mexicana Air Lines and the State of Nevada.

An award for the display of the best poster among more than 2,700 colorful posters displayed at the 97,000 square foot travel industry show was presented to Japan Air Lines Co.

Show-producer Creger presented trophies to representatives of the winning exhibitors following the judging by a panel of travel experts headed by Mrs. Florence Edgerly, president of the American Society of Travel Agents, (Southern California Chapter), and the travel editors from three major Southern California newspapers, Elmer Baxter, Los Angeles Herald-Examiner; Jerry Hulse, Los Angeles Times; and Fred Kraft, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, and Garden Grove Evening News.

The show featuring hundreds of travel theme exhibits, continuous motion pictures in three theatres, and live entertainment from three stages will ring down the curtain today.

The show hours for the final day are noon until 8 p.m., Creger said.

Meet 'Delivery Boys' of Navy

By ROBERT C. MILLER

ATSUGI, Japan (UPI) — "We have done so much for so long with so little that we can now do practically anything with nothing."

This official slogan tells the story of the delivery boys of the Navy, the fliers of squadron VR-21 who still fly around the world in those old-fashioned airplanes with the propellers.

When an earthquake and tidal wave hit Alaska, VR-21 got the first plane into Kodiak with Seabees and emergency equipment for restoring power and light.

When Guam was razed by typhoon Karen, VR-21 brought in the first technicians from Hawaii to restore communications.

TWO SPECIAL airplanes are held in constant readiness for the commander in chief of the Pacific and the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet.

Because the squadron's home base is in Hawaii it is called the "Pineapple Airline" and it carries everything from Congressmen to fish, boiler tubes, explosive, canned beans and essential personnel. Everyone else is referred to as "trash."

But whether it's Congressmen or fish, the Pineapple Airline guarantees safe delivery. During more than 30,000 hours of flying, no passenger has ever been killed or injured.

The bright and shiny DC6Bs of VR-21 are the tramps of the world's airlines. Whenever its planes take off from Barber's Point Naval Air Station here, the pilots carry maps and navigation instructions for every friendly airport in the world on which the gray and white planes are capable of landing.

Chief Lawrence A. Larson of Ewa Beach, Hawaii and Medical Lake, Wash., has been to Nairobi, Christchurch and Anchorage. Radioman Thomas E. Alston of Colorado Springs has a coffee mug engraved with the 39 foreign ports of call he has visited while attached to the squadron. And mechanic Jackie G. Foster of Wheaton, Ill., says he has landed at more foreign airports than his father-in-law, a TWA captain flying out of Chicago.

*****

"WE'RE THE delivery boys of the Navy," explained James McIntyre, South Deerfield, N.H. "We carry the mail to the fleet, and no crew has the slightest idea of its complete itinerary once the plane takes off from Barber's Point."

But "unfortunately for us," said Ensign Jerome J. O'Brien of Bala-Cynwood, Pa., "we are usually into and out of the places before anyone knows we've been there."

Among its lesser claims to fame is the squadron's creation of the "Adak National Forest" in the Aleutians. It airlifted all the trees that comprise the forest—six tiny pines that front the administration building of the Adak airport.

HONOR WYNN AMONG TOP GOLF WRITERS

Jerry Wynn, golf editor of the Independent, Press-Telegram for 11 years, will be honored in absentia at a dinner in San Francisco tonight as one of the six leading golf writers in the United States.

Wynn will receive a plaque for "best depth coverage" of professional and amateur tournaments. He was the only Southern California writer selected to receive an award by the United States Golf Handicaps, Inc. of Pebble Beach.

Runner-up to Wynn was Lawrence Robinson of the New York World Telegram and Sun. Judges were USGH representatives in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York, Chattanooga and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Irish Explode Early, Crush Spartans, 34-7

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Sophomore Nick Eddy bolted 61 yards for a score in the first 3½ minutes and unleashed a cascade of touchdowns for top-ranked Notre Dame Saturday that ended 10 losing years against Michigan State, 34-7.

It was the eighth straight victory for the Fighting Irish, headed possibly for their first perfect season and national championship since 1949.

Eddy smashed five yards for a second touchdown and ace quarterback John Huarte figured in the other two, a 13-yard pass to Joe Farrell and a 21-yard dash into the end zone after a fumble.

Huarte completed 11 of 17 passes for 193 yards. Six of his aerials went to favorite, target, end Jack Snow, and netted 114 yards. Snow also caught a conversion pass.

The fifth score came in the fading minutes on a two-yard plunge by Pete Andreotti after an intercepted pass.

Notre Dame's blitzing defense, the best in the country against rushing, allowed one Michigan State score—a 51-yard pass from Steve Juday to Gene Washington in the third period—and three times threw back Spartan drives inside their 20.

TWICE IN the first half Michigan State, winner of 11 of its 12 games and eight straight against Notre Dame, moved to the 15 only to be stopped. In the fourth period the Spartans smashed 57 yards to the Notre Dame six but could go no farther.

Spartans' halfback Dick Gordon, who gained over 100 yards in his last three games, netted 81 on 16 carries against the tough Irish defense. Juday hit on 12 of 26 passes.

Notre Dame gained 428 yards, 214 on the ground, to 302 by Michigan State.

It remained for a uniformed sheriff's deputy to make the best defensive play of the game.

In the fourth period of the nationally televised game, two reflexes and power to burn that made the difference in a 21-14 Long Beach victory. His name: Marvin Motley.

THE GUTTY freshman from Poly High, who packs 163 pounds of muscle and determination on a 5-8½ frame, obliterated the LBCC single-game rushing record with an incredible performance.

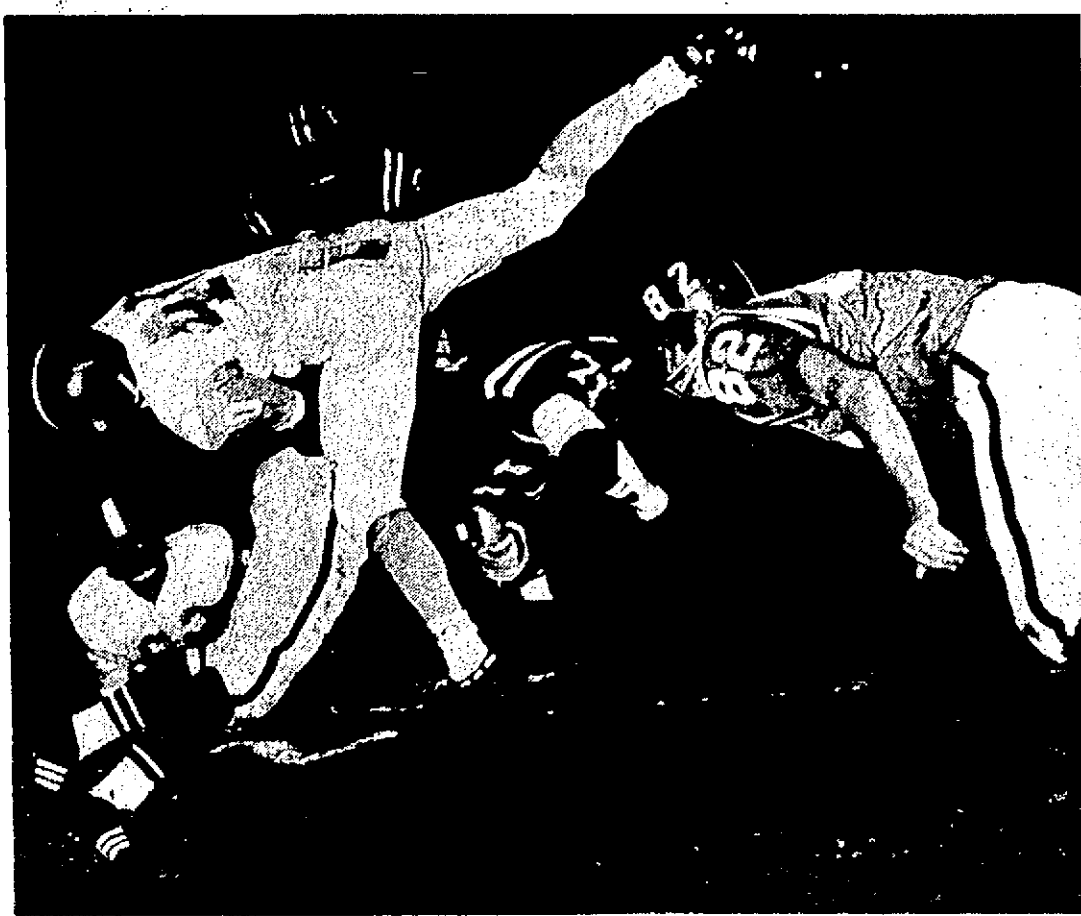

He carried the ball 25 times on bursts over guard, slants off tackle and sweeps of the ends. His yardage total was a phenomenal 300 yards, most in the nation this year and possibly a record for two-year schools.

More important, this splendid athlete scored the first two touchdowns and set up the third as the Vikings rolled to their eighth win in a row, and all but cinched the Metropolitan Conference title.

The game, which had begun as a duel between two defensive giants, suddenly turned into an explosion of offenses in the second half and the teams combined for a total offense of 684 yards.

El Camino was far from being the flat team many expected to come off a 15-3 loss to Bakersfield the week before.

Huskies Edge UCLA on Long Field Goal, 22-20

By JEROME HALL

UCLA Writer

SEATTLE — The UCLA football forces battled the Washington Huskies from shivering start to frigid finish Saturday in the most unfriendly football stadium in the world, but lost the game by the margin of a field goal.

The 22-20 victory for Washington threw the AAWU race for the Rose Bowl into further turmoil, for there now are four teams tied at the top of the standings and two more just a half-step behind.

Before a hostile gathering of 55,000 that jammed Washington Stadium on a clear day that was delightful for penguins and polar bears, the Bruins matched the Huskies muscle for muscle.

It was a duel of ground-gouging line plunges for Washington against aerial acrobatics of the Bruins' record-breaking quarterback, Larry Zeno.

The Bruin quarterback broke two long-standing UCLA records and tied another. He eclipsed Bob Waterfield's mark for most yards gained passing by accounting for 210 yards in the air against the Huskies to push his season total to 1,255.

ZENO ALSO eclipsed Paul Cameron's total-offense record. Zeno's career total is 3,490.

The Rose Bowl issue may be decided next weekend when UCLA opposes USC in the Coliseum in a televised game and when Oregon State opposes Oregon. All but Oregon (which is 1-1-1) have two wins, one loss in conference play.

But the vote of faculty athletic representatives may not come until after USC opposes Notre Dame in the Coliseum a week later. A Trojan upset in that one could be the deciding element in a season that has been a curiosity from the opening week.

49ers' Drive Stopped on 2 in Valiant Bid

By AL LARSON

Los Angeles State closed in on its first undefeated season and a trip to the Camellia Bowl by chilling Long Beach State, 7-0, Saturday night before 8,350 numbed fans in the Rose Bowl and a Southland TV audience.

Held scoreless for three periods, the Diablos came to life early in the final quarter to nail down their seventh win of the season. Jess Webber set up the 38-yard touchdown drive when he picked off Jerry Otterson's pass. Six plays later, halfback Ray Jones twisted 18 yards into the end zone.

Dunn Marteen kicked the extra point and L.A. was steaming towards its fourth CCAA victory with 14:17 remaining.

Moments later Otterson had his third pass of the night intercepted and L.A., like the Marines, had the situation well in hand.

The 49ers blew one golden scoring opportunity late in the second period when L.A. stopped Les Shy two yards short of the goal line and took over on downs.

LBCC's THREAT was set up when Don Skinner and Pat Brosnan crashed through to smother Richard Dick's kick and Leo Austin recovered on the Diablos' 19.

Shy cracked for three yards and then powered for 10 more and a first down on L.A.'s six. Dick Degan dug ahead for four yards on two carries. Shy lost one and with fourth and goal on the three, Les was halted by Don Davis and Walt Johnson.

It marked Long Beach's first shutout of the season and only second loss in nine starts. They ended conference play with a 3-2 record.

Otterson literally, as well as figuratively, had his coldest night of the campaign. He completed only seven of 22 passes for 63 yards while three were picked off. Jerry came into the game with only three interceptions in 135 attempts, but this record was doubled before the night was over.

Doctor Predicts Clay Will Be 'Stronger Than Ever'

SONNY LISTON ... 'Crushing' News

BOSTON (AP)—Cassius Clay was in excellent shape and resting quietly in a hospital Saturday after an operation for a hernia forced postponement of his schedule heavyweight title defense Monday against ex-champ Sonny Liston.

With the champ out of action for six or seven months, the promoters planned vaguely for a new date in Boston next April or May. They estimated they lost $75,000 and the closed TV circuit sponsors figured their red ink "bath" at between $100,000 and $400,000.

Liston, who lost the most of all—a chance to win back the title he lost last Feb. 25 when he sat in his corner at Miami Beach with an injured left shoulder—arranged to return to Denver almost immediately.

"I feel very bad," said Liston at a news conference (Continued Pg. C-5, Col. 1)

By JERRY WYNN

The fickle finger of fate pointed at Roger Davis one day last summer, and the voice said, "You, young fellow, must leave the world champion Chicago Bears to join the rinky-dink Rams."

"Why me," answered Roger plaintively. "What have I done?"
A first-string guard with the Bears for four seasons after an all-America apprenticeship at Syracuse, Davis had done nothing but perform admirably. But the Bears wanted Jon Arnett from the Rams, and the Rams demanded Roger Davis in return.

Today as the second-place tied Rams meet the last-place tied Bears, the happy new resident of Downey has reason to reflect on his good fortune.

How did you feel when you received the news of the trade, Roger?

"Actually, I didn't receive it directly. They just didn't use me in practice for a couple of days, so I knew something was up. When the news came, I was prepared for it."

What had been your opinion of the Rams?

"We had never lost to the Rams since I was with the Bears, and I guess we didn't think too much of them. You know, the Hollywood stuff that teams in the East attach to the Rams. They weren't one of the clubs we feared."

How can you explain the nosedive of the Bears this season?

"Injuries. Last year we went through the whole season without a key injury. This year they have had many. Last year the Bears had great spirit. But it is easy to have spirit when you're winning. I suppose things are different with them this year."

What kind of a man is George Halas?
"I always had great respect for him. He's a smart fellow. He started the league and still knows what he's doing. I don't think there is a player on the Bears who feels Halas is too old to coach."

The Rams always have suspected Halas of intimidating officials at Wrigley Field. Is that true?

"No. He just stressed to us the importance of winning games at home and making the home fans happy. We just always seemed to play better at home."

Would Johnny Morris be as good a receiver on a club which doesn't pass as much as the Bears?

"Yes. He is the finest all-around receiver in the league and a terrific guy. He and Mike Ditka are definitely the key men on the Bears."

How does the Ram offensive line this season compare with the Bears of last season?

"The Rams have better personnel and a much better running game."

Then why did the Rams lose so badly to the Bears in Chicago last month?

"The Bears were just hot that day, and we couldn't stop their passing. They played like they did last year."

Who is the toughest defensive tackle for you to block?

"Karras always was before this year. But now I've switched sides and get Roger Brown. So now he's the toughest. Both of them are great."

Most of the Rams live in the Valley. What brought you to Downey?

"Eddie Meador lives there and he helped find a place for me. Joe Carroll also lives there now and Gary Larson is in Whittier so we drive to practice together. I have my family (wife Glenda, daughter Lee Ann, 2; son Roger, 1) here and I guess we've found a home in California."

A former Bear in the home of the Golden Bears is Roger Davis.

BILLY WADE . . . Unbeaten

RAMS' PHILLIPS OUT

Jim Phillips, veteran end, was placed on the reserve list Saturday by the Rams because of injuries and Fred Whittingham was activated to replace him.

Phillips underwent surgery 10 days ago on an infected hand and attending physicians said it might be several more weeks before he could play. Whittingham has been with the Rams for two years but has never played for the club. He underwent a knee operation following the 1963 pre-season schedule and was put on the reserve list. He can play guard, defensive end and linebacker.

Rams Seek Bear Revenge at Coliseum

By JERRY WYNN

The last time the Rams saw Halas Their hearts were young and gay. But no matter how hard they tried Papa Bear spoiled their day.

The Rams engage the Chicago Bears at the Coliseum today at 1:05 in a game with a half-dozen revenge angles that do justice to a Hollywood backdrop.

You've heard before how the Rams have failed to beat the Bears since 1959, how they never have beaten Bill Wade, how Jon Arnett helped them fall on their faces in Chicago last month, how George Halas has out-snookered them at every turn.

It makes excellent copy for sportswriters, fine reading material and is a major reason why the Rams expect their largest crowd of the season (60,000) today.

But there is much more riding on today's game for the Rams than the revenge hoopla. A young team which has blown hot and cold, they have yet to come up to a big game as favorites and play up to that role. They are favored by 6½ points today.

This also will be an acid coaching test for young Harland Svare. He took the blame for the 38-17 loss to the Bears in Chicago. Today, he heads a team with a 5-3-1 record against a floundering 2-7 foe.

Lastly, a victory over the Bears would almost insure the Rams their first winning season since 1958, and put a head of steam on their hopes of waylaying the streaking Colts at the Coliseum next Sunday.

BUT ALL is easier said than done. Just as in their first game against the Rams, the Bears appear to be in better physical shape today than during most of the injury-ridden season. Doug Atkins and Ed O'Bradovich, their giant defensive ends, are expected to return to the lineup and linebacker Larry Morris is in top condition.

Another major factor in favor of Chicago is that they will be pitting their strength, the passing of Wade to Johnny Morris and Mike Ditka, against the Achilles Heel of the Rams, their weak pass defense.

Morris and Ditka have caught 126 passes between them compared to the entire 10-man Ram total of 111. They need only to catch four today to set a National Football League record for most receptions by two receivers on the same club.

RAM HOPES will rest on the ability of their defensive "Four Horses" to stamper Wade and the offensive heroics of their heralded Kiddie Corps of Lester Josephson, Bucky Pope and Bruce Gossett.

Capt. Frank Varichione is definitely out and Dick Bass is a doubtful performer. Lineups:

Elma Wins Preview Trot

By ERNIE MASON

The four-year-old trotting mare, Elma, atoned for her misstep of last week in a strong performance Saturday as she won the $15,000 Preview Trot at Hollywood Park, a prelude to next week's $50,000 Trotting Championship on closing day of the meeting.

While that performance undoubtedly will give her the favorite's role in next week's big event a couple of upstarts entered the picture and the trotting test at a mile and one-eighth should bring together a field where numerous horses will rate strong consideration.

Elma went the mile distance Saturday in 2:01, particularly good time in view of the 54-degree weather on top of a brisk wind that made for rather raw conditions.

JOHN SIMPSON stayed well back with her for the first half mile and didn't make a move until midway on the backstretch when he pulled from sixth position.

Elma collared Marco Hanover at the 15/16 pole and went on to win by three-quarters of a length. It was another good showing for Marco Hanover, the five-year-old Star's Pride trotter reined by Dick Buxton.

Also joining Marco Hanover in the picture for next week's big race was the three-year-old Speedy Rodney who won an earlier race Saturday in 2:01, catching the favored Mon Mite with a late burst of speed.

While the trotting leadership is still up for grabs, pending the racing of the classic, Meadow Skipper left no doubt that he's the pacing champion of the meeting when he won the featured $15,000 pace in a sensational 1:59 1/5, last quarter in 28 4/5 seconds. His long-awaited duel with Tarquinus never did come off as Tarquinus, driven by Dick Williams, a last-minute replacement for George Shaly, who couldn't get away from New York, broke stride shortly after the first turn and immediately dropped from contention.

Meadow Skipper never had any trouble after that as Earle Avery made his move at the three-quarter pole with him and breezed home by two lengths over Fly Fly Byrd who was the first to make a move in the seven-horse field in taking the lead from Pole Adios in the straightaway of the backstretch.

Sadair Frolics Home by 10 in Rich Garden State Stakes

Combined Wire Services

Sadair pulled away from the field in the stretch by an ever increasing margin to win the $301,700 Garden State Stakes by 10 lengths Saturday and smash the track record at Garden State Park.

With Jockey Manny Ycaza up, Sadair, owned by Mrs. M. B. Hecht of High Falls, N. Y., made a show of his rivals as he romped home in 1:41 flat for the mile and one-sixteenth race.

The time was two-fifths of a second faster than the old track record, and one and three-fifths seconds faster than the Garden State Stakes record of 1:42 3/5 set by Prince John in 1955.

That blazing stretch run which carried Sadair home ahead of Ford Stable's Royal Gunner, was worth $181,020 to Mrs. Hecht, the biggest winner's purse of the year.

Mrs. Ben Cohen's Hail to All was third in the field of 10 two-year-olds.

The crowd of 42,024 made Sadair the favorite and he paid $7.60, $3.40 and $2.40 across the board in winning his seventh race in 11 starts.

Royal Gunner, ridden by Bill Hartack, paid $3.60 and $2.80, while Hail to All, with Johnny Sellers up, returned $4.20.

POINT DU JOUR, a French import with only one previous stakes victory, toyed with a field of seven three-year-olds before scoring a four-length victory in the $55,600 Roamer Handicap at Aqueduct.

The winning time of 1:56 3/5 was only four-fifths of a second shy of the track record of 1:55 4/5 set by Divine Comedy in 1960. Point du Jour returned $6.60, $2.80 and $2.30 for the sixth triumph of his career in 17 starts. Trvkup paid $2.50 and $2.10, while Twice As Gay paid $2.40 to show.

NOW BUCK won his first stakes victory in capturing the $10,000-added Burlingame Stakes at Bay Meadows by 2 1/4 lengths ahead of Lucky Mel Jr. Triple Light was third in the field of nine 2-year-olds.

Now Buck was timed in 1:13 2-5 over the six furlongs on a heavy racing strip and paid $7.60, $4.60 and $4.20. Lucky Mel Jr. returned $7.60 and $5.60 and Triple Light $12.20.

Bengals Rip Cal Poly

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP) — Quarterback Billy Shaw ran for two touchdowns and engineered another scoring drive to lead the Idaho State Bengals to a 20-0 win over the Cal Poly Mustangs of San Luis Obispo in a non-conference football game.

MAGNOLIA OFFERING

'3 Penny Opera' Production Great

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

Bertold Brecht could hardly "buy" even an off-beat American production. "Three Penny Opera" is his lonely exile. The late great German playwright and innovator is "busting" out all over Southern California theaters.

In Hollywood at the Hartford and Actor's Theater Brecht's technique is nightly freeing the religious chronicle play in "Luther" and "A Man For All Seasons." In Seal Beach the racial play, "A Lie A Century Long," also benefits in technique and pure feeling from the Brecht influence.

But nowhere is Brecht seen in more splendid array than in Pat Brown's magnificent production of "The Three Penny Opera" masterpiece at the Magnolia. Let loose the superlatives for this presentation.

PAT BROWN is 'beside herself' in staging the John Gay "Beggars' Opera" derived classic and to my recollection nothing in recent Magnolia history equals its total effect. It is indeed a 'pyramiding combination' of the fortunate circumstances of ably executed song and staging.

The irresponsible Texas "raider" has captured some of our best theatrical fortresses, it is true, in pulling off to mix metaphors, another Texas-like "landslide." Torrance's Chapel Theatre which has ten or more of its superior El Camino College trained players now on show in the Long Beach-Seal Beach area is the chief victim of her gay plunder. But when the results yield such a crop of pros as Frank Vrooman-trained Fred West (Mr. Peachum), Ed Long (MacHeath—Mac The Knife), the beautiful Jeanne Appel (Polly Peachum), Rudy Medina (Reverend Kimball) and Ed Rice (Bob the Saw), then for the sake of excellent theatre all should be forgiven in raid—and the war that is bound to follow. (Betty Schroeder of Chapel permitting).

THIS ENTIRE bag of Chapel 'cut-throats' in this racy, bawdy musical merit equal billing with some of the Long Beachers — like Candida-ripped Ann Leverett (Mrs. Peachum) and well-fed Paul Lorenz as Tiger Brown, Sheriff and Police Commissioner. Miss Leverett makes her fall, statuesque Mrs. Peachum an excellent foil for husband Fred West's Peachum. By now all theatre-goers know that given an inch, Fred will mug a mile. But the man can sing well and is just right for period plays. As the apologetic, knee-bending, graft-seeking police chief, Lorenz also does a delightful comedy turn whether wearing Napoleonic costume or bulging through his anti-modern civilian clothes.

Naturally, the play belongs to Mac The Knife and Ed Long gives the superb performance for which he has become noted. He is a fine artist, wasted in the theatrical land of the neglected "pro"—Southern California. As a singer he croaks a song, but his croak has bite when he deliberately upsets the moral appellation and advises "first feed the face."

JEANNE APPEL is well cast as his girl, Polly, since her angelic beauty deceptively hides her guile revealed only in the satirical beauty of her song and that very funny duet with her rival, Maray Ayres (Lucy Brown) — Jealousy Duet.

Miss Ayres is an artist of the Lotte Lenya league and with a deep, gorgeous voice to match. Her playing, reinforced by the riotous contribution of Mac's Gang, Jan Angelino's bright Jenny and The Girls, recaptures the true flavor of Brecht, inspired by Kipling and Villon. A world where Chicago merges into London's Soho and John Gay's lovable rogues are fellow travelers of bootleggers and gangsters.

Brecht lashes out at bankers, but at least one banker in the audience liked it. There is nothing really violent or brutal in "Three Penny." The humor is great and it all ends with that majestically staged Mounted Messenger chorus. A chorus which opens the flood-gates of true, non-pious feeling to banker and beggar alike.

See it — or forever be doomed to the ho! ho! ho! nonsense of Bobby Darin masquerading Brecht and knifing lovable MacHeath.

Kurt Weill did music for Lorenz as Tiger Brown, Sheriff and Police Commissioner. Magnolia musical direction is by Joseph Enos.

Reds Flay China A-Test; See Rift as Wide as Ever

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet bloc charged Saturday other nations may seize Peking's atomic test as a pretext for spreading nuclear arms.

The criticism, written by World Peace Council President John Bernal of the University of London, was distributed as a loose-page insert in the November issue of "Problems of Peace and Socialism," a magazine printed in 18 languages with editorial offices in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Its publication apparently had the approval of the Kremlin.

Western observers said publication of the article, which originally was an Oct. 27 declaration, indicated that the talks between Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Kremlin leaders registered little progress in scaling the Sino-Soviet split.

"THE NUCLEAR test carried out . . . on Oct. 16 caused us deep regret and apprehension, those who have fought many years for a ban on nuclear tests forever," the Bernal article said.

"It led to radioactive pollution of the atmosphere and may be used by other states as a pretext for furthering the nuclear-arms race and the spread of atomic weapons."

The Journal also published a charge by East German Communist chief Walter Ulbricht that China caused a border conflict with the Soviet Union.

COMMUNIST China "starts one border conflict after another—first against India, then against the Soviet Union," Ulbricht said, according to "Problems of Peace and Socialism."

Diplomats reported another possible sign of conflict. They said neither Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland nor Bulgaria sent their ambassadors to the Moscow airport farewell for Chou Friday.

The diplomats said only the Roumanian ambassador appeared. It was not definitely known if the East German envoy appeared.

Moscow media remained silent Saturday on results of the Sino-Soviet talks. The silence spurred considerable speculation among diplomats and observers on the future course of Sino-Soviet relations.

COMMUNIST sources said that despite the apparent lack of progress on basic ideological differences between Moscow and Peking, Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Chou were believed to have called off or postponed a Dec. 15 meeting of 26 world Communist parties that could have erupted into a Sino-Soviet clash.

In another development the Soviet party newspaper Pravda Saturday published details of a move designed to liberalize Soviet farming. It called for more on-the-spot decisions, more material incentives to boost agricultural production and took a slap at former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's grand plans to boost corn growing.

Ford May Close Down on Weekend

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co., with 59,000 idled by strike or layoff, said Saturday it anticipated additional full-layoffing Monday and there was a possibility it will be knocked out of automobile production by the weekend.

The when and where of the next layoffs will be determined Monday morning, a Ford spokesman said.

The company blames 34,900 layoffs to strike by the United Auto Workers Union at seven plants, four or them key parts producers for Ford's far-flung auto-making complex. The strikes themselves have idled 24,100.

THE STRIKES were called Nov. 6 to support local-level demands for inclusion in at-the-plant working agreements which supplement the national contract on which Ford and the UAW reached accord Sept. 18.

Originally, the UAW struck nine of 11 plants without local-level pacts, but two have since settled. Both of these, however, were assembly operations and in no way relieve what the company says is parts starvation.

Unless strikes are ended, Ford said its 90-plant system will be down by next weekend, idling approximately 160,000 hourly rated workers.

WITH Local-level negotiations apparently stalemated, the company agreed Friday to a union request for a meeting of their national-level bargaining teams here Thursday.

Both sides, however, expressed hope settlements would make this top-rank session unnecessary.

The company said strikes and layoffs cut its auto production to 36,000 units and its truck output to 6,000 last week. The week before Ford said it built 50,000 to 55,000 cars and 10,000 trucks.

44 FIREMEN INJURED

One section of wall is down and another begins to fall as firemen battle an especially nasty blaze in five-story warehouse on Chicago's near South Side. Forty-four firemen were hurt, none seriously.

Top U.S. Officials Huddle on U.N.-Finances Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and other high officials held a strategy session Saturday on the fight over United Nations finances.

Afterward, informed sources said the United States is holding the door open to any solution in which the Soviets would pay enough money to cover their U.N. arrears, but will stand firm against any abrogation of the U.N. charter requirement on dues.

THE U. S. officials also reaffirmed an intention not to pledge an American contribution at the U.N. Technical Assistance and Special Fund meeting scheduled for Monday. Washington has decided not to promise funds for this volunteer operation until it sees how the broader struggle over U.N. assessments comes out.

The long-developing contest over U.N. financing is coming to a head shortly because the Soviets, under the charter's Article 19, stand to lose their General Assembly vote at the fall session opening Dec. 1.

Article 19 says any member two years in arrears on its dues shall lose its assembly vote. The Russians and some others are that far behind because they have refused to pay for U.N. peacekeeping operations. The United States says it is vital for U.N. constitutional and financial integrity that all members pay their assessments.

U.S. authorities were taking the position Saturday that they would much rather have the Soviet Union as a full-fledged, voting member of the world organization than see a fight which could wind up in a Soviet walkout.

The U.S. aim is preservation of U.N. fundamentals, not a victory over the Communists, it was stated.

IN KEEPING with this, the U.S. strategists were setting forth practically no conditions for Russian payment provided the sum is enough to meet the constitutional requirement. They avowedly hope that the Reds will change their minds at the last moment and come through with some form of contribution which, however labeled for face-saving purposes, would equal at least the $6-million minimum needed to avoid a vote loss.

The next move is up to the Russians, U.S. officials said. Private U.S.-Soviet talks in search of a compromise failed to find a solution last week. A new Soviet letter showed the Brezhnev-Kosygin regime is hewing to the same position on this subject as did Premier Khrushchev's government.

Milton Berle Home Looted of Fur, Gems

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI)—The home of comedian Milton Berle was "mysteriously" burglarized of a sable coat and jewelry while Berle and his wife were guests at President Johnson's ranch in Texas, it was disclosed Saturday.

"I don't like to place a value on the stolen goods," Mrs. Ruth Berle said, "because I think that should be the job of the insurance company."

She said the circumstances of the burglary were "mysterious" because there was no evidence of breaking and entering and that "a lot of other valuable jewelry was not touched."

"And I also keep someone in the house at all times—a nurse for the children, a cook, a day worker," she added. "It's a real mystery."

'Trying Hard' to Help U.N., Russians Aver

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Soviet Union said Saturday it was "making all efforts" to resolve the U.N. financial deadlock. But it reiterated its old stand against paying for peacekeeping operations.

Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko, head of the Soviet delegation, stated his government's position in a letter written on instructions from Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and made public by the delegation. It raised hopes of heading off a U.S.-Soviet clash when the General Assembly convenes Dec. 1.

Fedorenko gave the letter Friday to Chief S. O. Adebo of the Nigerian delegation, who wrote U.S., Soviet, French and British leaders on Nov. 4 asking them to promote a settlement of the deadlock.

Ouster of K Has Created Conflicts

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A month has passed since Nikita S. Khrushchev was abruptly dumped from the Kremlin leadership. That action possibly created more problems than it solved. Already, clearly visible internal conflicts hint at more power struggles in the offing.

One can almost see the tugging and pulling in vaguely contradictory statements being put out by leading figures in the new regime, suggesting confusion at the summit.

It would be astonishing if there were not widespread nervousness in the USSR among the rank and file of the 11 million-strong Communist Party and the big and growing middle class whose influence became a political factor in the Khrushchev era.

KHRUSHCHEV'S removal Oct. 14 was a power maneuver, apparently aimed at reversing some of his economic policies and redressing some of Moscow's setbacks in world communism because of the Soviet-Chinese dispute.

The present regime looks transitional. If the forces which ousted Khrushchev are to prevail, there must be a housecleaning of many of those the former first party secretary entrenched in the party structure throughout the country.

Indeed, there is little chance of doing anything positive about the dispute with Red China unless such a housecleaning takes place. The Chinese and their allies make it clear they believe Khrushchev was only one of many "modern revisionists" leading the USSR toward liberalization of Marxist-Leninist doctrine.

THE HOUSECLEANING would be difficult—possibly even dangerous. It would probably require cracking down on liberal tendencies in the economy, in the arts and even in agriculture.

The new first secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, has tossed tokens of good faith to an anxious public, indicating adherence to the general lines of the 20th and 22nd party congresses. These, respectively, involved destalinization and raising industrial production in all spheres.

Similar tokens were tossed to the public in 1953 when Georgi Malenkov's nervous regime took over after Stalin. It promised abundance of consumer goods within a short period. The promise was not kept and Malenkov was soon pushed aside.

HE'S THE DOCTOR

Hasn't Blown His Nose for 21 Years

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Dr. J. Grant Irving hasn't blown his nose since 1933.

He insists that his "don't blow" idea prevents the common cold from lasting for more than two or three days and shouldn't be sneezed at.

People with colds who do blow run the risk of prolonging their illness for weeks, says Irving, who is chief medical director of the Aetna Life Insurance Co.

Irving has a band of about 200 followers who, he says, have been adhering to his advice for years and who will tell you that he's right.

IT WAS 31 years ago, while he was a graduate student at Edinburgh University in Scotland, that Irving first learned of the dangers of nose blowing from a professor of ear, nose and throat surgery.

Irving, who received his medical degree at the University of Toronto, offers this explanation: "When an individual blows his nose, he not only expels infected mucus into his handkerchief, but also forces it into the sinuses."

"As a result, the lining membrane of the sinus becomes infected and pours out its own mucus. Eventually the sinus fills and a spillover into the nasal cavity occurs."

"So he blows his nose and the 'vicious cycle' that keeps the cold alive begins again."

IRVING says that if the sinuses become infected during a cold, the span of the illness may be increased to three weeks or longer.

It's not easy to give up a lifetime habit, Irving says by way of explaining why more doctors don't give their own patients the same advice.

"I used to give patients red bandanas with 'Blot, don't blow' printed on them as a warning reminder," he says.

Brazil Faces Wave of Price Increases

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Despite government predictions that the end of Brazil's inflation is in sight, Brazilians face a wave of year-end price increases for such basic items as bread, milk and petroleum products.

Steel prices have gone up in the wake of an 83% increase in the salaries of metal workers. The government has authorized automobile makers to increase car prices as a result of the steel hike.

Faced with these new price increases, workers are beginning to clamor for big pay increases.

The first major strike since last April's revolution ended Thursday when shoemakers and leather workers went back to the job after winning an 85% wage increase in a two-day walkout.

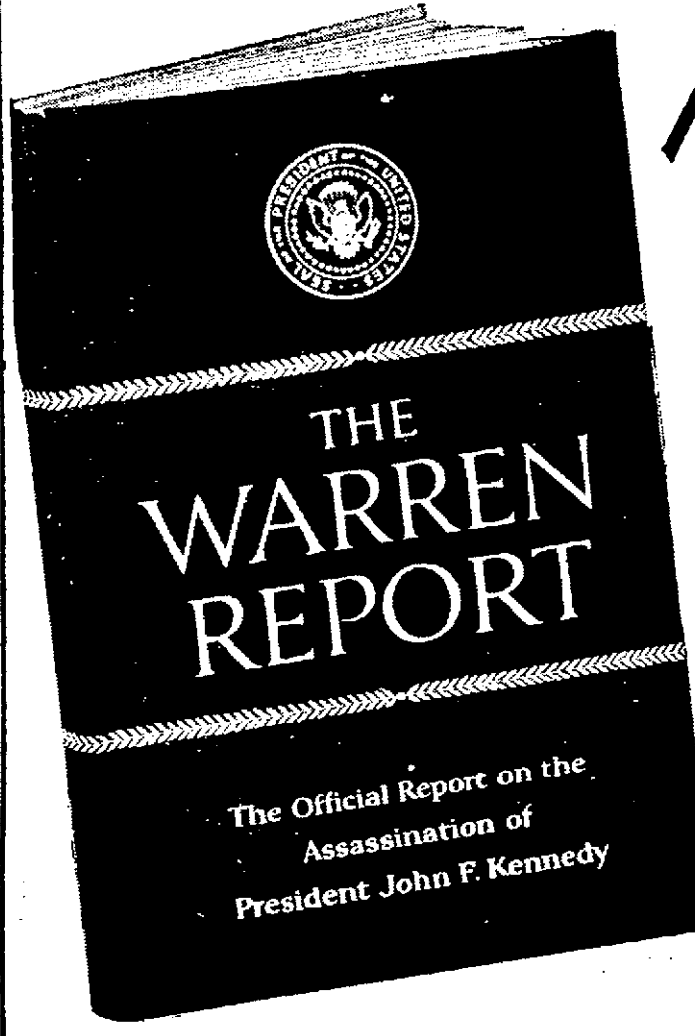

PAY INCREASES have virtually halted since the present government took over after the revolution. Inflation has continued, however, and living costs have gone up more than 64% this year.

New price ceilings authorized for petroleum products increased gasoline prices 48%. As a result public bus and taxi fares will almost surely be increased. Hundreds of items, especially food, which are transported by truck also will eventually have increases.

The government, apparently banking heavily on an expected record harvest next year and an expected new aid package from the United States, is predicting that inflation will be brought into check by next June.

The government claims measures taken since the revolution have slowed the inflationary rhythm from 8% a month to 3-4% a month.

Long Beach Firm Scores Oil Drilling Advance

By VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

A Long Beach oil industrialist has added another achievement to a long list of important oilfield drilling developments.

Elmer L. Decker, president of Martin-Decker Corp., 3431 Cherry Ave., last week disclosed details of the successful testing of his firm's new Telemetric Drilloger.

By this new system, drilling data can be transmitted immediately and continuously from an offshore oil drilling rig floor to a supervisory office miles away. It permits engineers or other specialists to monitor drilling operations as they actually are under way.

DECKER IS CREDITED with numerous major inventions pertaining to the oil industry. Over the years since 1935, these include a wide variety of weight indicators, a complete line of crane scales and a series of torque measurement devices.

Commenting on the new system, Decker said:

"The biggest single advantage is that now drilling operators are receiving news... not history. They are thus able to make instant corrections in drilling operations to prevent costly damage or loss of valuable equipment."

Gulf Oil Corp. has tested the new technique for several months during drilling of offshore wells about 35 miles from the Louisiana coast. The new system is considered a major breakthrough in offshore drilling operating techniques.

Decker continued:

"Offshore drilling for oil and gas was certainly a reality in 1952. However, it became obvious, as drilling locations were made ever farther from headquarters and transportation became more difficult, that communications could very well be one of the most important problems of successfully drilling in the offshore Gulf and other submerged areas."

"Decisions which had to be made by people other than those on the platform, or barge, could only be made by means of radio voice communication or from recorded and written drilling data which would be received onshore long after the problem to be solved had taken place, or required a water or helicopter trip to location."

EACH DRILLING RIG is equipped with a panel of drilling instruments. These instruments measure such important functions as weight on the drilling bit; the rotational speed of the bit; the amount of power being utilized to turn the bit, in terms of torque; the pressure necessary to circulate the mud-laden fluid to bring the cuttings to the surface; the volume of mud being circulated in and out of the hole; the drilling rate in terms of feet per hour or minutes per foot; and others (instruments which have been developed by Martin-Decker through the years).

It is these instruments which the driller, drilling engineers and superintendents use to keep drilling at maximum efficiency and to get them out of trouble if and when it happens.

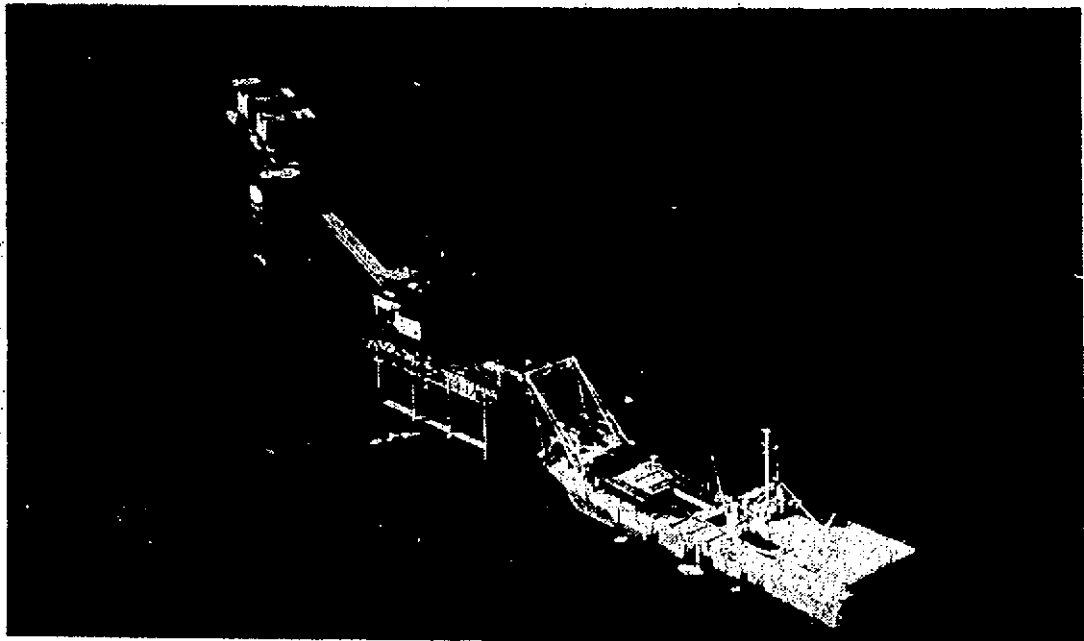

Decker added, "Then why not put a duplicate set of Drilling Control Instruments in the onshore office of the drilling supervisors where they may be seen by the man who is to be called upon to make the final decision in any emergency which occurs on the platform or barge?"

"THE LOGICAL WAY to accomplish this is to convert the rig's instrument signals to electrical impulses and broadcast those impulses over a microwave system to a receiving station in the drilling superintendent's office. Based upon this concept, many attempts were made to interest oil companies, without success."

In 1954 feasibility studies were made of such a system. The studies were completed and reports delivered in November, 1954. Armed with this bit of ammunition, at-

'GETTING THE FEEL' OF 1965 PLANES

Bonanza Climbs in Jet Style

to fly in its class and landings, with a proper approach, are no problem even for inexperienced pilots.

Only one thing. That overhead ventilator, in the middle of the cabin, has to go. Wide open, on a hot day, it nearly blows your wig off.

By LEE CRAIG

The newest model of Beechcraft's famous Bonanza is a V-tailed tiger.

We flew the S35 Bonanza, with its big new 285-horsepower Continental, the other day with Fran Bera, Belmont Aviation's chief pilot.

It was a muggy day, so Fran had to get an IFR clearance so this VFR pilot could get his hands on the ram's horn control wheel and see what all the shouting's been about.

WE HEADED for Fox Field, Lancaster, where the air was clear. It was also bumpy and provided a good opportunity for demonstration of the Bonanza's unorthodox reaction to turbulence.

Because of the V-tail, the Bonanza doesn't bounce up and down in rough air. It slews from side to side, which is a little unnerving at first.

This can be eliminated, as Fran demonstrated, by holding a little rudder pressure—and headings can be maintained without difficulty.

After a lunch stop at Van Nuys, we made a maximum performance takeoff. Holding the air speed indicator steady at 90 after leaving the ground required standing the Bonanza on her tail.

We were lightly loaded (the airplane, we mean) and the rate of climb showed a fantastic 2,700 feet per minute. Unless you're used to jet fighters, this is really an experience.

INSTALLATION SET FOR DEC. 16

Tax Aspects Due Airing for CPAs

Paul F. Marx, resident partner in the Kindel & Anderson law firm in Santa Ana will address the Long Beach-Orange County Certified Public Accountants at their monthly dinner meeting Tuesday, 6:30 p.m., in the Jolly Roger Restaurant, 620 W. Katella Ave., Anaheim.

His talk will cover the income tax aspects of real estate transactions including "tax-free exchanges" and "dealer problems."

This will be the second of a series of tax education meetings scheduled by the LBOCCPA to prepare members to cope with the changes in the tax laws effective this year.

A crowd of around 100 is expected for this month's meeting. The October session, with 91 on hand, was on the problems of closely held corporations.

A two-car garage can be handy even if you have only one car, as added storage space for bicycles, lawn equipment and other items.

Realtors to Hear Barbara Moss

Real Estate listings will be discussed at the Tuesday breakfast meeting of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

Gene Hoffman, October program chairman, announced that the speaker would be Barbara Moss, co-owner of Steele & Moss enterprises in Long Beach. The Realtors meet at 7:15 a.m. in the Crown Cafeteria.

The speaker conducts the Barbara Moss Real Estate School, which has graduated more than 7,000 persons. She has lectured in 25 states and drafted the first statewide bylaws, rules and regulations used by 170 boards within the California Real Estate Association.

She authored "Multiple Listing Procedures," a book now used by state and national real estate boards.

BARBARA MOSS

Appearing on the program will be Congressman Richard T. Hanna, Fullerton; State Senator John F. McCarthy, San Rafael; President Don N. Schneider and Executive Vice President Frank W. Callahan of the Home Builders Council of California; T. B. Nichols, secretary of the Glendale City Building and Safety Commission; and Carl W. Haaland, executive vice president of the BCA.

"THE AIM of this program is to enable builders to understand the forces operating in politics today that influence the shaping of legislation regulating building activity at the federal, state and local level," Rodney J. Hansen, BCA president said.

Another segment of "never finished business" for contractors, accident prevention on construction jobs, will be discussed by a panel of safety authorities that will include Roy J. Bell, head of safety and public affairs, Hughes Aircraft Company; Harry R. Henzl, superintendent of safety services, State Compensation Insurance Fund; R. C. Gallyon, BCA vice president; and Harry F. Ross, steel erection contractor.

How to anticipate and avoid legal problems in construction activity will be analyzed by attorneys James Acret and George Perrochet, BCA general counsel, at a third educational session.

In 1955 a California oil company located three drilling locations across the street from the Martin-Decker factory. One of the wells was to be bottomed underneath company property. As an experiment, a 400 foot wire conductor was run from the drilling location to the company office.

One of the instruments on the well was made to deliver readings over the 400 foot line.

THIS WAS THE first time in the history of the drilling business that a remote Drilling Data Recorder was placed in an executive's office, removed substantially from the drilling platform.

Still, none of the oil companies was interested in this or the greater experiment of microwave broadcasting of drilling signals until 1962.

However, on Aug. 16, 1964, Gulf Oil announced the successful testing of the new electronic technique by which drilling operations data can be transmitted instantaneously and continuously from the rig floor to a supervisory office many miles away.

Supervisors can thus make any necessary decisions on the spot and send immediate instructions to the driller via microwave voice radio.

TAX CLINIC COMING UP TUESDAY

Homer A. Petersen, Internal Revenue Service field audit supervisor, explains money-saving aspects of the federal tax laws to Nola Kintz (left), and Carolyn Davis. The girls, both students at California State College, Long Beach, will act as hostesses at a one-day "Ask the IRS" tax clinic at the Edgewater Inn in Long Beach Tuesday. The clinic, sponsored by CCLB and the IRS, is designed to help the owners and managers of small businesses realize greater tax savings and thereby greater profits on their operations. The clinic will start at 9 a.m., with adjournment at 4 p.m. Further information may be obtained from Dr. Robert Holmes at the college.

New Oil Data Device Built by Martin-Decker

(Continued from Page R-1) Attempts were again made to interest oil companies in such a project, and, without success.

Heart of the system is a device called a telemetric driller, which converts into electric impulses the information appearing on the rig's own conventional drilling instruments.

NORMALLY this information is registered only by gauges visible to the driller who controls operations on the rig floor. The new driller, however, permits this information to be transmitted over considerable distances by microwave radio signals.

At the receiving point, in this case Gulf's Morgan City, La., office, the impulses are converted, registered on visual instruments, and recorded on charts. A supervisor in the office is thus able to "see" exactly and simultaneously just what the driller is seeing on his own instrument panel miles away on the rig floor.

Supervisors can thus make any necessary decisions on the spot and send immediate instructions to the driller via microwave voice radio.

Bof A Promotes L.B. Managers

Bank of America branch managers in North Long Beach and Dutch Village have received promotions according to Jesse W. Tapp, chairman of the board.

Herbert P. Sipple, North Long Beach manager since 1959, has been named manager of the San Gabriel branch.

Raymond P. Johnson, manager at Dutch Village since 1961, goes to the Culver Center branch in Culver City as manager.

Tapp said both men will move to their new assignments as soon as their successors are named.

Sierra Electric Shares Hit Mark

Earnings equal to 70 cents per share highlighted a record fiscal year, ending July 31, for Sierra Electric Corp. of Los Angeles.

The company's net income was $253,785 on net sales of $4,824,980. Stockholders' equity increased by over 10% from the previous fiscal year.

In his report to the stockholders, Lee T. Bordner, president, said that electrical work now accounts for 11% of a $65 billion construction market.

Earnings Up

DALLAS, Tex. — Continental Trailways, with headquarters here, announced gains in its earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30.

M. E. Moore, president, announced gains relative to Continental Trailways as well as pro forma earnings of 7.1% for Continental Trailways and its pending acquisitions for which Interstate Commerce Commission approval is now being awaited.

Association of Real Estate Boards will be President Edward Mendenhall, of High Point, N. C., and president-elect Maurice G. Read, of Berkeley.

Burt Smith, Bellflower, will be among the conference speakers.

MORE THAN 7,000 Realtors and guests attended the convention in Los Angeles Nov. 8-12.

Following are some of the highlights as stressed by various speakers:

Congress will witness a renewed attempt to create a Department of Housing and Community Development in the President's cabinet, Rep. John B. Anderson (R-Ill.), predicted Thursday at the annual luncheon of the Enlarged Realtors' Washington Committee of NAREB.

"Proposals to create such a cabinet-rank department are premised on the belief that state and local governments have become anachronisms and that only the federal government has the financial means and the ability to solve the problems of our urban areas," Anderson said.

METROPOLITAN areas which provide adequate planning and zoning for industrial land have a tremendous advantage in competing for new plants, the president of the Society of Industrial Realtors declared.

Clifford W. Rogers, Toronto, speaking at the Society's annual convention, said: "Cities and states are all striving to attract industry. But all the razzle-dazzle in the world won't bring in a new plant unless it is provided with plenty of properly zoned land prominently located near power sources, served by adequate transportation networks, and protected from encroachments."

The Society, a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, met in Los Angeles in conjunction with the convention of NAREB.

AS THE PRICE of land increases, installment land contracts are becoming more popular, Harry A. Olsen, tax partner of Arthur A. Anderson & Co., Chicago, explained during an address before the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers.

The Institute is an NAREB affiliate. During the convention, NAREB and its nine affiliate organizations held a variety of sessions featuring government, industry, and entertainment leaders as speakers.

Installment land contracts offer distinct advantages to both the buyer and the seller, Olsen said.

"The buyer need make only a small down payment of between 10 and 30%. The installments which are subsequently paid are sold in excess of rental payments which would be required for an identical piece of property. In addition, since the buyer intends to acquire full legal title, he can safely make permanent improvements to his property. The profits from the property during the period of purchase belong to the buyer."

THE NATION is faced with an increasing supply of housing facilities in new high-rise apartment buildings which cannot be reasonably absorbed under any normal conditions, Lloyd D. Hamford Sr., San Francisco, Certified Property Manager, declared before the open session of the Build America Better Committee.

Rents in these high-rise buildings are high and out of reach of the great mass of renters, the chairman of the BAB Committee said. Income from rentals are either barely sufficient or, in a great number of instances, insufficient to service financing after paying normal operating expenses.

"The storm flags are up," Hamford warned, and concluded that "we in the real estate business are obligated to play our part in helping to correct this menacing situation. Housing is the number one necessity of our people. Free enterprise is faced with the challenge of supplying this need to all income levels. We must determine whether or not high-rise can be the answer."

THE PROBLEMS created by ever-increasing property tax rates should be the concern not only of property owners and local governments, but they should receive the attention of the entire community because they involve questions of good government, economics, sociology, philosophy, and the whole range of human interest, Dr. Rodolph H. Redmond, professor of accounting at the school of business of the University of Southern California, declared.

Dr. Redmond spoke at the 17th annual Conference on Real Estate Education, sponsored by the NAREB Committee on Education.

He noted that between 1950 and 1962 the per capita property tax collections in California rose from approximately $75 to $155, and added that national statistics show the same trend.

"The averages do not show," he stated, "the wide variations in the amounts of property taxes paid by owners of taxable property essentially similar in value and requiring approximately the same services of local government."

This divergence has created a strong feeling that property taxes are neither being assessed fairly nor are they really being paid in proportion to the value of the property against which they are being assessed, Redmond warned.

MANY OF the business functions presently carried on downtown may soon be moving to areas adjacent to airports, J. Edward Martin, of A. C. Martin & Associates, Architects, Los Angeles, said at the Institute of Real Estate Management open educational program.

A regional airport is important to business administration, Martin said. "It is important to companies that have frequent inter-regional executive movements, as well as the supporting asset of connecting to the local airports within the region. In that an airport saves so much of the most precious commodity — people time — this suggests that many of the downtown business functions may well be expected to move to the airport to capitalize on these advantages."

Hotel, restaurant, and entertainment facilities will play an increasingly important role in the vicinity of airports to fulfill the needs of "commercial tourism," Martin said.

Drop in Building Futures Noted

F. W. Dodge Company, a division of McGraw-Hill Inc., New York City, reported last week that September construction contracts for future construction in Southern California totaled $285,149,000, down 13% compared to September 1963.

The 13-county area consists of Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Kings, Tulare, Inyo, San Bernardino, Kern, Ventura, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Diego, Imperial, and Orange. A breakdown of the nine month total thus far in 1964 showed: Nonresidential at $61,230,000, up 8%; residential at $1,875,957,000, down 8%; and nonbuilding construction at $427,629,000, up 11%.

The 400 room Hotel del Coronado was sold in 1963 for a purchase price in excess of $7 million. Since that time 18 acres of the property have been rezoned to permit high-rise apartment construction.

The real property consists of a 40,000 square foot, block long piece of undeveloped land on Fourth and Kalmia Streets in San Diego. This is the largest parcel of this type in the area and is ideally suited for apartment construction. The carrying price of the property is $250,000, however, current appraisals indicate a value of $350,000.

PSYCHOLOGY IN INVESTING

There's Difference Between 'Value Potential' and Value

By G. L. DAVENPORT

Please put your eyes into your ears and listen carefully—this is a somewhat complicated matter, vitally important to the would-be investor.

No thing in the world has a value per se. Nearly everything in the world has a value POTENTIAL. In other words, value is a quality which depends, upon realization of need. Expressed somewhat differently, value is an actualized expectancy.

A good, fur-lined, air-tight parka would be of little value to you if you were staggering through the desert at high noon on a hot day. Were one offered to you at that precise moment, only your heat prostration would prevent you from punching the donor in the nose. But you would feel differently about the garment on a starry winter night in Alaska.

IT IS SURPRISING how many people do not distinguish between value potential and value; two qualities separated from each other by time, intent, circumstance, and materialization in experience.

This lack of understanding, however, is only the beginning of the trouble.

It is difficult to speak of a value potential. Anything of value has many potentials. This is precisely what makes every honest salesman a martyr.

a SET of value potentials. As a matter of fact, even one and the same value potential may have various shadings and gradations. So can, for instance, the speculative value of a piece of property differ in magnitude depending upon whether you think in terms of immediate resale or holding it for a longer period.

To make the situation of the salesman ever worse, he usually presents SEVERAL choices which may differ in all or some of their value potentials.

He CANNOT, however, tell YOU, or decide for you, which potential you are looking for.

WE REMEMBER one client, a lady of leisure and considerable means, who was difficult to deal with for a long period of time because she wanted US to make up HER mind between a residential or a recreational parcel of land. Fortunately, with the means at her disposal, she did not have to make that particular decision. She bought both parcels.

However, as she was able to realize almost immediately the profit value of one parcel, she felt encouraged to do the same with the other. She NOW resolved to EXPECT from the other one.

Recently, another lady, but of incomparably smaller means, came into our offices. She was a retired teacher, a value has many potentials. This is precisely what makes every honest salesman a martyr.

WHATEVER the object! SHE WAS VAGUE about her selling, the salesman her investment plans, which more often than not displays had to be modest in scope to begin with. She only half understood what was being patiently and repeatedly told about the potential of the particular parcel she was considering.

Nevertheless, she made her purchase, and about two months later, as she was sitting on the grass of her property and enjoying the view and munching the luncheon she had brought along, she had an inspiration.

Some six months later she moved out of the city and into her new home, built on her property.

IN SO DOING, she realized a value potential which had not even been mentioned in conversations between our salesman and her! She had realized a personal value, the potential of which had not even been taken into consideration in the course of the transaction.

The moral of the story?

Whenever you buy land you buy value potentials, NOT values. No one can sell those. Just as when you buy a diamond ring, you buy only the potential of displaying it at the next evening party. It is you who realize the potential after the purchase has been made. Hide the ring under the linen and the ring you have bought, while holding the same potential VALUE, has no realized VALUE at all.

Flexibility Stressed at Dolphin Terrace

Dolphin Terrace II in Fountain Valley offers up to 2,500 square feet of living space, reports builder R. E. Plumleigh. The homes are offered in 3 to 6 bedrooms, in a price range beginning at $26,950. 6% financing and 30-year loans are available.

One of the most popular features at Dolphin Terrace II, according to the builder, is the 700 square foot Dolphin Suite bonus area. In one of the floor plans, the Dolphin Suite occupies the entire second floor of the home.

PLUMLEIGH said that the Dolphin Suite introduced "a valuable element of flexibility" into the home. He said that no two families were alike in size, interests, hobbies and needs, but that most homes were designed as though there were no family differences.

"The Dolphin Suite can be turned into an apartment for in-laws, extra bedrooms, a game room, gallery, studio or hobby area," Plumleigh said. He emphasized that it was the homeowner and not the architect and builder who determined how the Dolphin Suite was to be used.

DOLPHIN TERRACE II offers a "Green Dolphin Trade-In Plan" to homeowners anxious to move to Dolphin Terrace but hamstrung by inability to sell their present homes. Under the Green Dolphin Plan, Plumleigh explained, the homebuyer's equity in his present home is fully protected and he moves in immediately at Dolphin Terrace II.

T. N. Plumleigh, Jr., brother of builder R. E. Plumleigh and vice president in charge of construction for Dolphin Terrace, has bought his own family home in the new development. Dolphin Terrace architect I. Robert Skaggs also is making his home there, according to the builder.

R. E. PLUMLEIGH said since the new nine-mile extension of the San Diego Freeway was completed, Fountain Valley was only 40 minutes from downtown Los Angeles. "This has led to a surge of

Industry to Spend More

U. S. industry plans to spend a record $46.9 billion for new plants and equipment in 1965—a 5% increase over 1964.

"The increase in plant and equipment expenditures now planned for 1965 is a significant one coming after three consecutive years of gains in investment in new facilities," declared Douglas Greenwald of New York City, chief economist, McGraw-Hill Publications' Economics Department.

This result is based on the annual fall survey of Business' Plans for New Plants and Equipment, conducted by the McGraw-Hill's Economics

"I live here at Dolphin Terrace...I'm the Builder"

Tom Plumleigh is Vice-President in charge of construction for Dolphin Terrace II. A former U.S. Government building inspector, he knows quality construction. Tom Plumleigh chose Dolphin Terrace II as his own family home. Know why? He wanted a truly spacious home, big enough for his five active children. The huge 700 square foot "Dolphin Suite" bonus area filled the bill to perfection. With five children aged from 2 to 16, the Plumleigh home had to be close to schools from kindergarten to college. Traffic-free play places and a smog-free climate were essential. Dolphin Terrace II offered Tom Plumleigh and his family all these good things. To top it off, he built the place—he knows it's good. When you move into Dolphin Terrace II you'll be able to say, "The builder is a neighbor of mine." How many homeowners can make that claim? See Dolphin Terrace II today—homes so fine that even the builder lives there."

*Dolphin Terrace is also the home of its architect, Mr. I. Robert Skaggs, A.I.A.

CHORE-FREE LIVING

This view of the carefree Foothill Village Townhouses' recreational area in Fullerton shows one of the swimming pools and recreation building in the background. The townhouses, with two, three and four bedrooms start at $18,900. The community is located on Placentia just north of Chapman.

IDS Salesmen Attend Meeting

Ralph Leon, Clifford Schroeder and Anne Sobkovich, sales representatives for Investors Diversified, Inc. (IDS), have returned from a career recognition conference held by the company in Minneapolis.

Investment securities issued by five mutual fund companies associated with IDS and insurance offered by Investors Syndicate Life Insurance and Annuity Company were discussed by specialists in these fields.

Foothill Village Scores With Buyers

The homebuying public after elections has been voting one way—"yes"—in favor of the Foothill Village Townhouses in Fullerton, according to H. R. Brookman Jr., one of the developers of the project. Since the grand opening two weeks ago, Brookman said, traffic has been steady and opinions expressed by the prospective homebuyer have been heartwarming. The developers spent a great deal of time and money on research before building the $2.2 million condominium. They learned that the homebuyer didn't want to become a slave to his yard on weekends and other spare time he might have; that he wants to use his spare time for recreation; that he would use a swimming pool if he had one; yet he didn't want to be confined to a small apartment to enjoy these advantages and freedoms.

Putting them all together, Brookman and his partners conceived Foothill Village Townhouses.

THEY PROVIDED all upkeep for the beautifully landscaped grounds, swimming pools and other recreational facilities (the owner pays a proportionate share of maintenance costs by a monthly charge); they provide recreational areas including swimming pools for his use; and they offer a variety of nine different floor plans varying from two bedroom, two bath to four bedroom, three bath models with a spaciousness of as much as 1,776 square feet of quality living. Priced from $18,900, financing is available at 6% for 30 years.

The Foothill Village Townhouses are located in a quiet residential district close to shopping centers and short driving distance to industrial areas in Fullerton and Anaheim. They are close to schools and churches.

The furnished models, which are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. are located on Placentia just north of Chapman.

New Garden Park Estates Feature Bedrooms Upstairs

Upstairs bedrooms are proving popular at Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove, said a spokesman for S & S Construction Co., the builders.

"Our great population growth in California has been due to the influx of Easterners who are so used to upstairs-living that today there is much more of a demand for two-story homes here than there was 15 years ago," he said.

The Bird of Paradise, Plan BC, is an ideal two-story home for the family with many children. Having five bedrooms, it is more than adequate, and offers a choice of either upstairs or downstairs bedrooms.

GARDEN PARK features include wood-burning fireplaces (even one in the master-bedroom on some models), thermostatically controlled forced-air heating, dishwasher,

SMOG-FREE, NO CROWDS

Recreation Availability Featured by Fernhill

Fernhill in Huntington Beach, all-adult planned development adjoining Meadowlark Golf Club, has a special emphasis to golf-minded homebuyers, Frank McFarland of McFarland and Matlocks, sales agents, said.

The grand opening celebration continues this week. The realtor said that most of the first weekend's visitors were golfers who already knew about the advantages of Meadowlark Golf Club as a place to enjoy their game.

"The complete freedom from smog, and its refreshing year-round coolness is greatly esteemed by golfers from Los Angeles County disenchanted by crowded courses and air pollution," McFarland added.

Fernhill is an all-adult, condominium-type development. Homeowners make a small monthly maintenance payment as part of their purchase arrangements. The development's three putting greens, swimming pool, badminton and tennis courts, as well as the exteriors and gardens of the homes themselves, are professionally maintained for the homeowner under this arrangement.

McFarland said the development was specifically designed for active adults, such as couples whose children have grown up, childless couples and business couples. "The idea behind Fernhill was to leave its adult residents free to enjoy all the leisure activities of the Orange Coast area," he said. McFarland cited fishing, swimming and boating as available within a few minutes.

The range is of the drawer-type. The oven has French doors. A dishwasher is included in the purchase price, which range from $23,400.

Financing is available from 5% down. Realtor McFarland pointed out that a cash buyer would have only property taxes and a monthly maintenance payment of less than $30 to provide for after purchase.

North American Earnings Go Up

North American Aviation, per share climbed to $5.86 on Inc., and subsidiaries reported all-time record sales and earnings for the 1964 fiscal year which ended Sept. 30.

This was a 17.2% increase in sales, a 19.8% increase in net income, and the fourth straight year the El Segundo firm's previous years' sales and income were exceeded.

R. A. Lamheth, senior vice president and treasurer, said sales and other income was $2,189,594,000, with net income of $49,334,000. Earnings

McFarland said that downtown Los Angeles was only 35 minutes from Fernhill via the new San Diego Freeway extension. "It is difficult indeed to find a truly smog-free place to live within a half-hour of Southern California's business and financial center, let alone south on Bolsa Chica to Warner, then left to Fernhill.

OPENING TODAY

Workmen are putting on the finishing touches at the Park Belaire Apartments, 2001 Beverly Plaza, prior to the open house and grand opening scheduled at the luxurious new residential complex today.

Prestige Homes' Accessibility Added to Luxury Living Items

ROOMY LIVING

The above Prestige Home contains 2,300 square feet of living area with four bedrooms, three bathrooms, a formal dining area adjacent to a sunken living room in addition to a large family room-kitchen area. The particular model is also available in four different exteriors. Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach are priced from $22,950.

The "best location in the Southland" is the way Dan Mytinger, sales and marketing director for Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach, describes the geographical site of the new one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom, two and three-bath Prestige Homes.

"We consider the northwest area of Huntington Beach to be the 'Beverly Hills' of the city. And with good reason," Mytinger said. "A public golf course is five minutes or less from our front door; the finest beaches and small boat harbors are 10 to 12 minutes distant; a new grade school is in the last stages of construction within the Prestige Home community, while a high school is within walking distance.

"And the Douglas, Space Center is just one mile north; the San Diego Freeway three miles north; and shopping centers abound in the immediate area," he said.

The Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., builders, have arranged for excellent conventional financing, low FHA terms and Cal-Vet financing with the homes priced from $22,950.

A FEW OF the many features in Prestige Homes include Tappan built-in range, oven and dishwasher, nylon carpeting, formal dining area in one plan, wardrobes to 14 feet long, 28 exterior elevations and as much as 2,300 square feet of family-usable floor area.

Final Unit Near Sellout in Leisure World 'City'

JOYRIDING AT EVENTIDE

This is one of most refreshing pastimes at Ross W. Cortese's pilot "People-Over-52" community, Rossmoor Leisure World in Seal Beach. The final unit of the community is up for sale now and is 85% sold. An official expects the sellout to be completed by the first of the year.

Construction has commenced on all 502 manors in the 15th and final unit at Ross W. Cortese's pilot "People-Over-52" community, Rossmoor Leisure World in Seal Beach, C. Robert Moon announced.

Moon, vice president of New Horizons, Inc., the national sales corporation for Leisure World communities, in making the announcement added that this final unit is 85% sold.

"We expect the entire unit to be completely subscribed in 30 days," Moon said.

"We are grateful to the public's response to the project built on the last parcel of land available for construction at the community," he said. "We are particularly pleased with the rate of sales in view of the fact that completed models have been available for public inspection only since Sept. 26."

Seal Beach Leisure World is a thriving, self-contained "city" with a population of nearly 11,000 persons served by a giant shopping center, a golf course which is played all day long, three bustling clubhouses and a swimming and therapeutic pool complex.

SHUFFLEBOARD, lawn bowling, cards, all forms of dancing, adult education courses, the activities of some 84 church groups and social clubs, ceramic and lapidary shops, sewing rooms and wood-working shops—all make Leisure World a place for a happy, active "new way of life" for people over 52.

The $710,000 Medical Center is located in the heart of the community. It is adjacent to the 2,500-seat amphitheater where capacity audiences enjoy hearing distinguished lecturers and attending theatrical-concert and film events.

"There are many reasons why Leisure World at Seal Beach is so popular," said Moon. "Not the least is the fine ocean weather. We are just three minutes away by car from the water and its boats. The San Diego Freeway is now open to the site, making down-town Long Beach minutes away and Los Angeles about 30 minutes."

In order to make full use of the last available land, Unit 15 contains some second-story view manors, the first to be built in the community. Eight luxury styles are available.

ONE-BEDROOM membership-ownership manors are priced from $14,395 to $16,495.

The average monthly payment is $145, subject to modification.

All loans are insured FHA at 5 1/4% interest. Here is what Seal Beach

Leisure World residents enjoy for their monthly payments, in addition to principal, interest, taxes and insurance:

Use of three large, luxury clubhouses, golf course and all other recreation facilities; the intra-community transportation system to all areas, including the 12-acre shopping center; a 24-hour security guard; exterior maintenance for all manors; and maintenance of streets, gardens and community buildings.

Also included in the monthly payment is 80% of the re-finance value of medical costs, including in-home nurse calls, calls to the doctor's office at the medical center and services of all specialists, ambulance service and prescription drugs.

INCLUDED, TOO, is an all-electric kitchen composed of General Electric range, oven, refrigerator and garbage disposal, as well as replacements when necessary.

Down-payments for one-bedroom share-ownership manors range from $1,059 to $1,085, and two-bedroom garden manors range from $1,175 to $1,309. A portion of the down-payment—$381 to $393 for one-bedroom units, and $435 to $498 for two-bedroom units—is used in the purchase of a share of stock in a Seal Beach Mutual Corp., entitling the buyer to occupy

The West Coast Story

... a little on the wild side

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Whither goest the swimsuit top (off or on?), the rising hemline, the plunging neckline? Is the female figure in for even more exposure during the coming season?

And what of fashion's increasing pantomonium? Is the pants craze slackening or going wilder in its many-seasoned, two-legged pace?

These are some of the questions that will be answered this week for more than 80 fashion editors from Long Beach to Long Island, arriving in Los Angeles today to preview resort and early spring collections of California's uninhibited, trend-setting fashion designers.

It'll be an action-packed week of fashion shows (40 of them!), movie set tours, TV premieres and other it-could-happen-only-in-California specials.

THE SHOWINGS, sponsored by California Fashion Creators, will get underway early Monday morning.

And you can bet your last year's one-piece swimsuit (it's destined for the rummage, anyway) that the nation's fashion chroniclers—AND their readers—will be in for some shockeroos.

For, these days, it's a known fact that the "California Look" has emerged as a major influence in fashion trends throughout the world. Off the drawing boards of California's fearless fashionators have come many "firsts" in the fashion world.

California gave the American woman her first coordinates, her first uplift bra and her first high-style swimsuits ... also her first culottes.

To say nothing of pants! The fuse for that explosion was set off right here in Sunny Cal, way back in the early 30s, when Marlene Dietrich emerged as the first celebrity with enough derringdo and fashion know-how to wear them.

And then, of course, there's the more recent (and more revealing) no-top swimsuit, turned out by California couturier Rudi Gernreich!

SO ... FOR A PREVIEW of what American women will wear (or NOT wear) come spring and summer, follow the women's pages of the I, P-T this week.

Daily stories, beginning Tuesday, will bring you the latest news in cruise wear.

And you can plan next season's wardrobe accordingly.

For as California goes, so goes the rest of the world. Collections to be previewed this week are forecasts of fashions to come for spring and summer—from Here to the Wild New Yonder!

INDEPENDENT-Press-Telegram Women

LONG AND SHORT of the pants craze—at right, Confucius say "Young Lady should wear matching Pansweater and socks." Brilliant flowers are hand-embroidered on shaker knit white sweater, repeated on white wool socks. By Phil Rose of California.

Meanwhile ... Back in New York-- Hemlines Are Hitting a New High!

While it appears pants will become the buy-word for California, hemlines are making headlines in New York.

In the current unveiling of spring collections by East Coast designers for the nation's buyers, one fact emerges: knees.

An AP release indicates that New York manufacturers are moving hemlines as much as two inches above where they were last season.

Also: "To add further to the delight of leg watchers are attention-getting skirts that swing out with pleats, flares, gores and flounces."

MORE ABOUT the knees (some on mannequins, some on buyers): "There are plump knees, skinny knees, knobby knees, baggy knees, knock-knees and some knock-out knees. No matter what type, all are on display.

"The women apparently have given up those efforts of a season or so ago, as the skirts got higher, to tug the hemline down after sitting.

"Now, if the knees show, so be it.

"Only a drastic drop in hemline lengths can change the scene, and they aren't dropping.

"On the contrary, they're going higher for daytime."

And that's the way things are shaping up on the East Coast. With necklines plunging lower and hemlines going higher, all we can hope is that never the twain shall meet.

Guildswomen know the art of playing Santa

Guild members have made gorgeous stuff to sell (worked for months on the project) and will offer anyone who wishes to come to sale everything from lingerie to jewelry to toys PLUS two very special door awards which are still a secret but, I'm assured, terrific.

Bazaar will be conducted in the doctor's dining room of the hospital and will be kicked off with a coffee party at 10 a.m. the 19th. Other St. Nick's helpers on Wina's go, go, go committee are Phyl (Mrs. Les) Esposito, "Jo" (Mrs. Alfred) Cornwell, Mary (Mrs. Arthur) Hodge and Myrna (Mrs. Edward) Ryan.

GUESTS at one of the week's most publicized weddings were localites Marie and Jim Sil and son, Tim Jr. They attended the wedding of Lance Reventlow and Sheryl Holdridge, Sheryl has been frequent visitor at the Sils through the years. Her mother, Julie Holdridge, and Marie were in show business in Hollywood together. Julia is the wife of Gen. Herbert Holdridge, USA (Ret.) and they reside in Sherman Oaks.

Lance is Barbara Hutton's son, as you most likely know. At the reception guest Hedda Hopper was making Hopperish remarks about the absence of Barbara, in Europe and reportedly not well enough to make the trip.

Wild Waves Say...

Anyway, it was beautiful wedding and a lavish reception. Whether Lance's mother was here or not, she certainly gave the two some spectacular gifts—a home on a 2½ acre site in Benedict Canyon with five bedrooms and six baths (the home, not the canyon) and for Sheryl she sent an engagement gift a gold bracelet set with 80 diamonds. Lance has bestowed on his bride some little treasures, too, including a $12,000 Italian car and jewelry to make Cartiers drool.

IT WAS just what the doctor ordered—a real shot in the arm of pleasure last weekend as members of the Galen Club and their wives (to belong to Galen one must be a physician of not more than 40 summers which makes them all crisply young from my viewpoint) had annual dinner dance.

Jerry (Mrs. William) Hyman—and a medic herself—was chairman of affair held at Virginia Country Club. Patti (Mrs. John) Westland operated successfully as a chief consultant for decorations.

About 200 present caught the highly contagious, definitely recommended party fever which raged that Saturday night.

WOMEN wore the short dresses with the fringe all around, decked themselves with beads and feathers, and men donned blazing blazers or tight, double breasted suits and roared off to Las Madrinan's roaringly successful Roaring 20's party week ago last night at that speakeasy on Carson usually and more sedately known as Lakewood Country Club.

First costume prize for men was won by a sinister Chicago type with snap brim Fedora, snug fitting gangster suit—and a violin case tucked ominously under his arm. Turned out to be Allen T. Carson. In a fire engine red satin sheath with fringes, Florence Rogers was selected women's costume winner. What highlighted her attire was the make-up—cupie doll lips, brightly rouged cheeks, beauty spots and all outrageously funny.

MUFFLED giggles and guffaws followed mumbled wisecracks at Virginia and Chuck Dickie's home Wednesday night as a crowd of surprises waited in gleeful suspense for the arrival of the unaware honorees, Dorothy and Charles ("Flip") Flippin, who left yesterday to make Walnut Creek their home.

The party was a farewell for the Flippins and a welcome home for Dorothy and Everett Boyette, "iv" there and smiling in the upper torso cast he wears as his broken neck heals.

As to the Flippins—they've sold their business and home here and will be footloose and fancy free, but only for a while.

They are opening a new beauty shop in a large retirement housing development near Walnut Creek. Study (and assurances from others in like endeavor) has revealed that such concessions in such developments are not only pleasant to run but smart business $-wise.

EVERY MAJOR club had a parking problem last weekend, bound to have had, because that must have been the busiest day of the year for benefit socializing. Dames members and guests had a ball at their dance as they danced at their ball at Petroleum Club to add strength to the coffers of the local Cystic Fibrosis Foundation after pre-dance cocktail parties.

All over town homes burgeoned with people in newest fall party dress. Jerry and Don Hazzard opened their home for about 100 and co-hosting with them were Doris and Bob Sturgeon, Lois and Doug Benwell, Joan and Norm Hastings, Shirley and Steve Gould, Trilla and Bob Di Trapani and Betty and Sam Hardin.

IT WAS the cat's meow—trouble was meows were continuous for four days, louder at night, when La Nelle and Ray Fosholdt's eight-month old cat, Calico, under the influence of the biggest dog scare of its young life, climbed a 45-foot palm in the yard. Once up, it had the traumatic experience of not knowing how to descend—and cries began.

Pictured after its rescue with hero of the occasion, Bill Allen, tree trimmer and La Nelle, who immediately gave Calico cat psychiatry in form of food and milk.

La Nelle called Animal Shelter, Park Department, Police, Fire Department, humane societies—in all, eight different outfits to rescue that cat. Only the fire ladders could have aided but they wanted to wait until positive Calico wouldn't (as most cats do) discover its way down. Then Bill, not only a tree trimmer but animal humanitarian (he loves cats and dogs) heard about predicament from a Fosholdt neighbor and rushed right over with his climbing equipment at the ready.

A bushy tailed tale of a real cat caper

Look! A Candy Cane Lane YWCA to Offer Study Hall

Culminating almost a year of preparation, the Women of St. Luke's Episcopal Church will greet a throng of friends and shoppers at the church's annual Candy Cane Lane holiday bazaar Friday. A vast number and variety of bazaar items will be on sale when the booths open to the public at 10 a.m. Featured will be gourmet foods, boutique items, an array of Christmas decorations and many hand-made items, both practical and exotic.

EXCITING NEW attraction this year will be a parcel post booth, according to Mrs. F. Mitchell Theisman, general chairman. During the year vacationing members have been mailing home choice gifts from all over the world.

Always a special feature of the bazaar is the popular English tea. Mrs. Monroe Yunker, chairman of the tea, has as her assistants Mmes. Wendel Wilson and Albert Bristol.

From 1 to 4 p.m. guests will be welcomed to the tea by Mrs. Leon L. Wiltse, president of the Women of St. Luke's, Mrs. Thomas Sykes, president-elect, as well as Mmes. F. C. Benson Belliss, Warren Nyback, William Kummer, Charles Lee, Earl Burns Miller, L. A. Sappenfield, Herbert Fielding and Misses Marcia Hannah and Jessie Hunter.

A FAMILY roast beef dinner will be served in the evening with separate seatings at 6 p.m. and again at 7 p.m. Mrs. Howard Jackson is dinner chairman.

A snack bar, open from 3 to 9 p.m., will provide children with their favorite fare and in the evening a hootenanny and dance contest is planned for their entertainment.

With a tentative opening date later this month, the Long Beach YWCA is in the final planning stages for an open study hall program to be held in the association building, 550 Pacific Ave.

Musicians to Perform

The Jordan High School Music Department will present the program Monday evening when Long Beach Recreation Department sponsors its free civic show at 8 in Municipal Auditorium.

The 70-piece Jordan Orchestra, directed by Jerome Bartkus, will be heard in classical and popular selections. The a cappella choir will be heard in several numbers with Carl Robertson as director.

ROBERTSON also will lead community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m. Regenia Beam will accompany. Tvo Orchestra will play for dancing following the stage show with Joe Marshall as caller.

The program will focus major emphasis on the junior high school age level and will offer youngsters a quiet place to study with college students and adult volunteers on hand to offer assistance with homework problems. Basic reference materials also will be available.

Stress will be placed on the relationship between the volunteer and the student as a means of instilling an interest in school and encouraging better study habits and better grades.

THE YWCA hopes to expand the program eventually to include a one-to-one tutoring project, a remedial reading and math clinic and a new horizons program of trips to museums, art galleries, colleges and universities.

WHY GROW OLD?

Don't Add Years With Your Hair Style

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Michel Contino is president of the Coiffure Franciscaine of America, an exclusive club consisting of some of the topflight American-French hair stylists. Today I bring you some advice from him concerning "Past forty hairstyling for the winter of 1964!"

Mr. Contino feels that this season's hairstyling is kind to the woman past 40 because it allows for great flexibility. However there are current trends she should avoid.

One of them is severity. While her hair must be straight, not curly, the "snob" hairdo with the hair drawn back from the forehead and coming straight down at the sides is for her daughter, not for her. It is too trying. The long bangs extending almost to the eyebrows which are so popular now are also for the younger set. Her hair at the back should be softly, semi-shingled, not severely shingled.

THERE IS nothing which dates you or ages you more definitely than tight permanents and tight curls. However, Michel has found that while the hair is straight, the slightest suggestion of a lip or half-wave at the sides is flattering, especially after 40. Always raise the side hair up gently to give the temple hairline some softness.

The hair is piled on the crown of the head. The top hair is often cut short with side hair pulled to the side. For the winter hairdo which has bulk at the top, a small wiglet is most helpful, particularly if the hair is at all thin in this area.

Wiglets must not be confused with wigs. A small wiglet becomes a part of your coiffure. It can give your hair a new look and can be used in different ways, at the front of your hair or at the top of your head. Top fullness can also be achieved by fluffing the short top hair.

AN OLDER woman should never wear droopy shoulder length hair. She should avoid any harshness or curls and strive for upped sides, a semi-shingled back and some bulk at the crown.

Michel Contino also has some definite ideas about hair coloring. He feels that if you use too light a shade as you grow older it makes you look washed out because there is not enough contrast. All hair has three shades in its natural coloring. Today hair coloring manufacturers strive to get this shading in their products, and many have.

If you get a hair tint do not have it all one even shade for this looks artificial.

If you would like to have my leaflet concerning hair care send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 52 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Mother's Helper

By JACK BALDWIN
I. P. T. Staff Writer

One of the reasons I like to cook so much is that it gives the "little woman" a chance to get out of the kitchen—especially on Sundays.

Last Sunday my daughter tape-recorded my activities as I prepared the afternoon family dinner all by myself.

Here's her transcription. (Sound of me humming, various kitchen noises.)

"Honey I hate to bother you when you are lying down but would you know where the garlic press is?"

"I haven't seen it since you used it to strain your model airplane paint with."

"Where's the top half of the double boiler?"

"Out in the garage with your paint brushes in it."

"HONEY, I know you are trying to snooze but would you mind tasting this to see if it is Accent or Oakite?"

(Long silence, then . . . ) "Anybody know where the paring knife is?"

"It's still in the dishwasher from last night."

"Oh, that's just great! Now would you mind telling me how I get the . . . thing open?"

(Clank! Sound of dishwasher opening. Humming noises made by me. Crash! Whang. Whang. Whang. Sound of roaster lid falling to floor and spinning around and around.)

"Have we got any wooden matches so I can light the oven?"

"Just turn the dial. It lights itself!"

"Oh."

(More humming sounds from me.)

have you tried being a blonde?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Bill has gone back to his home state and now that he's gone, I realize I'm in love with him. I didn't expect to see him again and in an effort to forget, I became involved with John and we are making plans to get married. He's a pretty good guy and I like him but at times he is so very bossy and possessive. I've told him about Bill but he says I'll get over it.

I think of Bill often and friends have told me he is in love with me but won't come near because I'm engaged to John.

I am only 17 and I'm wondering if I shouldn't wait awhile. I'd like to see Bill and get him out of my system if I can. I'd also like some time alone to think things out, but John can't understand and he is pressuring me to marry him right now. —MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: I can tell you one thing for sure—you shouldn't get married now to either Bill or John. Thank heavens, you are sensible enough to realize you should "wait awhile"—just keep on waiting, get unengaged to John, give Bill a chance and for a couple of years just date.

I have (and you have, too!) serious doubts about any future happiness with John—I don't think you are in love with him. With Bill it might be a different story, but give yourself plenty of time to get to know him.

Who needs marriage at 17? —M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 70 years old and have to support my grandson and myself. I am an excellent seamstress, good driver and in very good health.

But no one will let me work. I'm "too old." I insist I'm not too old but I am desperate.

Incidentally, I am also a good shot and I'm wondering if there isn't an easier way to get money than to work for it???

What do you think? —GRANDMA

P.S. Don't tell me to get a job baby-sitting — not enough money in that.

DEAR GRANDMA: Oh, come on, now Grand-

Fat Reward for Bidding

If the bidding in the box seems peculiar, you won't be the only person with that opinion. It may have been peculiar, but it certainly was effective. Bobby Jordan and Arthur Robinson were able to wind up at three no-trump while at the other table North and South reached four hearts.

In the Jordan-Robinson system the two-club response is a force to game unless it is followed by a rebid to three clubs. Thus when Bobby Jordan rebid to two hearts he knew that Arthur would have to bid again. Arthur didn't much like to bid again with his minimum opening and his selection of two spades rather than three hearts was due to the fact that the American team at the World Bridge Olympiad did not open four card majors. Hence, he did not have to rebid hearts to show a five-card suit.

Bobby's raise to three spades was an all-purpose bid. If Arthur was interested in a slam, Bobby was even more interested. If Arthur was suggesting three no-trump, Bobby had a spade stopper to help out in that suit.

THEREFORE Arthur's three no-trump call ended the bidding. He played a low diamond from dummy on the first trick and East's ten lost to his ace. He attacked hearts and dummy's king was topped by East's ace.

East led the queen of spades, whereupon Arthur wound up with three hearts, three clubs, two spades, one diamond and plus 400.

Playing four hearts at the other table, South lost two trumps and two diamonds for down one.

us wants to date others so that isn't the problem. Do you think we can ever get back on our old footing and be happy if I try? —MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP:

There isn't anyone who could possibly say for certain whether you and Ed can ever get back on the same footing — or whether you should, in time to come, get married or not.

One thing I can tell you, though, and that is if Ed is going to be a reluctant bridegroom, then for goodness sake don't push the matter.

Sounds to me as though you'd both be a lot better ma, lay that pistol down. You're really a little too old to become a "gun slinger" —whether you agree or not!

I am indeed most sympathetic with older people who are not allowed to work because of their age, but in your case you should be taking it easy. After 70 don't you think you deserve a rest? But evidently you are full of vim, vigor and vitality—a real rocking Grandma who's not about to take to the rocking chair. Good for you!

How about sewing at home? Or making things to sell? I would think alterations and sewing would be in demand—and don't tell anyone how old you are! Just let them judge you by your work. —M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have been going with Ed for three years. At first everything was fine. Then Ed wanted to get married. Neither of us had good jobs so I thought we should wait. Since then we have done a lot of fighting.

Now I want to get married but Ed says we do too much fighting. Neither of

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

It's Time for Questions

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago my husband hired a pretty, young secretary (married). I never paid much attention to her, although he did take her to dinner occasionally when he'd ask her to work late. I know they lunched together, too, but I suppose many such lunch-cons are for the purpose of discussing business. Three weeks ago my husband received word that he was being transferred out of town. Now he tells me that this secretary is getting a divorce (no children) and is going with him! Abby, do you believe in a woman's intuition? He never mentioned that this woman was unhappy in her marriage. Why suddenly this? I have the feeling that something is going on. Is it my place to ask my husband if he has something to tell me? If he has, why should I make it easier for him?—WOMAN'S INTUITION

ABBY

DEAR INTUITION: Yes, ask him if he has something to tell you, and don't worry about whether you are making it "too easy" for him. It will be easier for you than waiting and wondering. The sooner you find out, the better.

DEAR ABBY: I used to have beautiful natural blonde hair that hung down to my shoulders. My husband heard a man compliment me on my hair, and all I said to him was "Thank you," but when we got home my husband got mad and took a scissors and cut all my hair off one-quarter of an inch from my scalp. I don't think I can ever forgive him for this act. He has always been a very jealous man with a terrible temper, and I have seen him smash mirrors and furniture, but he never touched me before this. My hairdresser said it will take a year to grow three inches of hair and, in the meantime, I either have to get a wig or wear turbans all the time. What do you think a fitting punishment for a husband like mine should be?—NO HAIR

DEAR NO HAIR: Punishment? I would insist that he be subjected to a mental examination. Next time he might not stop at the scalp.

DEAR ABBY: My friend and I are having an argument with our husbands. Last night it was very cold here in Indianapolis, Indiana. We noticed the policeman on the beat was without a coat. Our husbands said that policemen cannot put on their coats until they are given permission to in the fall. Furthermore, they have to wear their coats in the spring until they are ordered to leave them off. Is this true? If so, we girls think it is a stupid regulation. Any man who is old enough to be a policeman shouldn't need permission to wear his coat, and take it off. Can you tell me if this is a regulation or not?—CAN'T BELIEVE IT

DEAR CAN'T: I just called the Indianapolis, Indiana, Police Department and the captain told me it's true. But he said there is nothing in the regulations to prevent a policeman from wearing anything he wants to underneath his shirt—which was heart-warming.

'This Is Program People Will Love'

"Things we wouldn't have dreamed possible five years ago are happening to music in this country! We must live up to this enthusiasm by taking a leading position in culture. This begins by supporting your own first-rate orchestra. Don't be just a sponsor—go to the performances!"

This was the advice Dr. Jan Popper gave to a large audience Tuesday morning in Virginia Country Club when he discussed the concert which Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will play tonight in the Concert Hall, beginning at 8 o'clock. The preview, free to the public, was sponsored by the Symphony Guild and Junior League.

"THIS IS a program people will love," said the silver-thatched Czech, a distinguished musician and chairman of the music department at UCLA.

The orchestra will play "In Media Res" by Peter Korn; "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra" by Sibelius, for which Camilla Wicks will be soloist; "Symphony No. 5" by Tchaikovsky and "Classical Symphony" by Prokofiev.

"KORN is a contemporary composer who refused the charge that there is no melody in modern music. He spends half his year in Europe and the other half teaching at UCLA. He won't belong to any 'school' of music because he believes each composer should write in his own style.

"But in Europe Korn is the spiritual leader of the 'musica sana' group, those who are dedicated to sane music. He has just finished an opera, 'Heldi,' which he hopes will have its premiere on the West Coast. 'In Media Res' is a melodious overture."

OF THE SIBELIUS work, Dr. Popper said, "This is one of the most beautiful things ever written in violin literature, and Camilla Wicks has played it many times for Finnish audiences. Sibelius was delighted with her interpretation of his concerto. It has romantic, gorgeous, sustained melodies and gives the soloist every opportunity to show his ability. No other concerto for violin is quite so rhapsodic. Cadenzas constantly are interspersed in its lovely lyricism. The whole thing is one long-drawn melody."

AS HE SPOKE, Dr. Popper played frequent piano illustrations of themes, often humming first the solo part, then the accompaniment and somehow, in his enthusiasm, creating the illusion of a full orchestral performance.

"There is genius and power in the very familiar Tchaikovsky symphony. Any composer is at the mercy of the performer and Tchaikovsky can be over-romanticized. His music can sound schmaltzy if it isn't played exactly as he wrote it. There always is an emotional quality. Even in this symphony's light and lovely waltz that little tear is still in there, halfway between laughing and crying. This is a very difficult, tricky work for the orchestra."

"PROKOFIEV'S 'Classical Symphony' takes only 15 minutes to play. It was written when the composer was a young man and, in a sense, it is a little joke, with its quick shifts of key and charming, light music. This is a recreational piece for you to sit back and enjoy. It brightens the program with brilliance, gaiety and luster."

Tickets for tonight's concert, first on the orchestra's Sunday night series this season, will be on sale before the performance. The box office will open at 7 p.m.—ELISE EMERY

Arts Page Editor

Rex Brandt of Corona del Mar will lecture on "The Artist and His Place in Society" and will demonstrate water color techniques Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Long Beach Art Association Gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd.

One of California's best-known artists, Brandt is exhibiting his paintings in the Laguna Studio Galleries, Laguna Beach, through Dec. 3.

Currently on view in the LBAA gallery is the fall juried show, which will hang through November. Paintings by association members Robert J. Adams, Joy Nye Elliott and Dorris Stegner are being shown at the Empire Savings and Loan, Pacific Ave. and Fifth St., through November.

A RECEPTION at the Pacific Coast Club today from 2 to 5 p.m. will open an exhibit of work by Kirk Martin. The show will hang through November.

Born in Grand Junction, Colo., in 1906, Martin has had little formal art training but has developed a wide reputation as painter and wood engraver. He is especially well-known for his horse subjects. One of his wood engravings, "Trail Ride," hangs in the Library of Congress in Washington, D. C.

AN exhibit of color portraits by Phillip Charis will be on display in Buffum's Interior Design Center Monday through Nov. 25. Charis is one of only 24 persons in California to receive the master of photography degree from Professional Photographers of America, an honor he received in 1961.

Charis holds both a license membership and an associateship with the Institute of British Photographers. His portraits have won six of the top national competitive awards in the past seven years and in 1961 he received an award from his fellow photographers for the finest portrait of the year.

TWO NEW galleries in this area have announced openings.

Elizabeth Sullivan heads the Studios of the Designing Women, 1754 Atlantic Ave., which will open with a reception Monday, beginning at 3 p.m. Paintings by Denia Brindzik and "fine decorative" from yesterday and today are featured.

M. Ili Amos is patroness of the new Collectors Gallery of classical art at 322 Main St., Seal Beach.

CHAUNCEY MALTMAN will tell members of Lakewood Art Association "What Goes Into the Making of a Water Color" Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Mayfair Park Clubhouse.

His lecture will stress the importance of good drawing, composition, perspective and values and will be followed by a question and answer period.

Maltman has spent 45 years in the commercial art field as illustrator for Popular Mechanics, art director for advertising agencies, free-lancer, illustrator of children's books, text books and educational films.

A ONE-MAN exhibit by Dr. George Csengeri, Hungarian-born physician and artist, will hang in Downey Museum of Art, 10419 Rives Ave., from Friday through Dec. 31.

Csengeri has been a citizen of the United States since 1950. Formerly, he practiced medicine in Italy and Israel and has traveled extensively in Europe, the Middle East and the Far East.

He studied at Chouinard Art Institute, USC, UCLA and El Camino College. He has exhibited as a winner in the Prix de Paris group shows and at Long Beach Museum of Art, the Gallery in San Pedro and La Jolla Museum.

The museum is open from 1 to 5 p.m. daily except Monday.

AN INDIVIDUAL showing of desert paintings by 17 members of the 29 Palms Artists Guild is on exhibit through Nov. 29 at Charles W. Bowers Memorial Museum, 2002 N. Main St., Santa Ana.

THE 44TH ANNUAL open competition of the California Water Color Society will open Tuesday at Lytton Center of the Visual Arts, 8150 Sunset Blvd. The 96 water colors are by such artists as Paul Souza, Bars Miller, Millard Sheets, Richard Haines, Rex Brandt, Nick Brigante and Clinton Adams. This year, 24 of the paintings are by non-members of the society.

The show will hang for one month. At its conclusion, 30 of the paintings will travel throughout the United States under sponsorship of the Western Association of Museum Directors.

Viewing hours at Lytton Center are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Fridays.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merrill advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion - her hint to gain a peachy - low and cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water, smooth on a little tropical oil of olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive but your drug store should be able to get you a small supply.

Pioneered for Best Music

By RACHEL MORTON
L.P.T. Music Critic

Long Beach has lost recently another of its brave pioneers in the cause of the best in music with the passing of Alice Durham, piano teacher, impresario and concert manager.

Major and Minor Notes

In the Diamond Jubilee edition of The Independent, Press-Telegram of Oct. 27, 1963, I wrote in part:

"A little lady with three small children arrived in Long Beach from Illinois in 1906. This indefatigable worker, Alice Durham, has done much for the musical culture of Long Beach. She affiliated with L. E. Behymer as executive secretary of the Long Beach Civic Concerts. The first concert venture was by the Minneapolis Symphony with Oherhoffer conducting in 1914.

"WITH A group of interested citizens in music," Mrs. Durham related, "we started a concert series with a recital by Nelson Eddy. The ticket sale wasn't going so good for that first concert so during recess at Poly High where I was the accompanist, I sold tickets to the teachers and pupils in the amount of $1500."

That was typical of Alice Durham. She got what she went after and nothing turned her back. There has not been a musical venture of note in our city that has not had the help of her unbounded enthusiasm and tireless energy. When last I saw her she was bubbling over with joy and happiness in her new home in Leisure World.

MANY beautiful tributes were written in memory of Alice Durham in the Long Beach Music Teachers Association pamphlet of October, 1964, some of which I will quote below:

"I first met Alice when she accompanied the dancing classes at Poly High School, where I was a student quite a few years ago. Since that time Alice has always been a wonderful friend, one always interested in the welfare of those close to her and many others as well. Arrowhead Music Camp owes a great deal to her interest in the welfare of our musical youth. Due largely to her efforts, Musical Arts Club contributed $1,000 toward our most impressive building, the 'A' Building. Alice will always live with us because she has built a lasting monument with her loving interest in people. We love you, Alice—we miss you."—Edna Ohlendorf.

"ALICE DURHAM—the woman with the strength of her convictions. The promotional expert. Always the vendor with a cause. The artist with an aim. No single musician ever did more to elevate the taste of the populace in Long Beach than did this dedicated woman. May she find other planes to conquer!"—Eiffel Warren.

"Alice Durham was a true friend in word and deed, living, giving and sharing herself in the full meaning of the word 'friendship.' Her passing is a great loss to all. I have known Alice for many years, and never have I heard an unkind word spoken by her about anyone. She always greeted you with a cheery 'hello' and happy smile any time, anywhere. Her true charm and great love for all people won a large place for her in all our hearts, which will never quite be filled again."—Lynn H. Brown.

Fine European Prints on View at Museum

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Without sounding peevish, we would like to suggest a super-conference of art exhibitors to schedule staggered show openings. When all open the first of the month, and all close the end of the month, the viewer or reviewer is hard put to it to do justice to all.

The Rotten collection of 50 excellent European prints continues at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., through Nov. 29. It is interesting for many reasons, one of which is that all are for sale at prices encouraging to the modest collector. Names like Appel, Buffet, Dubuffet, Marini, and Henry Moore are well represented. There are objective works and representational ones, black and white as well as color, strong statements, and some which are, simply, charming.

PALOS VERDES Art Gallery shows "Nueva Presencia" (New Humanists), open 1 to 5 p.m. daily, until Nov. 25. It is located in the library, one block above the Palos Verdes Estates Plaza.

This group, originating in Mexico City, considers the late Rico LeBrun its master. Numbered among its spiritual kin are Conner Everts, Jacob Landau, John Coleman and Michael Spafford, who are shown here with Artemio Sepulveda, Leonel Gongora, Fanny Rahel, Emilio Ortiz, Robert Otte, and Arnold Belkin. The latter publishes a magazine, "Nueva Presencia" in Mexico City.

'Chile' Topic of Lecture, Film Show

Nicol Smith's "Chile," second film-lecture in the 1964-65 International Film Series, will be presented at five high school auditoriums this week. Opening in the Wilson auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday, the program will be repeated Tuesday at Jordan, Wednesday at Lakewood, Thursday at Polytechnic and Friday night at Millikan.

Season books and single-admission tickets will be available daily at all Long Beach City College offices and at the auditorium door each evening.

Included in the film is an extensive sequence on Valparaiso, "sister city" of Long Beach.

Auditions Set

Auditions for "Tobacco Road" will be held Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Hillcrest Theater, 1517 Anaheim St., Harbor City. The play has roles for six men and four women.

Peggy Slater... Sailing Master

This Sail Master Is A Miss

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

"We may have the Monday luncheon on Thursday, depending on the weather or a sail change, but I set up definite menus for each of the three meals a day" said blonde, dynamic Peggy Slater.

Meal planning is just one concern of the woman who is sailing master aboard the Irish Mist, owned by John L. Holleran of Long Beach Yacht Club, on the Mazatlan Yacht Race which started Saturday noon.

Forty-three sailing craft crossed the starting line in Los Angeles Harbor on the 930-mile five-day race that is sponsored biennially by Los Angeles Yacht Club.

The seven-man crew of the Irish Mist will eat well. Their menu for Wednesday includes: Breakfast—vegetable juice, bacon and eggs, date muffins and drinks. Lunch—Boston baked beans and wieners, brown bread, salad (celery, tomato and garbanzo beans), baked apples with custard sauce. Dinner—ham with applesauce, candied yams with pineapple, green beans, salad with sardines and fruit.

Freshly baked (from mixes) hot muffins and rolls will be featured for breakfast and hot gingerbread, a dinner dessert.

No, no hardtack or grog!

"WE ALWAYS had a cook at home," said Miss Slater, "so I learned to cook on a boat. With me, it wasn't a case of adapting to the boat, but adapting to the shore."

"The most important thing in the galley is a good condiment shelf. I never actually serve the stuff the way it comes out of the can."

"We don't use dried food with the exception of onions and potatoes because they take water so there is actually no saving in weight."

"We can't plan on ice after the third day, so we keep the dinner wine in the fridge. It keeps it exactly the right temperature!"

The galley of the K-50 (K for Kellenburg, the designer of the boat and 50 for 50 feet long), where the food is prepared, would make any housewife who doesn't mind cooking on a tilt a very happy one.

At one end of a large, many-windowed main cabin, the galley features a double stainless steel sink and a three-burner alcohol stove with oven. The stove is on gimballs, so as the boat leans, so leans the stove.

"AS SAILING has become a family sport, modern boat design has incorporated more comfort," Miss Slater said.

The slate-blue hulled Irish Mist, paneled and trimmed with Honduras mahogany, not only looks sleeky comfortable, but is completely decorated down to framed prints of early explorer-sailors.

"How do you best launch a youngster on the proper course to learn sailing?" the expert sailor was asked.

"There's no sense in learning how if they don't have a boat," she said. Dinghies sell for around $350 and are a good beginner's boat. Choose the one that is currently popular in your area. You don't know how you're doing unless you have something to compare with.

"Children are naturally competitive. Racing is good for them. When you make a mistake in racing, it instantly shows. They learn from other children and it teaches good sportsmanship."

For adult beginners, Miss Slater was not so enthusiastic. She suggested taking the Power Squadron courses.

"After taking these, you are more likely to be invited aboard people's boats," she said dryly, "and will learn to wear soft shoes."

"SAILING takes experience," she said. "After all, you don't expect to be an expert tennis player by reading books about it."

She had good news for women sailors, however.

"Technique, not physical strength, is a necessity. A woman can always take the tiller while her husband pulls in the sheets."

Party Set by Chapter

Long Beach Chapter, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in auditorium, Long Beach Community Hospital, 1720 Termino Ave.

The film, "Long Day's Journey," will be shown.

Following, plans will be made for a party for members' children to take place Dec. 13 in Houghton Park Clubhouse.

Mrs. Florence Kenschmer, R.N., will be guest of the evening.

TRAVEL and RESORTS

"We would like to retire in Mexico—(have been reading what you say about it)—but I would like at least part-time work. Is this possible?"

You must live in Mexico as an "immigrant" for five years before they let you work. Some retired Americans have found part-time real estate gives extra money and an interest. But you must wait five years.

If you have a product you can create in Mexico and sell in the U.S., you can work at that. Writing, photography, business reports, etc. And, if you want to invest $16,000, you can work at your investment. A motel, maybe? A fishing resort?

There are some rules on ownership. You need a good Mexican lawyer before letting go of your money. You can get land along the sea coast, for instance. But it goes back to the government when you die. However, I believe there are corporation laws that might get around this.

I don't think work permits are easy except in U.S. associated territory—the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico. The Virgin Islands are moderately priced. Puerto Rico is a little higher than Continental U.S. The value would be that the weather is tropical. And you have splendid beaches.

If you are going to live in the tropics, look for two things: On the mainland, plan to live at least 5,000 feet up. Summers below that altitude are too hot. Or, get on one of the trade wind islands like Puerto Rico. Then the beach land is livable in the summer.

"Would we be safe on a fixed income in these countries? Or are costs rising?"

THEY'RE RISING—in Mexico, Spain, the Caribbean and Portugal. Mostly at the same rate that cost of living is going up in the U.S. But in some places, like Spain, where the living cost has been regulated, it's jumping faster.

I am getting quite a lot of information from Americans living abroad in the cheaper countries. If you wrote me before for this, you are on an off-and-on mailing list. You'll get such information occasionally. If you haven't asked for this, you can send me your name, address and one stamp.

Tourists Love Cuddly Koalas

One of the greatest tourist attractions anywhere is to be found in the animals and birds native to Australia. The cuddly koala bear is the most endearing of all, and it's a most happy sight to see these tiny, furry animals munching thoughtfully on their eucalyptus leaves and surveying the visitors who stand and watch them. Not too active by day, the koalas prefer life at night.

ECUADOR'S COLORADOS

They Live a Naked Life and Like It

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

SANTO DOMINGO, Ecuador—A few miles outside this quaint tropical town of ancient architecture and cobblestone streets is the jungle home of the Colorados, whose nonconformity with civilized society in their way of life has earned for them a unique place among the Indians of South America.

An increasing number of travelers drive down the west face of the Andes (it takes three hours, one way from Quito) to visit the Colorado village and to see what they come to see: men and women alike going about their daily routine clothed in striped chullinas, or wrap-around skirts which cover their bodies only below their waists. And the ladies and gents alike wear nothing but stripes, painted from a paste of the achote bean, above their waists.

When it rains—and this happened while a group of us flying down here via Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways) were at the village—do they partially protect the upper portions of their bodies with a light wrap (see illustration).

TRIBAL CUSTOMS often differ widely from ours in other ways, particularly at mating time.

When the boy feels he has gained maturity, he breaks away from his family, selects a name for himself, and builds his own hut. Thus, traditionally, is his way of saying that he is looking for a wife.

A girl who thinks she would like to be his bride comes to his hut on a trial marriage basis. If they like each other, she stays; if not, she leaves and another girl takes her turn.

When the couple is established as a family, the government assigns it 100 acres of the jungle land from which to earn a livelihood from bananas, cocoa and coffee plants which abound there.

THE COLORADOS once numbered 1,200, but only about 500 remain. Their slanted eyes suggest Mongolian origin, but some students of South American Indian culture believe they may have come from Polynesia.

Zaracay, the Colorados' most famous chief and witch doctor who was considered a god among members of the tribe, died 75 years ago.

The present chief, Abraham, also is a witch doctor and ailing Indians and whites come from as far as 200 miles to see him after medical doctors have failed to restore their health. In some cases he charges as much as $150 (American) to take their cases. A guide told me he often cures such cases, using some herbs but resorting mostly to rites and ceremonies.

BANANAS, cocoa and coffee—particularly bananas—form a major portion of the Colorados' diet, though they have their own cows and pigs that roam at will through the village.

Strong drink is a part of every villager's life. Theirs is aguardiente, an alcohol made from sugar cane, and it is passed in a jarra to each member of the family, children included.

The drive to Santo Domingo is a memorable ex-

AMERICAN Airlines is setting out to make businessmen's wives envious.

The airline has designed a Broadway theater tour package specially for businessmen planning trips to New York.

The tour—called "Showtime in New York"—offers a choice of a dozen hotels and boasts that "one call does it all": wraps up airline reservations, hotel accommodations and theater tickets.

Typical cost for two nights in a hotel and one orchestra ticket to an evening performance of a Broadway show is $38.75 at the Americana, $37 at the Waldorf, $40 at the Hilton. That is for each of two people in a double room.

Memo: Per person cost is higher if the businessman leaves his wife behind.

PASSENGERS embarking on an American President Lines Christmas Cruise to the Orient will enjoy a six-week vacation highlighted by all the fun and excitement of celebrating the holiday season at sea. Special festivities will dominate the shipboard schedule of events; among them "Tom and Jerry" parties, decorating the ship's tree, singing Christmas carols, and holiday dinners and dances.

American President Lines has three Christmas and New Year's cruises to the Orient with the two holidays celebrated at sea scheduled for the Presidents Wilson, Cleveland and Roosevelt.

perience in itself. The road, mostly hard-surfaced and in good condition, reaches an altitude of 12,000 feet before its descent to a luxuriant tropical world of rushing streams, towering waterfalls, bamboos, tree ferns and blue Morpho butterflies.

Tours to Santo Domingo de los Colorados starting from Quito cost about $8 per person by limousine, including lunch at the Hotel Zaracay. This clean, modern hostelry charges about $5 per person per day European plan, $12 to $13 American.

OUR COVER

A beautifully lighted home is one result of the fascinating hobby of Mrs. James Garren of San Pedro, shown on our cover with three of her creations. The cabochon-spangled lamp in her hands, the globe overhead which appears to be encrusted with ice crystals, and the rectangular lamp with the stained-glass effect in the rear were all made with liquid plastic. How these and many other art objects for the home are made by Mrs. Garren and her brother, Clifford Dahlquist, is detailed by free-lance writer Herb Shannon on Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

How many of us think we may be descendants of the colonists who came to America in the Mayflower? Next Sunday in Southland, at the height of the pre-Thanksgiving season—a time during which the Pilgrims prepared to give thanks for their bounty—genealogist La Reina Rule lists the passengers of the Mayflower and discusses who may be their descendants. Watch for "The Heritage of the Mayflower" in next Sunday's Southland.

She's Dancing and Singing Her Way Toward the Top

By
Charles Crutcher

DARCY GARO, 9-year-old Lakewood dancer, singer, pianist and actress, is traveling in the movies and on television, and her direction is up.

She played a fairy in the school sequence in the recent "Kentucky Jones" series filmed at Desilu Studio, Culver City.

She had the role of a school girl in Fred McMurry's "My Three Sons" and a similar part in Andy Griffith Show Oct. 12.

She is a little Roman girl in the movie "The Greatest Story Ever Told," to be released soon.

She wears an authentic Italian costume and sings in the International Children's Choir.

For four years she has won a blue ribbon in the "Little Miss America" contest in Hollywood Bowl.

Like most youngsters, Darcy Garo finds the telephone a necessity, is proficient in youthful jargon that goes with it. She's a rising entertainer.

SHE HAS SOME nearly priceless autographs in her little red autograph book: "My love to you, Darcy... Lloyd Bridges," "Hi, Darcy... Bob Barker," "To Darcy, Good Luck... Dennis Weaver," "Thanks for a fine job on the Pat Boone Show... Don Van Atten, associate producer."

In between assignments, Darcy and her father, Dave Garo, 6203 E. Turnergrove Drive, Lakewood, make up a father-daughter team, singing, dancing, playing the guitar and harmonica, at prisons, hospitals, before church groups and clubs.

It's definitely the father who plays the guitar and harmonica. Darcy sings and dances.

"When Darcy was 2," says Garo, "I played my harmonica for her and watched her reactions. Would she take an interest in the harmonica? I could use another harmonica player in the family."

DARCY DID NOT. She took her dad's harmonica for an ear of corn and tried to eat it.

"But she wanted to tap dance," interposes Darcy's mother, Gloria. "She couldn't keep her feet still even when there wasn't music. When there was music, she was all over the place."

A pair of tap shoes was bought for Darcy (she was practically a natural) and Richard Granger and Easter Beekly of the Granger Dancing Academy began giving her lessons.

"I played dozens of records over and over," says her mother, "and she practiced tirelessly."

Darcy's voice was discovered and trained. She joined the United Nations Children's Choir, now the International Children's Choir.

THE CHOIR, composed of 70 small fry and teen-agers, represents virtually every country. The aim, in the words of Easter Beekly, founder is "to help create a climate for peace, for more brotherly love and more world friendship among peoples and nations."

In their fresh, young voices, the choir members sing:

"Let there be peace on earth
 And let it begin with me;
 And let there be peace on earth,
 The peace that was meant to be
 With God as our Father,
 Brothers all are we.
 Let me walk with my brother
 In perfect harmony."

Darcy won a ribbon in the "Models and Mannequins" show in the Wilshire Ebell Theater in April 1960 and a plaque in the "Littlest Mermaid and Junior King Neptune" contest in Pacific Ocean Park the next December.

When she played a little girl in the park in the movie "The Clown and the Kid" in 1961, a public relations man from the Screen Children's Guild began phoning newspapers to tell them that Darcy Garo was on the way up.

SHE PLAYED in "Pavine for a Gentle Lady," an hour-long segment of the Ben Casey show. She appeared in the Pat Boone show on Thanksgiving Day 1962.

Last summer she was on the Ede Adams and the Wishbone television shows. She was a Greek peasant girl in the Lloyd Bridges show, and an Indian girl in "I and Claudie."

When she was 6 years old, she cut a record advertising a certain brand of tuna. She still occasionally hears that record on the radio.

Darcy is in the fifth grade in Grover Cleveland school and has been president of her class for three years. Her sister, Gail, 22, plays the piano; her brother, Bryan, 18, plays lead guitar (a chip off the old block) in a rock and roll band.

Any problems in the Garo household?

"I left my bicycle in front of the house, and it was stolen," admits Darcy. "My dad took my riding privilege away from me for a week."

Then there was the question of a pet. Darcy wanted a Persian grey rabbit or a guinea pig.

"My mother said 'No,'" says Darcy. "But I worked on my Dad for a week... I got the rabbit!"

What Your Name Means

By La Reina Rule

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of FAGULEC, Czech or Bulgarian.—C. A., Long Beach.

C. A.: FAGULEC is a Slavic central European surname. The root-source was the archaic Gothic term "Fagrs" meaning "watchman or watchful one." To this was added the descendancy suffix "-ec."

a "Motier," an ancestor who had the right from his baronial overlord to take the soil of the baron's property for use in repairing causeways and dykes. The Motier shield is red, crossed by a diagonal gold stripe and bordered by a stripe of blue and white fur pieces.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze HONEYCUTT, HUNNICUTT.—N. H., Cypress, R. H., Long Beach.

N. H., R. H.: HONEYCUTT and the phonetic form HUNNICUTT originated from an English place-name. The source phrase, "Hunnicott" deciphers as "bee-keeper's house." No other data is available on these names.

DEAR MISS RULE: May we learn about MUSSELMAN.—P. W., Long Beach; F. S., Artesia.

P. W., F. S.: MUSSELMAN is a rare German surname which evolved from the 11th century syllables "Muozel-mann." This translates as "man or hero with great spirit." No shield is recorded for Musselman.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you explain MOYE.—M. M., Downey; E. R., Lakewood.

M. M., E. R.: MOYE is a Flemish Belgian nickname form of the given-name Moyses or Moses, deciphered as "saved from the bulrushes." The Moya shield from Flanders is gold, embellished with an "X"-shaped cross covered with checkered squares of red and silver. A green clover leaf lies between each arm of the cross.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on CALKINS.—L. C., Long Beach; P. C., Torrance.

L. C., P. C.: CALKINS was originally "Kalk-kins" and 11th century English cognomen that referred to "Young singer or chanter." The Calkin-Calkins shield is silver, emblazoned with an inverted red triangle.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the source of PENTICO.—N.C., Costa Mesa

N.S.: PENTICO is Spanish. This ancient surname translates as "fifth child," from the Latin prefix "Penta" meaning "five."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on GILLIES.—R.G., Garden Grove; S.G., Long Beach

Geniuses With New Art Form

By HERB SHANNON

HUNDREDS of Southland hobbyists have discovered their own hidden talents along with liquid plastic, a fascinating do-it-yourself medium which allows almost unlimited freedom of expression.

Art objects by the thousand are appearing in local homes as a result of the growing popularity of this creative craft. These products of native ingenuity and a highly adaptable raw material range from the strictly functional to the purely decorative.

The two aims are combined in useful trivets, goblets, candy jars, cigarette boxes, candle holders and other tableware which may be encrusted with homemade but realistic appearing semiprecious stones. Larger projects include lamp shades with unique jeweled and stained glass effects, glasslike table tops embedded with personal mementoes and room dividers or wall hangings blazing with translucent or reflected color.

It is even possible to use the plastic as a paint for permanent palette efforts or to give dime-store glassware a costly blown-glass appearance.

A GOOD SHARE of the area-wide enthusiasm for this form of self-expression is due to how-to-do-it demonstrations by two graduates of California State College at Long Beach who developed the technique from industrial applications of the same basic materials.

Five years ago, Clifford Dahlquist, 1258 W. 18th St., San Pedro, was working in the plastics department at the Douglas Aircraft plant in Torrance, using polyester resins to form parts for the interior of the DC8 Jetliner. After he began teaching at North High School in Torrance, he remembered the interesting possibilities in the materials and started experimenting with it in adult craft classes.

These experiments intrigued his sister, Mrs. James Garren, 1946 MacArthur St., San Pedro, a substitute teacher in the Los Angeles City Schools. She persuaded him to demonstrate the use of plastics at an art festival in Crestwood Elementary School near her home.

THE DEMONSTRATION was an instant success and led to requests for similar seminars elsewhere. Together, Dahlquist and Mrs. Garren have conducted classes for school organizations, women's club and YWCA groups throughout Long Beach, San Pedro and the harbor area.

To meet the continuing demand for these workshops, the brother-sister team combined their names to form Dalgren Plastics, through which they supply the special laminating-type resins and other materials they work with.

Not the least attractive feature of liquid plastic is its virtually foolproof qualities. Observing a few simple steps in the proper sequence guarantees results.

The plastic is in two basic forms, a thick paste for cementing and a syrupy liquid for casting transparent forms or

Sleuths of the Dead Letter Office

Human shortcomings in addressing and identifying mail pose a big problem for U.S. postal people. Here, clerks face a fresh batch of dead letters.

By Lorna Leever Tatum

THE San Francisco Dead Letter Office almost became the final resting place for a most unusual "dead parcel."

The small wooden box, wrapped in brown paper, arrived in S.F. with the addressee marked unknown. When opened, they found an urn containing cremated remains and a certificate indicating the funeral parlor and crematorium in Texas that had treated the contents. By contacting the crematorium they were able to restore the ashes to the widow.

As a result of carelessness, the Post Office Department receives more than $675,000 a year, representing the combined proceeds from auctions of dead parcel contents and money from dead letters.

(One mistake in Long Beach is mail addressed to Los Altos, California, but intended for that district of Long Beach. Such mail may go to the northern California city. This is an instance where the ZIP Code would clarify the address.)

IN OUR 17 dead letter and 15 dead parcel post offices in the U.S., specially designated postal clerks, (the only persons in the postal service with the authority to open first class mail) sleuth their way through many mysteries every day, though only one-twelfth of the more than 22½ million letters received in a year can be returned. This figure represents just one 60-foot railroad mail car packed to the brim, out of a total of 12 such cars. It would take 124 cars to transport the nearly 1½ million dead parcels.

Through the diligent efforts of a clerk, New York returned a dead letter containing $150. It gave the name and address, but no city or state, just the number 99. It was forwarded to Seattle, Washington, the number 99 being the clue denoting the zone number of the address.

These special clerks must be nearly tripled to handle the Christmas deluge, which varies from four to seven times more than the normal 30 day average. For example, Chicago normally processes about 135,000 dead letters a month; in December the number rises to more than 922,000.

AFTER A NEWSPAPER publication of the number of dead letters received in San Francisco during one Christmas season, that office received a quaint note saying, "May I please have my share of money that I understand you have been collecting from dead letters?"

A typical undeliverable letter contained a $20 bill sent as a gift from a husband to his wife. She didn't receive it because no city or state was given, and there was no return address.

Postmasters agree that about 99% of dead mail results from failure to show a return address on the envelope or wrapper.

This mail, (if it has contents worth $1 or more) is destined to spend one year in a dead letter "morgue" waiting to be claimed by the sender.

Foreign mail cannot be opened. It is held for 30 days, then returned to the country of origin, if directory service fails to locate the addressee.

AN EXCEPTION was made to the one-year retention period rule in San Francisco. In this case a man made regular monthly alimony payments every month of from Eight $10 to $20 in cash to his former wife in Los Angeles. The wife moved leaving no forwarding address. The money continued to be sent to the old address. The San Francisco office felt that eventually an inquiry would be filed by one of the parties.

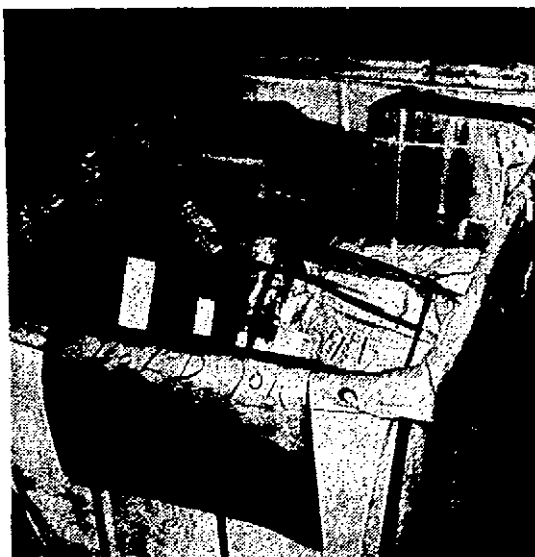

Five years later an acquaintance of both parties brought the situation to light. He knew the man was sending the money, but the woman wasn't receiving it. She filed a claim, and a release for the money was signed by her former husband. Since the post office had sufficient proof that the five-year claim was valid, a special dispensation from Washington, D.C., granted permission for payment of the accumulation, which amounted to more than $700.

Occasionally someone tries to test the wits of the Post Office by purposely making it difficult to locate an addressee. For example, Denver received a letter addressed to "Astronomical Observatory," giving only the longitude and latitude, with a notation "I'll bet you don't receive this." A clerk who was a radio ham solved the case. A U.S. map giving the longitude and latitude lines revealed the location to be a small city in Connecticut.

CURRENCY found in dead letters is banked daily in a special trust fund account. Envelopes are endorsed to show the date and the amount found therein. They are filed alphabetically by name of the addressee and by date.

A hodge-podge of items, such as expensive photos, jewelry, negotiable securities, bonds, stocks, insurance policies, and theater and transportation tickets of various kinds are also filed for one year. Upon expiration, the envelopes and letters are destroyed; enclosures, if salable, are disposed of at postal auctions.

Parcels are first searched for an address within; contents are then put into storage bins by classification of the article. Auctions are held at least twice a year. About 12% represent salvage from insurance claims. The remainder are lost items. Proceeds from these sales amount to nearly half a million dollars a year.

Bin of parcels awaits a last attempt to get them to the addressee or back to the sender.

If clerks are successful in locating an addressee, dead mail is returned in this fashion.

A few packaged articles manage to escape this fate. Items as bizarre as the aluminum floorboard of a 1911 Maxwell car, such as Chicago received, have been returned. Films are sometimes run for license plates or road signs.

YOU CAN assure delivery of your mail by following these rules:

1. Always include a RETURN ADDRESS. Mail will be returned to you if undeliverable.
2. Use your ZIP CODE and that of the addressee. This can greatly reduce dead letters. For example, there are four cities of Long Beach in the U.S. The code for Long Beach (Long Island), N.Y., is 11561, and that of Long Beach, Wash., is 98631. Therefore, even if the city and state were omitted, a letter would be received, if it contained the right ZIP Code. Each post office in the U.S. has a different number. The first three digits indicate the city, and the last two show the zone.
3. Name your city, don't just put "City."
4. Use the change of address forms provided by the post office.
5. If your handwriting is poor, let someone address the envelope for you. Though skilled postal clerks manage to decipher hieroglyphics that would stump many an archeologist, don't count on it.
6. Wrap and pack parcels securely and include address INSIDE the package.
7. If you do lose something in the mail, file an inquiry form, and don't wait too long.

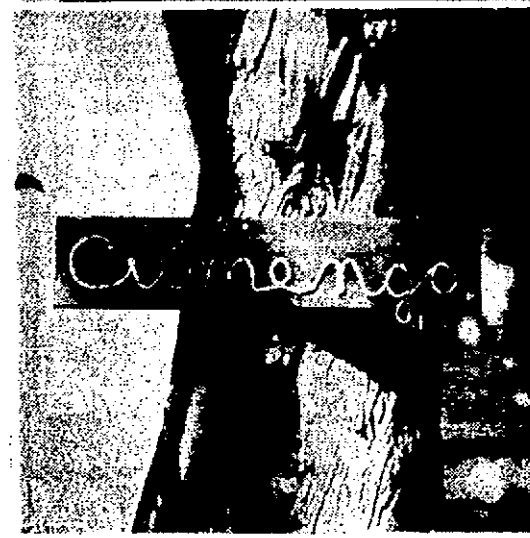

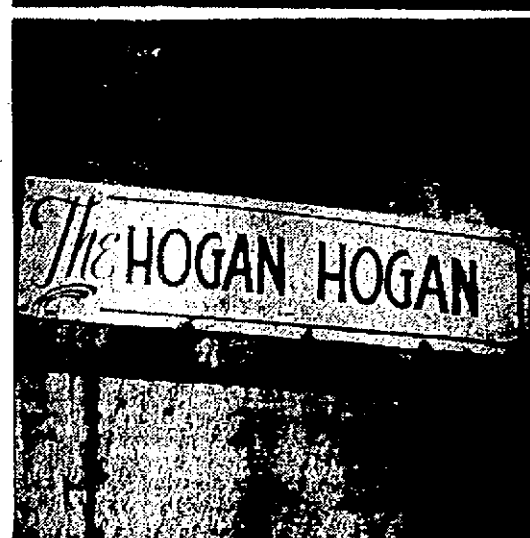

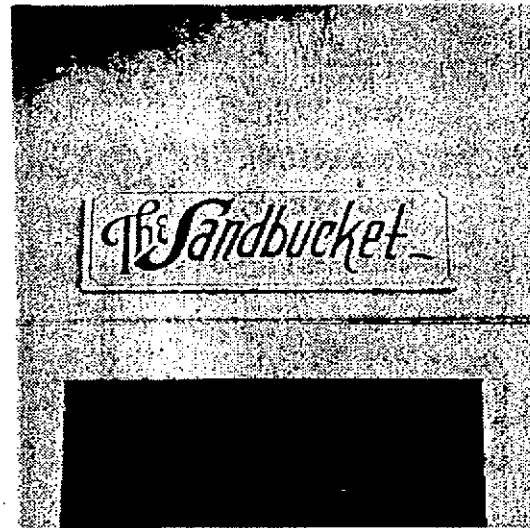

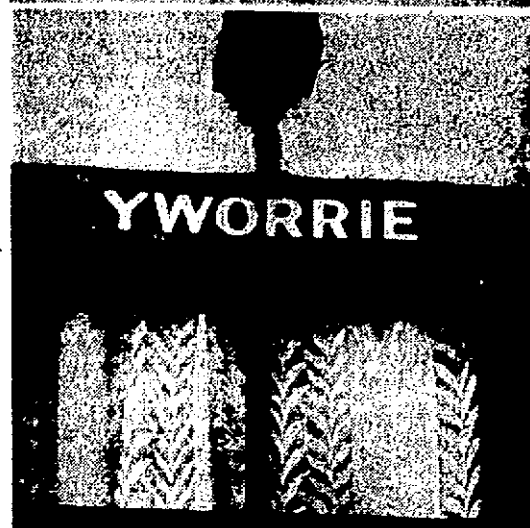

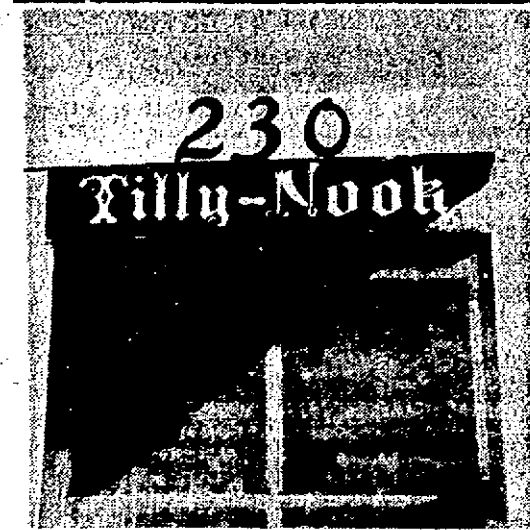

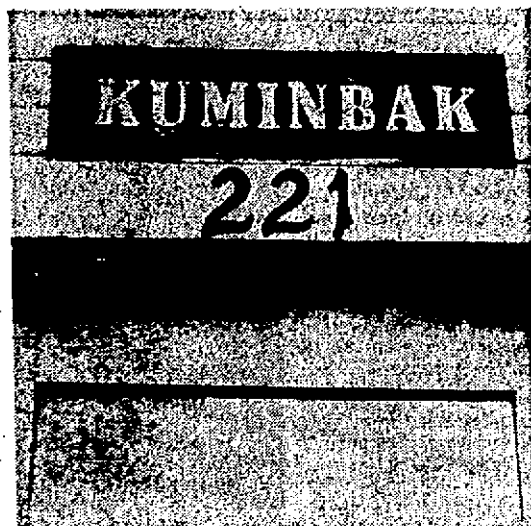

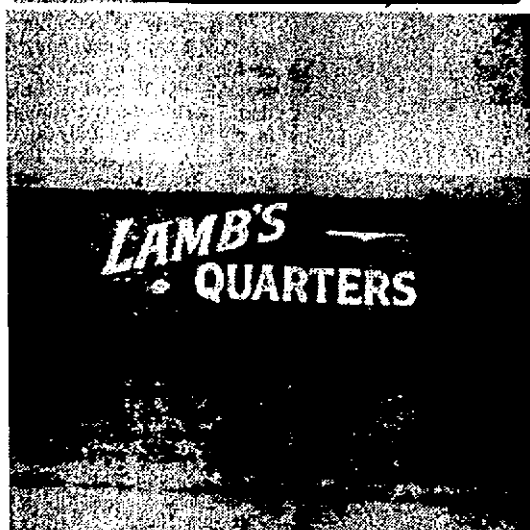

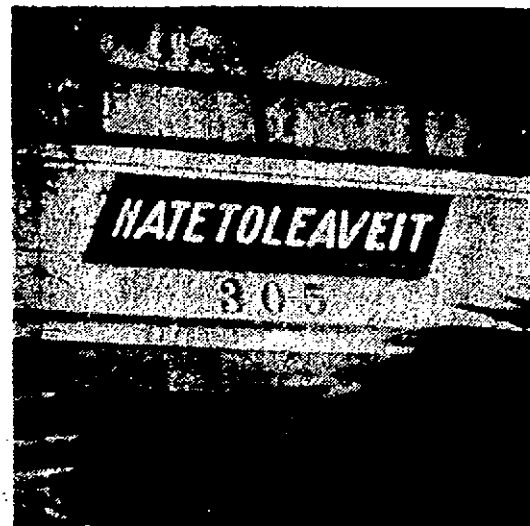

Follow the rules and help stamp out dead letters!

Hospitality Sets Mood on Balboa Island

By Hi Sibley

READING the name boards on the neat cottages of tight little Balboa Island gives the impression that guests have a happy time. There are so many and of such variations that it has almost become an epidemic. The idea was borrowed from English suburban communities where one sees such signs as "Mon Repos," "Bide-a-Wee," "Rose Cottage" and others.

Who put up the first sign board is not on record, but "Kuminbak" was a challenge for other homeowners to top. Another, "Hozaboutaparty" did just that and at the same time extended an invitation to congenial friends; "Hate To Leave It" and "Yworrie" guaranteed a restful weekend.

Combinations with the owners' names do double duty, such as "Lamb's Quarters," "Tilly-Nook," "The Hogan Hogan," while "Two Chaps" might indicate bachelor quarters. Appropriate for a beach house is "The Sandbucket"; "You All" and "Cumengo" are done in hemp rope. A ring buoy serves for "A Couple Naturals" with dice painted on.

If your own home is not identified, use your imagination for an original sign.

Johnny Morris From Long Beach Poly

Papa Bear's Little Giant

By JERRY WYNN

Listen my children and you shall hear of the amazing career of Baby Bear.

THINK OF THE Chicago Bears and you think of bluster and brawn, Papa Bear George Halas and the Monsters of the Midway, and such mighty men of pro football as Red Grange, Bronko Nagurski, Sid Luckman, Bulldog Turner and George McAfee.

And no other team can boast of such a great collection of ends as the Bears with Bill Hewitt, George Wilson, Hamp Pool, Ken Kavanaugh, Ed Sprinkle, Harlon Hill and Mike Ditka. One name is missing from the latter list. He has no bluster and no brawn, and (one may conclude) no business to be playing in a game of brawling supermen with his build of 5-foot-10, 180 pounds to accompany a placid, baby face.

But Johnny Morris this season became the all-time pass receiving champion of the Chicago Bears.

ONCE UPON A TIME, there was born in Long Beach a son to Mr. and Mrs. Gus Morris. His name was Johnny, and he grew up as other boys his age, loving nothing better than to run and jump and play football. He was a newspaper boy for the Long Beach Press-Telegram, and such a good one, he won a contest for obtaining the most new subscriptions.

But Johnny had a problem. He was too small to play football with the bigger boys. So, at Long Beach Poly High School, he performed on the "Bee" team his first year and did not play football at all his junior and senior years. Instead, he was a trackman and competed in the dashes and broad jump.

Unlike other prep athletes, little Johnny received no scholarship offers to go to college. He did take a drive with a Poly coach, Sam Dimas, to the University of California at Santa Barbara, and decided to enroll there because of the pretty campus.

Johnny's football career at Santa Barbara began as inauspiciously as it had been at Poly. He did not play as a freshman. But he went out for the team as a sophomore and became a flashy 160-

head coach in Johnny's junior year, and told the Long Beach sprite that he would recommend him for a tryout with the Bears if he could get his weight up to 170 as a senior.

Let Johnny continue his story:

"During my senior year, I received a call from George Halas saying that the Bears would pick me up as a free agent since no other club knew about me. But I did get a telegram from the Packers asking me if I was willing to play for them. The next thing I knew I read in the papers that I was drafted by the Bears on the 12th round.

"I honestly didn't know whether I was good enough or big enough to play pro football, but I decided then that I would do everything in my power, mentally and physically, to make the grade. That decision was the most important of my life.

"I REPORTED to the Bears at Soldier Field in Chicago in the summer of 1958. It was my first trip to the East, and I felt lost when I arrived. I was a little shrimp among the big, famous Bear players and no one seemed to notice me. Then an elderly man walked up to me, and said, 'Jump on the bus.'

"It was Halas.

"I'll never forget that bus ride to our training camp in Rensselaer, Ind. I sat next to Bob Jewett, who was an all-America end at Michigan State, and I was really impressed by him and the other players. When we got to the practice field, I again felt like a midget . . . and I still do."

Morris later learned that the Bears had him rated highly, but at the time, he felt they were just biding their time before releasing him. They had three prominent veteran halfbacks in Willie Galimore, J. C. Carlisle and Tom Watkins. Johnny Morris was an unknown rookie.

BUT MORRIS was befriended by quarterback George Blanda ("He kept giving me the ball when I was in there") and remained on the team through the final pre-season game against the Cleveland Browns.

"Then I was sure I had had it. I fumbled the first three times I got the ball. The first was a kickoff, and the Browns ran the fumble back for a touchdown. The second was a punt, and they kicked a field goal for a 10-0 lead. Then when I fumbled the next kickoff, Halas said to me, 'Son, you better sit out the rest of the game.'

"I was so despondent, I called my wife, Jeannie, and (Continued on Page 14)

Comfort and Luxury for a Family of 8

By Stella George

COMFORTABLY and luxuriously accommodating a family of two adults and six children, the two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jeffries and family, 17161 Westport Dr., Huntington Harbour, seems to have been planned and developed with just its occupants in mind.

The front door opens into an area of spaciousness. From the doorway there is open access to the large living room on the left, the floating stairway above a planter directly ahead, and the dining quarters on the right. A glass wall behind the stairway adds to the luxurious and expansive interior view.

An L-shaped sofa faces a round coffee table. Near the fireplace are two blue Danish modern occasional chairs with a nest of three tables nearby. Lamps are tall and handsome.

The kitchen is designed with step-saving and a maximum of efficiency in mind. It unites with the family room on one side and the formal dining room on the other. In the family room there is a game table that

IN THE children's quarters, Marie and Kathleen share a blue bedroom, Tracy and Julie have a pink room, and Jeffy and Bobbie enjoy a room in green.

The master bedroom is done in a rich avocado shade. There is an unobstructed view of the surrounding countryside from the corner where glass walls meet.

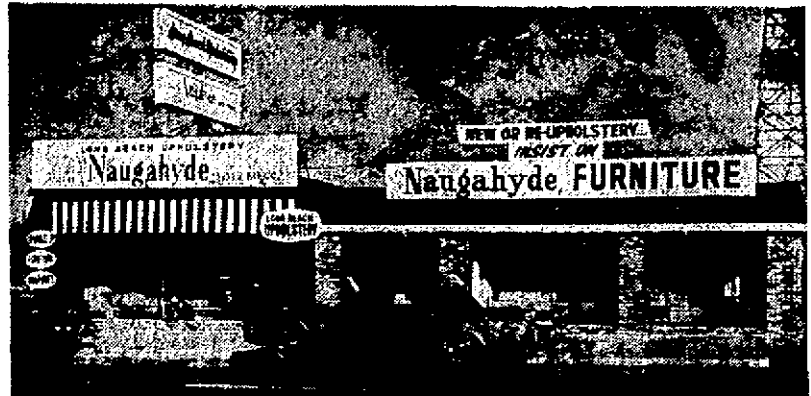

With beach club and boating facilities nearby, everyday living becomes an exciting vacation for the adults and youngsters alike.

Architects for the Jeffries home, and several others in its immediate vicinity, were Robert M. Thomas and Walter J. Richardson, AIA, of Santa Ana.

Little Giant Plan Travelogue

BUT JOHNNY never made it home, that is. In his six full seasons, he has streaked for nearly 6,000 yards in four different categories (2,733 on pass receptions; 1,034 rushing, 1,267 kickoff returns; 869 punt returns) and he played a major role in Chicago's capturing the World Championship in 1963.

Although the Bears have catapulted from the heights this season, Morris is having his greatest individual year. For heading into today's game against the Rams at the Coliseum, the lad who was too small to play at Poly High ranks high and mighty as the National Football League's No. 1 receiver.

It has been an amazing career for Baby Bear Johnny Morris.

Long Beach Camera Guild will have a travelogue of colored slides with sound at a meeting at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in Los Altos Library. Guild contest winners in November included Gerald Church, Al Goglin, Hazel Vosper, Elva Hayward, Don Hayward, C. H. Wallace, Lillian Garton and Ruth Gay, 35mm color; Clara Watkins Church, Floyd Williamson and Elva Hayward, stereo. Margaret Estes judged.

Be a Pro With a Salad Bowl

Plan a menu around any one of these exciting salads from other nations —Beef Salad Italiano, Chinese Chicken Salad, Shrimp Salad Dansk and Mexican Holiday Salad. Serve a special blend of coffee or tea for a finale with foreign flair. They're a treat and variation from standard.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

SALADS are international in their appeal. Each family has a few favorite salads that are made time and time again, perhaps as much out of habit as preference. Some salads, such as Caesar and Waldorf, were originated by professional chefs; others were first made by resourceful homemakers who combined whatever greens, fruits and vegetables grew in their gardens.

Grand as they are, these "All-American Favorites" are being challenged by worthy rivals from other lands as we become increasingly international in our eating. If you've slipped into a salad rut, sample some from other nations. Go "Around the World in a Salad Bowl." Bon voyage! Bon appetit!

Beef Salad Italiano

- 3 ribs celery
- 3 carrots
- 1 can (4 oz.) whole pimientos
- 1 can (8 oz.) cut Blue Lake green beans
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup coarsely chopped green pepper
- $\frac{3}{4}$  cup low-calorie Italian-style or French dressing
- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
- 3 cups cooked beef strips
- 1 red onion, sliced
- Salt

Cut celery and carrots into diagonal slices; cook in boiling salted water about 5 minutes until tender-crisp; drain. Drain pimientos and beans. Cut pimientos into strips. In bowl mix celery, carrots, pimientos, beans and green pepper with dressing. Chill at least 1 hour. To serve, line shallow bowl with outer leaves of lettuce. Cut remaining lettuce into 2-inch chunks, add with beef and onion to chilled mixture. Toss lightly. Add salt to taste. Turn into salad bowl. Makes 6 servings.

Chinese Chicken Salad

- 1 medium-size head western iceberg
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup cornstarch
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup flour
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1 frying chicken ( $3\frac{1}{2}$  lbs.), cut up
- 2 eggs, beaten
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons hot water
- 1 teaspoon toasted sesame seed
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped parsley
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup oil and vinegar dressing
- 2 or 3 teaspoons soy sauce
- Dash monosodium glutamate

Core, wash, drain and dry lettuce; shred to make 4 cups. Chill. Mix cornstarch with flour, mustard, salt and pepper. Dip chicken into cornstarch mixture, then into eggs, then again into cornstarch. Brown on all sides in hot oil in skillet. Add water; cover, cook slowly 30 minutes or until tender. Uncover and cook 5 minutes longer to crisp coating. Cut chicken from bones into thin strips. Toss chicken and lettuce with remaining ingredients. Serve at once. (Lettuce should be icy cold; chicken piping hot.) Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Shrimp Salad Dansk

- 2 packages celery-flavored or lemon gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup cold water
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup herb and garlic dressing
- $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon dill weed
- 1 can ( $4\frac{1}{2}$  oz.) medium deveined shrimp
- 6 to 9 cucumber slices, halved
- 6 slices tomato
- 6 crosswise slices ( $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch each) western iceberg lettuce

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in cold water, dressing and dill. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Meanwhile rinse and drain shrimp. Pour a little gelatin into each of 6 individual molds; place shrimp in bottom of each. Chill until shrimp layer is set. Fill molds with remaining gelatin. Press cucumber slices around sides of molds. Chill until firm. To serve, place a tomato slice on each lettuce slice. Unmold gel-

Make Trash a 'Has-Bin'

By Steve Ellingson

IT HAS been said that necessity is the mother of invention and that certainly is true with the trash bin shown here with NBC's Bob Barker. While a garbage can may have character, it certainly is lacking in beauty. No matter where you place it, or how much you paint it, it still remains a garbage can. And of course, it doesn't take dogs long to learn how to tip the thing over. Once it's tipped, the flies take over.

The container shown is good looking and may be used in any part of your yard. You need only lift the top to dump trash in and open the doors to pull the cans out. It's weatherproof, animal and fly proof, and big enough to hold the largest size cans.

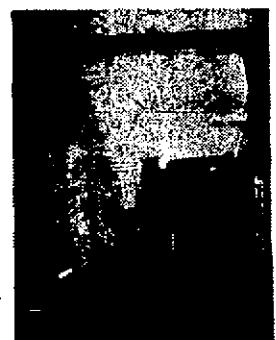

IT MAY also be used to store firewood. For trailer-ites, it makes a handy extra storage area when placed beside the trailer. Boat owners use it for the same purpose at the end of their dock. And of course, it makes a good potting shed for home gardeners. It's large enough to store fertilizers, pots, small implements and the like, yet small enough to use in a limited space.

Unsightly garbage and trash cans become has-beens as eyesores when put aside in this bin.

Here's another project that you amateurs can undertake with success when you use the easy-to-follow Pattern No. 240 and to obtain it send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Storage Chest in Colonial Style

By Bill Meyerriecks

SKETCHBOOK colonial designs have met with a measure of success with do-it-yourself woodworkers for several good reasons. The primary reason is attractiveness, as in this week's offering of plan S-185, the Colonial Storage Chest. The early American projects are popular to build, too, because they are relatively easy to make, sturdy in construction and always serve a practical function around the home.

The handsome storage chest meets all these criteria of popularity. It is patterned after those made by early American craftsmen. We've added an extra with this Sketchbook plan in that you can keep it plain in Colonial style, or dress it up with molding and bright paint for a Pennsylvania Dutch effect. Patterns of the latter designs are given in the S-185 plan.

THE CHEST has two compartments as shown in the illustration. The largest is reached simply by lifting the top lid and the smaller is in the form of the wide pullout drawer. At the foot of the bed, it provides handy extra storage for blankets, pillows and bedsheets.

Besides the bedroom, it can be used in the family room, guest room or anywhere you have some large items to store.

TO ORDER, specify Sketchbook Plan S-185 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

Attractive chest which fits the width of most twin beds is an answer to shortage of storage.

Ulcer Freezing Failure Told

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

THE TECHNIQUE of freezing the stomach to give relief to peptic ulcer patients has been found to have another drawback.

Relief often is only temporary.

Minnesota researchers report that ulcer symptoms recur within six weeks in more than one-fourth of those who undergo the procedure. Only one-third are without symptoms six months later.

And even after a second freezing, half of these patients have recurrent symptoms within 6 to 24 weeks.

The findings, reported in the AMA Journal, are based on a study of 210 freezes in 168 patients with ulcer of the duodenum, first portion of the small intestine. Forty-two of the patients had a second freezing.

NERVOUS STRAIN is the most frequent cause of foul breath, says a doctor. Reason: Tension impairs the normal secretion of saliva.

Dr. Thomas R. Rees, reporting in Medical Annals of District of Columbia, says that salivary glands become dormant when one is under strain or is excited.

Says Dr. Rees: "Your mouth and throat become dry—and hundreds of little dry pockets or semi-dry pockets containing saliva become just so many tiny cesspools."

The breath passing over these little pools becomes foul, he adds.

However, if mucous membranes are kept moist, a considerable percentage of halitosis can be eliminated, he says.

Treatment: An occasional lozenge in the mouth or, better still, a stick of chewing gum.

THREE YOGA exercises which increase oxygen consumption might serve to fortify a person against threat of oxygen lack during an emergency, a Yale researcher reports.

A 32-year-old Yale student born in India performed the yoga breathing patterns while the researcher checked the subject's oxygen levels, according to the Journal of Applied Physiology.

The exercises have exotic names: ujjayi, kapalabhati, bhasrika.

Dr. Walter R. Miles says there is some indication that training with these exercises may have elements in common with adaptation to high altitude.

THE PURPLE sea urchin poses a hazard for skin divers. Its spines can cause disabling puncture wounds.

A report in California Medicine tells of a 30-year-old SCUBA diver seeking abalone off the coast 25 miles south of San Francisco. The diver struck the back of his right hand against a sea urchin, and the spines punctured the right middle finger around the middle joint.

The wounds appeared to heal. But three months later, swelling and discoloration of the finger occurred. Symptoms became progressively worse. Eventually, surgery had to be performed.

Pretties with Plastic

for providing a smooth, glossy finish. A few drops of catalyst added to the resin base starts a hardening process which turns either into a glasslike solid.

BOTH CAN BE colored to any shade or intensity by adding dyes, and the plastic can be used alone or in combination with glass "globs," metal shavings, Venetian tile and a wide variety of other materials.

Many unusual effects are also obtained by casting the thin plastic into various shapes and using these for decoration of the finished object. Almost any kind of container such as refrigerator trays and pastry tins may be used for casting crystal shapes and sculptured pieces, providing the mold is first sprayed with wax to prevent the plastic from sticking to it.

These are only a few of the artistic possibilities afforded by plastic. Many more remain to be explored. The only limitation is the scope of the individual's imagination.

The Impact of Christianity

By Vera Williams

Southern Magazine Book Editor

COMING OUT well before Christmas, THE HORIZON BOOK OF CHRISTIANITY is a richly illustrated record of Christianity's impact on 2,000 years of Western civilization — from its beginning in the distant Jewish past to the ecumenical movement of today.

A staff of nine editors and researchers worked a year on the project, under Marshall B. Davidson, editor of Horizon Magazine. The 135,000-word narrative is by Roland H. Balton, who recently retired as professor of ecclesiastical history at Yale.

The volume contains 499 pictures, 152 in color, drawn from the vast treasury of Christian art. Examples of 20 centuries of Christian art are included, ranging from Roman catacomb paintings to the masterworks of the Sistine Chapel, from the serene and beardless Good Shepherd to agonizing scenes of the crucifixion, from the soaring cathedrals of the Middle Ages to the clapboard meeting houses of New England. Illustrations were selected from museums, libraries and private collections on five continents.

"The Horizon Book of Christianity" is published by American Heritage Co., distributed by Harper & Row ($14.95; after Christmas, $18.95). It also comes in a presentation edition, boxed and buckram-bound, $18.95; after Christmas, $25).

INTERVIEWER and critic Roy Newquist traveled 60,000 miles through the United States and Europe to record frank and revealing commentaries of 63 authors, critics and playwrights in "COUNTERPOINT" (Rand McNally, $9.95).

Included are Ben Hecht's assessment of modern woman, Jessica Mitford's description of her unorthodox childhood, Sterling Hayden's thumbs-down view of Hollywood, Peter De Vries' analysis of satire, and Leo Rosten's attack on the clichés of happiness.

There also are a blunt, behind-the-scenes look at James Bond by Ian Fleming, Mark Van Doren's viewpoints on teaching, an angry assault on critics by William Inge, and a deft appraisal by C. P. Snow of "Angry Young Men," the "Establishment" and "Two Cultures."

In the Introduction, Newquist says his objective in the question-and-answer interviews was "to capture the working philosophies of the writer, his own life and attitudes toward life, his own work and the reasons for that work."

FEW BOOKS rate the adjective "delightful." Here is one that truly does: "THE GENTLE PEOPLE, Stories of Animals Who Came to Stay" by Era Zistel (Holt, Rinehart & Winston, $3.95). The author lives in a cabin in the woods near Haines Falls, N. Y., and she writes in enchanting fashion of the shy ones who come to live with her — raccoons, goats, rabbits, chipmunks, flying squirrels, skunks, opossums, and a wild manx. They get along well with her, with each other, and with the houseful of cats. In its pages one meets a goat with a talent for teaching, a rabbit who brings up kittens and feeds them fresh clover, a raccoon who takes over the task of washing socks and shirts. Era Zistel took the photographs and wrote the captions for "Wintertime Cat" last year.

CAREER GIRL, in the city: Don't imagine that you are safe. Know that you are NOT safe. Look over the neighborhood carefully, both by day and night, before you move in; change the locks when you take over an apartment; don't give your address or telephone number to casual acquaintances; carry a weapon — a corkscrew, he says, is a good one. If you are attacked, scream, fight, pull hair — mark your assailant so that police can identify him.

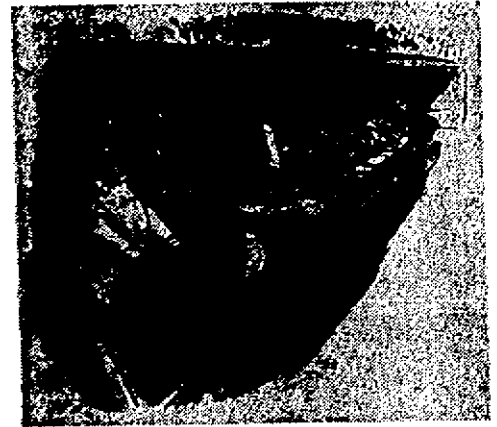

Hardrock advice to the young girl on her own is given by Max Wyllie in "CAREER GIRL, WATCH YOUR STEP!" (Dodd, Mead, $2.95). Wyllie knows whereof he writes. His daughter, Janice, New York career girl, was killed in a senseless murder a few months ago.

SIX POEMS, written over a span of 30 years, comprise "THE NARRATIVE POEMS OF MARK VAN DOREN" (Hill and Wang, $7), a major volume that belongs alongside Van Doren's "Collected and New Poems, 1924-1963," published last year. In the new volume, Van Doren brings together "Jonathan Gentry," "A Winter Diary," "The Eyes," "The Mayfield Deer," "Mortal Summer," and one never before published, "Anger in the Room."

MONDAY: GOOD HUMOR DAY

Leave It to the Reporters

By Hoyt McAfee

MARK TWAIN gained such fame and popularity as an author-humorist that his admirers often called Nov. 16 "Mark's National Good Humor Day." That was in appreciation of a classic lead sentence Mark Twain wrote "one blustery Nov. 16 in frontier-day Nevada." He had, on that date, wandered down a country road into the hill country and witnessed a "hurry-up wedding."

Returning to Virginia City, Mark Twain began an account of what he'd just witnessed. It read: "Today I witnessed a most unusual wedding ceremony which made me downright nervous—for every time I glanced at the preacher he had his shotgun pointed directly at me instead of the unhappy groom!"

That brings to mind that in news and feature writing, no other challenge intrigues reporters more than how to fashion a clever, striking, or humorous lead. They've read books and listened to lectures which stressed: "Hit the reader between the eyes. Hook his interest with your first sentence. Make it sparkle. Give it curiosity-arousing impact."

IN RESPONSE to which reporters of other eras and of today have labored-leisurely or under-stress of impending deadlines to give their lead paragraphs real wallop. As the evidence clearly shows, some have produced masterpieces and others real dillies.

For example, in one small North Carolina town the race for chief alderman turned out to be touch and go. After all the ballots were counted and rechecked, a young man named William "Pip" Bradley was declared the winner by one vote—presumably his own.

In his opening paragraph the next day, the local paper's political reporter dryly observed: "In yesterday's election for alderman, the winner was Pip by a squeak!"

Veterans of the newspaper world chuckle heartily over the classic concerning the reporter who was sent to cover the disastrous Johnstown flood. After an on-the-spot survey of conditions there, he flashed this lead sentence back to his newspaper: "God sits on the hills overlooking Johnstown tonight."

BACK CAME this terse message from his irreverent

editor: "To hell with the flood—go interview God!"

On one of Harry Truman's "give-em-hell" whistle-stop campaign tours, he passed through numerous small towns in Ohio. His 30-minute stop-over at one spot moved a reporter there to write: "During President Truman's abbreviated visit here yesterday, he delivered a speech hotter than the hinges of the place where he told his Republican opponents to go!"

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's first 100 days in office produced the most dramatic and super-charged action this country has experienced in modern times. One newspaper sent a young reporter to Washington with instructions: "To write in simple, every day language of the President's efforts to get America back on its feet."

His editor's final exhortation was: "And for God's sake, write with machine-gun brevity." After a day of observation in political Washington, the scribe sped this dispatch off to his paper: "FDR acts P. D. Q. More articles of machine-gun brevity to follow!"

LATE EACH SUMMER, bands of Indians from various tribes and reservations are invited to Gallup, N.M., to stage ceremonial games, dances, and pageantry. This colorful fete attracts newspaper and magazine writers from around the nation. One brash reporter dispatched to Gallup by a Texas daily was told he'd be expected to send back copy "packed with novel punch lines."

He lost no time in complying with that directive. His first dispatch to his paper opened with this line: "Tomorrow the city fathers will give Gallup BACK TO THE INDIANS and the whole damn town will dance in the street to celebrate the occasion."

Sports writers and columnists also have shown themselves adept in thinking up ingenious lead sentences. As every baseball fan remembers, Preacher Roe chalked up many impressive pitching victories for the Dodgers in their Brooklyn days.

In the World Series against the Yankees one year, he came through with a masterpiece. So was one reporter's beginning sentence on it, to wit: "Preacher Roe delivered a sermon from the mound today!"

HEYWOOD BROWN, a widely syndicated columnist in his time, hit the jackpot with a piece on Babe Ruth, the famed "Sultan of Swat." Brown phrased it: "The Ruth is mighty and shall prevail."

Even weather reporters get into the act by trying to hammer out leads with sock appeal. For instance, when the late John F. Kennedy arrived in a West Texas city for a campaign speech, a downpour of hail greeted him. That inspired a local reporter to sum up: "Nature beat our city band to the punch today in welcoming President Kennedy with Hail To The Chief!"

As might be expected, reporters at the scene of disaster and on battle fronts have come through with their share of memorable lead sentences. Ernie Pyle, World War II's most celebrated frontline correspondent, was noted for his heart-stoppers. Consider this one: "In a fox-hole next to mine today, two GIs were joking about the comforts of their new home when a shell exploded and silenced their laughter forever."

FROM POINT BARROW, Alaska, on Aug. 14, 1935, an Associated Press reporter filed a dispatch which described the fatal plane crash in which Will Rogers and Wiley Post perished. This was how the AP man began it: "Death, racing through an Arctic fog, overtook peerless comedian Will Rogers today."

From Leopoldville, in the Congo, a correspondent for UPI, recently packed a wealth of information into his lead sentence. It read: "Communist-led terrorists on a hashish-crazed rampage through Kwili Province shot down one UN helicopter with a bow and arrow yesterday as it was flying eight Congolese nuns to safety."

During the Battle of New Orleans, Jan. 8, 1815, rugged Andrew Jackson led American forces as they stormed the city and defeated the British. This was how one front-line reporter described it: "Andy Jackson let out a bellow, cannon boomed, and the British bleated that they'd had enough of the blooming, bloody war!"

Sometimes a reporter can convey his meaning sharply by a play upon words. During the filming of "The Night Of The Iguana" in Mexico, one typewriter slave accompanied Liz and Burton on their ramble along the beach one morning.

In the dispatch he whipped out after his return, he reported: "During a stroll today, Mark Antony and Cleopatra (Liz and Burton to you) spotted a Fisher-man who resembled Eddie—and that spoiled the outing for them."

First Not Best

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: Are "first thoughts" usually the best?

ANSWER: Not necessarily.

A group of students were assigned a creative problem. Each student was told to make a list of ideas which seemed to be possible solutions to the problem.

The researchers discovered:

1. More good ideas appeared in the last half than in the first half of the idea lists.

2. The greater the number of ideas, the higher the quality of the ideas.

First thoughts may be good, but the genuine creative thinker does not restrict himself to those first thoughts. Usually, the more he thinks about a subject, the richer becomes his body of thought.

QUESTION: "Youngsters hear so much apparently contradictory advice. For example, they are told, on the one hand, to avoid being classed as non-conformist—and on the other hand to think independently and avoid conformism. Can you bring some light into this?"

ANSWER: We are dealing with two separate things—rules of conduct, and rules of thought.

Naturally, a young person should be expected to conform to the regulations and the sensible rules of society—for the sake of law and order and good relationships with his fellow human beings. But he should be encouraged to be a non-conformist in matters of principle and intellect. The men of courage and character of this world are those who are willing to question established principles and to go alone into new spheres of thought.

QUESTION: How many states have laws prohibiting teachers from inflicting physical punishment on students?

ANSWER: Only one—New Jersey.

R.K.: KASIAH is an obscure surname which research shows to be from the Arabic and Hebrew baptismal name "Kadi-Yah" meaning "God the Judge." Kasiah was used infrequently as a given-name and surname in Germany and eastern Europe.

His Honor, Judge of the Dogs

is honest and sincere, he will not be incensed so long as it does not question his integrity.

He must have a great sense of humor. Obedience trials are most amusing. Just think back and recall how dog trials were started. One early trial, if not the first, was held, of all places, in a dance hall. When the dogs skidded about, the sponsors of the event raced out and rented mattresses to spread on the floor. When the dogs began skidding about on mattresses, someone raced out again and returned with a bucket of huge nails and secured the mattresses to the floor. I can imagine the shouts of laughter, but I often wonder about the repair bills.

THE JUDGE must, of course, be healthy and able to stand on his feet for hours at a time without taking his eyes from the action in his ring.

The judge can see more of what takes place in an obedience ring than anyone in the gallery, for he can quickly move about, but even then he asks himself if he saw everything, penalized correctly. He is a most conscientious, unselfish person.

Clubs should respect judges, see that their task is pleasant, that food is available. And spectators and contestants should accord them courtesy, remembering that without obedience judges there would be no obedience trials.

A person becomes a licensed obedience judge in a series of steps. He must first judge a number of AKC-sanctioned matches, and he might not be asked to do so unless he has worked with licensed judges. Later he must actuallly apprentice at three licensed trials.

Attributes which make a fine obedience judge are similar to those making a fine field trial judge. See Standards of Judicial Practice and Field Trial Procedure published by Gaines Dog Research Center, 250 Park Ave., New York 17.

A GOOD dog event in this area today is the German Shepherd Dog Club of Long Beach breed and obedience match at Recreation Park, 10th Street and Federation Drive. A grand old dog is Ch. Zym of San Miguel, CD, (see illustration) owned by Ralph Philips, 128 Raton Circle. Zym is retired now, but his owner continues to gain achievements. He has recently received an American Kennel Club license as an obedience judge, a big step from being a dog owner, handler, and trainer.

Obedience judging is frequently an arduous task and often thankless. The judge must be honest, completely impartial, neither for nor against any particular breed in the ring. He must recognize that each contesting dog means a lot to its owner or handler and so merits his full attention no matter what the breed nor the quality of the dog's performance. No judging assignment, then, should be taken lightly.

HE MUST BE intelligent and know obedience from A to Z, something he learns best, as did Philips, from caring for, training, and exhibiting his own and other dogs as well as managing one or more training classes. Such experiences qualify him to understand better the performing dog's mental processes and reactions. And I don't mean that this experience can be gained from starting a dog in an obedience class, saying, "Great, here is a way I can earn a fast buck," and then going out and starting a class.

The judge must be calm, not easily ruffled, not given to snap judgment. He will receive criticism, but if it

Reporters

erally the advice, "make your lead sentence a model of brevity." As proof of that, witness how one Louisiana reporter reacted to a bawling out by his editor. He was told: "Your lead sentences poke along like a muddy river. Cut them to the bone. Rock me back on my heels with them!"

Returning to his police beat, the chastened reporter encountered a grim tragedy that same afternoon. A jealousy-crazed man followed his ex-wife and her new boy friend to a recreation park. There he attacked them with a long, sharp knife. But the deadly weapon was wrenched from his grasp and plunged, fatally, into his own heart.
After getting the details from police and the coroner, the reporter rushed back to his office. True enough, he cut his lead sentence "to the bone"—then placed it on his editor's desk.

It read:
"A corpse!"
"That's what poor Jim Bellows became today after losing a knife fight to his ex-wife's sweetie!"
At that point the fit-to-be-tied editor counted, very slowly, but decided against tearing his hair out—since he had so little of it left!

Lapidary Kitty

By Hap Park

THERE'S a Lapidary Kitty beneath the Rossmore Leisure World Amphitheater, but the story about it is concerned mostly with Clifford Rawson and the Leisure World lapidaries.

Rawson, 68, a self-taught and correspondence-course civil engineer who worked 25 years for Chrysler Corp. in Detroit and five years for American Pipe and Construction Corp. in South Gate, took over supervision of Leisure World woodshop No. 2 when he and Mrs. Rawson moved to 13922 El Dorada Drive, Apartment 58B, in November 1962.

In no time he branched out to fulfill the need for a lapidary instructor. After all, working with stone is about like working with steel. Just another kind of hard material; that and other kinds of machines.

A slab saw for slicing rocks is a large thin wheel charged with diamonds to eat off a hunk of rough rock when a lapidary wants it. A smaller trim saw cuts the stone down to about the desired shape.

GRINDING WHEELS reduce the piece nearer to the final size and shape after which sanding wheels take off the last rough edges. Finally the gem goes to the polishing stand. If it is very small it is placed in a tumbling barrel in which it whirls a month, one week

Affixed to a bit of stick, called a dop, a stone is ground on a wheel to desired form.

And thus, if you have the patience and ability to fasten a piece of stone to a dop and buff it gently against various wheels, you have a polished stone ready for use in a stickpin, ring, bracelet or what have you.

The Lapidary Kitty? Oh yes! That's a little wooden box with a slit in it to hold coins. The lapidaries slip a few pennies or other small coins into it from time to time. That's Rawson's idea, too. The contributions just about keep the happy, new artisans in polish and other materials.

Tray Planters

Nearly every household possesses one, or more, large metal tray or platter that seldom sees use. They can be attractively employed as bases for a cluster of house plants in terra cotta pots. Simply "pave" the platter with an inch or so of vermiculite and set your clay-potted plants on top.

Plant Columbines Now for Spring Show

By Joe Littlefield

COLUMBINES are one of few perennials that are hardy in nearly all areas of Southern California. The showy blooms with long spurs, particularly Burpee's McKona Giants, are spectacularly beautiful on tall flower spikes.

They grow best in partial shade, but take sun along the coast. They need a loamy soil or careful watering if grown in heavy packed soil to avoid root rot. Large clumps of plants usually are divided in the autumn season, and should be replaced every three years or so.

Where columbines need careful watering in heavy soils, most bulbs, on the other hand, seemingly aren't watered enough by gardeners, resulting in short flower spikes. Wholesale bulb growers implore garden writers and garden lecturers to stress giving bulbs lots of water, excepting where soil is poorly drained.

A simple trick to force tulips and dutch hyacinths to produce long-stemmed flowers is to place a darkening cover over the bulbs after they are planted. The box provides shade and coolness, slows down fast bulb root development and top growth. Gardeners must watch for slugs and snails. The box is taken off the specially planted group of bulbs when foliage is around three inches or so tall. The pale yellow foliage turns green within a few days, and the flower spikes grow much longer.

ANOTHER trick is to set these bulbs in partial shade where the soil stays damp and moist. The bulbs must be cushioned on a thick layer of sand, covered with sand, then with soil over sand. The sand tends to prevent bulb rot. We've grown tulips under such conditions. The spikes were 12 to 15 inches tall topped by gorgeous flowers.

If you plant pansies or violas a little too deep and keep the soil constantly moist, you may lose as much as half the planting. Set these plants with the small side growths at the base of trunk above the garden soil level and you are much less likely to lose plants to crown rot.

MANY GARDENERS thoughtlessly plant them too deep, keep soil too moist and a month and a half later, plants rot off at the soil line. When the root area and trunk below the soil line is dug up, generally roots are in healthy growing condition so is part of the remainder short stubby plant trunk. Worse still, as the crown rot sets in the gardener finds sow bugs and false wire around the sickly plants, assumes the damages is done by them, whereas it is the gardener who is to blame for this condition.

When color is needed in shady corners of a spring garden, columbines are the answer.

GARDEN CLUBS

Dominguez - Lincoln Village Garden Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Dominguez Building, 21156 Santa Fe Ave. A program and harvest table will be provided.

Members of Long Beach Parent Chapter, American Begonia Society, will discuss shade plants at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave. Plant table and refreshments will be provided.

Slides and motion pictures of "Lotus Land," the Santa Barbara home of Mme. Ganna Walska will be presented by Margaret and Chet Emery at a meeting of the Long Beach Cactus Club at Linden Hall, 208 Linden Ave., at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Jeanne Patton is club president. New officers will be elected at the meeting. The public is invited.

Colored slides of the New York World's Fair will be shown at a meeting of the North Long Beach chapter, American Begonia Society, at 7:30 p.m. Friday at 3901 N. Atlantic Ave. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Informal Hedges

Usually, gardeners associate the word "hedge" with a formal row of, sheared shrubs—often privet. But informal hedges are becoming more and more popular with California gardeners.

The informal hedge, reports the California Association of Nurserymen, permits greater use of plant material and—even more to some, it entails a good deal less maintenance. You head back an outsized branch here and there, but give it none of the constant attention which a formal hedge needs during its growing season.

The Abstract in Flowers

Abstraction seeks to reveal new attitudes inspired by a new age but does not necessitate turning completely away from the past, says Emma Hodkinson Cyphers in "Modern Abstract Flower Arrangements" (Hearthside Press, 118 E. 28th St., New York 16, N.Y. $4.95).

The author tells how to identify, evaluate and design the abstract in this volume of interest to all who enjoy working with arranging materials, not necessarily all flowers, for fun or for profit. She stresses the point of true self-expression in developing the abstract.

"To thine own self be true," she says of the credo of the artist. The book is technical but in an easy style, copiously illustrated, each illustration carefully described and analyzed. This is a work for persons seeking new freedom within the boundaries of an ancient art.

Free Swimming Pool Planning Kit

If you are planning a pool this year here is your opportunity to get a free kit showing all phases of pool construction. Also included are tips on pool buying plus complete information on special equipment. Kit is packed with facts and ideas you will want to know before you build.

This free kit was put out by Anthony Pools, world's largest pool-builder.

Its authoritative information was developed by Anthony, based on the building of over 24,000 pools.

In the pictures and text it describes the way modern pools are constructed. The growing use of high-speed automatic equipment for excavation and gunite cementing has kept the price of Anthony pools low while prices in general have gone up. A modern pool is just about the biggest bargain you can get these days.

It is important that you choose a builder large enough to offer you modern speed and economy.

During the first four months of this year Anthony has built more pools in the greater Los Angeles area than the next three largest pool builders combined. This is a dramatic endorsement of Anthony's value, service, and reputation.

Kit also describes such Anthony exclusive accessories as Hida-Sweep automatic pool cleaner — it is never removed from the pool — and Antho-Pure, the automatic pool purifier that holds up to six months' supply of Gardex.

Other sub-assemblies and accessories manufactured in Anthony's 15 acre plant and sold direct to the pool buyer help keep Anthony's price low.

Anthony Pools' stock is listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges. For your free copy of this valuable kit, drop in or call Anthony Pools South Gate office at 5871 Firestone Blvd., phone SP 3-2210, TO 1-0381, or our Torrance office, 25412 S. Crenshaw Blvd., phone 882-5391 or our Anaheim office at 2050 So. Harbor, phone JE 4-3100.

Troubles We Don't Talk About

What Troubles? Complaints so personal that few people talk about them—burning, irritation and itching in the sensitive perianal (rectal and genital) area.

What Causes Them? Many things, but especially the lack of hygiene. Doctors say that lack of proper cleanliness often prevents the condition from clearing up. This is true because the perianal area is repeatedly contaminated with potentially harmful bacteria and fungi.

What Do Specialists Recommend? Thorough and regular cleansing, particularly after each bowel movement. This halts the vicious "itch-scratch" cycle. In many cases, this alone will solve the problem of burning, itching, and irritation.

Why Not Plain, Ordinary Soap? Because soap washes away natural skin oils. Frequent and repeated use of soap can cause dryness and irritation, resulting in itching.

What Should Be Used? A new, foamy aerosol medication called ANULL. It is a gentle but thorough cleanser to be used on toilet tissue or cotton. ANULL is an antibacterial, antifungal cleanser—soothing, emollient and protective. Soothes burning and irritation. Helps to protect against secondary infection of raw, irritated skin.

The Best Way to stop itching-irritation is never let it get started. Begin regular use of ANULL this week. Or if you suffer now, begin relief in seconds with ANULL. It relieves itching-irritation without local pain killers that can mask symptoms and postpone sound medical treatment. If your discomfort persists by all means see your doctor. Ask your doctor whether it isn't wise to use ANULL with other medications.

Effective Deodorant: Women especially, can be troubled with embarrassing odor. ANULL is an effective deodorant foam because of its superior cleansing and antibacterial actions. Makes you feel fresher. Secure. Completely groomed.

Most people, after they have tried ANULL, never use toilet tissue without it. And so inexpensive. You'll find ANULL in your pharmacy.

AT NIGHT the city of Long Beach can be seen across the dark waters, its multi-colored lights glowing like a magic jeweled kingdom in the Land of Oz...

By day the view is spectacularly different. Reflected sunlight leaps like gold from the wave-tops... Sailboats cruise by... A seaplane takes off, joining sea gulls and pelicans in a sky of startling blue...

Whether you visit The Reef restaurant for luncheon or dinner, the view is enchanting because this large, tropical dining establishment is located at 880 Harbor Scenic Dr. at the water's edge in Long Beach Harbor. Constructed like a low-roofed Tahitian palace, the Reef has scores of tables, all of which have views of harbor activity through picture windows.

Owner Dave Tallichet and manager Ralph Fulton have turned the Reef into one of Southern California's most successful restaurants by maintaining a staff of 75 highly trained employees who offer excellent service and foods of unmatched quality. New treats appear at regular intervals on the menu, designed and prepared by master chef Peter Hirsbrunner, veteran of training in Europe's finest hotels. Among these are flaming brochette of beef ($4.95), which dazzles the eyes of its beholders as well as their taste buds; and tender, juicy prime ribs of beef ($4.50) served every day except Saturday. Other gourmet choices include rainbow trout stuffed with crabmeat ($3.75) and teriyaki steak

The Reef's Pali banquet room, which overlooks the luau grounds, is available for groups up to 125. Luncheon banquets can be arranged for as low as $2 per person.

SUNDAY TREAT — How long has it been since you dined in a luxurious dungeon? If you're a newcomer to Long Beach and haven't yet visited the catacombs beneath the Lafayette Hotel, then you should mark down the Ivanhoe Room as the next attraction on your list of places to explore. Located in the hotel basement, the Ivanhoe is a top class restaurant serving charcoal broiled steaks on fine diners which include decanters of wine. Steaks are from $4.50. Continental entrees are from $3.50.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

IN THE RUSHING WORLD of today, there is a philosophy embodied in the following thought:

"The more you do, the more you can do."

Take it from Dinah Shore, it's a trap.

In her personal case, she's revamped her philosophy to be expressed thusly:

"There are so many things you don't have to do that you think you do."

Among the things Dinah no longer thinks she has to do is a weekly series.

Her second variety special — there will be a total of four — airs 9:30 p.m. Wednesday on channel 7.

In addition, she introduces three "Purex Special for Women" daytimers.

But the variety specials and the daytimers take a trivial amount of time compared to what was necessary when she was in a weekly show.

SHE WAS OFFERED another weekly series for this season, but turned it down.

"I've had it," she said. "It was marvelous, wonderful, but I've had it. No more pressure on myself. More time with the children."

What was more "back-breaking" than marvelous about her series was that she set herself up to do too much.

"I wasn't going to let anybody else be deprived," she said. "I tried to squeeze in everything."

The "squeeze" included coming home in a "stew" for dinner and trying to appear relaxed. It meant dashing back to rehearsal at 9 p.m. to remain until 1 a.m. It meant planning, learning, unlearning.

And it meant, in Dinah's case, answering most of her fan mail personally.

"I felt very strongly that I owed personal replies to people who took the time to write me lovely, thoughtful letters," she said.

DINAH STILL personally answers exceptional letters, but the time she used to devote to her series is now allotted elsewhere.

Pan and Fan Mail

(Editor's Note: Last week "Pan and Fan" printed a letter from Mrs. Faith Dettrow, a member of the Orange County Mothers of Korean Children Club. She was highly critical of a "Slattery's People" program about Korean orphans. Fred Freiburger, executive consultant for the series, replies to her letter in today's column.)

We fully appreciate people like Mrs. Dettrow whose hearts are big enough to embrace these children.

And we feel sure her letter never would have been written if she had seen the first half of the program.

In it, we sought to show that adoption abuses can arise because a private group may lack a public agency's facilities for proper investigation — which Mrs. Dettrow urges.

In Anthony Lawrence's exhaustive-researched script, Mr. Slattery originally argued for private adoption.

But in our drama, an individual refused to work with state officials anxious to insure a child's well-being. When Mr. Slattery realized the need for protection as well as love for orphaned children, he agreed with the social worker

There was no criticism expressed or implied of private organizations which are equipped to join the best interests of prospective parents and children.

Fred Freiburger

You big fat stupid jerks. You have some nerve.

In last Sunday's Tele-Vues under Tuesday and the Red Skelton Show you listed the things that would be on his London show.

You said "plus British entertainers (?) the Rolling Stones."

For your crummy information, the Stones just happen to be the most beautiful, talented, sweet, kind, considerate, absolutely loveable dolls in the history of show business.

So there!

We loyal Stones fans will thank you slob to keep your cloddy opinions to yourself.

Karen Kohner, Long Beach

I agree with your indignation, Karen.

I feel our use of (?) was not warranted. If Red Skelton, who is one of the industry's top talents, feels the Rolling Stones are professional enough to appear on his program, who are we to question-mark his decision?

So I apologize and agree with your indignation, Karen.

But not your choice of words to express it.

Witchcraft Aggie's Cup of Tea

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Agnes Moorehead is playing a witch on television, a role for which she's ideally suited.

Nothing personal mind you, but Agnes is a first-class witch. They don't come any better than Aggie who traces her witchcraft directly to Salem.

Hardly a day goes by that somebody doesn't get the urge to burn Agnes at a stake.

So it was only natural that the brass at Screen Gems should right away hire Miss Moorehead for the mother-in-law witch role in "Bewitched."

As befits the town's leading witch, Agnes is getting the star treatment at Columbia Studio where the popular ABC-TV series is being filmed. She's even using Debbie Reynolds' fancy trailer dressing-room, a loan from Debbie who wants to stay on the good side of any witch.

MAURICE EVANS VISITS his witch-wife, Agnes Moorehead, during "Bewitched" at 9 p.m. Thursday, channel 7.

Agnes has played a witch many times before, in movies, television and radio. She knows all the tricks, some of them picked up when she was a little girl putting a hex on the school teacher.

Asked the chief ingredient in a witch's brew, Miss Moorehead said, "A mad imagination."

A GOOD FAMILY background also helps, she said. "I had a wonderful background," Agnes recalled. "My father told me fairy stories and he read to us. And my grandmother was Irish. She told us about 'The Little People.' When I went into the forest, I used to look for them." And of course, being an actress helps a budding witch.

"I think all actors have a strange quirk about them," she said. "They're different than the usual run of people. They have a way of dramatizing things."

Agnes looks upon her role as "a challenge," one she hopes to meet with her vivid imagination and fine acting ability.

So far, she has declined the offer of a broom upon which to ride, hinting that such an item isn't needed by any witch worth her salt.

Agnes insists that a witch on television isn't as batty as it sounds. They've got something to say, sly little messages passed along from weird worlds.

"There's much good common sense that can be done in this," she said. "It's magic, fun and entertainment."

But above all, "Bewitched" is out of this world, which isn't a bad place to be sometimes.

THE ADVOCATE

JAMES DALY . . . Title Role

IT IS 1923 and more than two years have passed since the murder trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, self-confessed anarchists.

Warren Curtis, a conservative Boston attorney, is approached and asked to intervene to keep the men from being executed.

That's the setting for the 2½-hour Broadway play, "The Advocate."

It is a performance of this Broadway play that airs 8 p. m. Monday on channel 11. Commercials will be limited to the intermission between the three acts.

THE PRODUCTION stars James Daly in the title role.

As the attorney for the convicted murderers, he is reluctant to enter the case. However, because of his personal sense of values and the principles involved, he consents.

It is his quest for a new trial that provides the basic material for the play.

Other featured actors include Tresa Hughes, Dino Fazio, John Cecil Holm and Paul Stevens.

GIA SCALA proves date-bait during "The Rogues" at 10 p.m. Sunday, channel 4.

Rx FOR THE GOP—A quartet of Republican leaders, all from the liberal-moderate camp, offer their diagnoses of their ailing party in three programs today on two networks. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller comments on Messrs. Goldwater, Nixon, Burch and Smiley when he visits "Issues and Answers," 4 p.m., ch. 7, appearing at the same hour on ch. 4 with George Romney and Charles Percy in a post mortem on "Sunday." Henry Cabot Lodge, 1960 Vice Presidential candidate, adds his iron to the fire when he makes his 13th visit in six years to "Meet the Press," ch. 4 at 6 p.m.

COURAGEOUS CAT Birthday Party—Chuck Jones hosts a special color hour for the kiddies marking the start of the series' second year on KCOP. Spunky the Bear is special guest at 6 p.m., ch. 13, as Chuck shows new magic tricks, takes youngsters for a ride in the new "Catmobile" and offer birthday games.

AROUND THE BEATLES—In what is slated as their longest appearance to date on U.S. television (ABC warned CBS about contractual provisions under which the four-some's "Entertainers" appearance Friday must not contain entertainment segments), John Lennon, Paul McCartney, Ringo Starr and George Harrison are seen in a full hour special produced by "Shindig's" Jack Good and taped last May in London. During the 7:30 p.m., ch. 7 special, the mop-headed idols of early teen-agers sing eight songs, and offer a costumed parody of a scene from Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." Also taking part in the hour of raucous song are other British favorites P. J. Proby (with "Cumberland Gap" and "I Believe"), Cilla Black (singing "Heatwave" and "Saved"), Millie Small (offering "My Boy Lollipop"), Long John Baldry, Sounds Inc., the Vernon Girls and the Jets.

RADIO COMEDY SPECIAL

Edgar Bergen Looks Back

The "golden age of radio" returns for 55 minutes at 4:05 p.m. today (Sunday) on KFI (640).

Chase & Sanborn, which for years sponsored a variety hour during the 1930's and 1940's, is celebrating its own 100th birthday by bringing back Edgar Bergen, along with the incorrigible Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd to introduce taped highlights from fondly-remembered shows of the past.

Producer Carroll Carroll, who used to be a writer on many of these shows, spent months sorting through original transcriptions, including acetate-covered glass and aluminum recordings, to tape outstanding comedy highlights.

Clay-Liston Bout

The world's heavy-weight championship match between Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston will be broadcast from Boston Garden at 7:30 p.m. Monday on radio station KHJ (930).

The fight will not be on home television. The radio broadcasts, including a pre-fight program, starts at 6:45 p.m.

Howard "Da Silva directed the stage version during its 5-week rehearsals and 2-week road tryout, with Marc Daniels directing the 3-day TV taping under the better lighting of the television studio. # GEORGE BURNS LAMENTS

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Gracie Didn't See 'Wendy'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—George Burns, controlling his emotions, said:

"Gracie never saw my new television show. I wish she had."

Burns sat behind his producer's desk at Warner Brothers Studio. The shock of Gracie's death was still upon him.

"Gracie was anxious to see the new show, but I thought it would take the edge off things if she saw it before we went on the air," he said.

"It was all so unexpected. A couple of days before the heart attack Gracie bought a new sable coat. She never wore it."

Quickly and with effort, Burns changed the subject.

"This new ABC-TV series (Wendy and Me) is being compared to the old Burns and Allen Show," he continued. "Connie Stevens has some lines similar to those Gracie used to have. I picked Connie myself because she had many of the same qualities that Gracie had."

"I chose Connie because she's a fine actress, not because she's a comedienne. Gracie was an actress, too, not a comedienne. They both use illogical logic. They make sense to themselves, but to no one else in the world."

BURNS WAS DRESSED in a beige cap, a polo shirt, polished loafers and a casual jacket. He looked precisely as a producer should look. And he was just as serious as most producers.

"I couldn't handle a funny woman," he went on. "Gracie wasn't a funny woman. A woman who does and says funny things at the same time never gets laughs because you don't know whether to watch or listen—so you do neither. It provides a conflict."

"If a woman is telling a funny story and sewing, then

Dinah Finds Life Finer

Jody, and Melissa Ann, 16, who is Missy to her mother.

"You have to run your own home," said Dinah. "No one else can do it for you."

"You must be there to take care of your children—be there when they want to talk to you because it just can't wait."

"You can't say, 'I'll talk to you between 5 and 6 p.m.' You must be there to comfort Jody when he cuts a finger."

As for Missy, she needs Mother around as an understanding listener, for guidance, not a "big-stick push."

And Mother, Dinah's determined, will be around.

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first sign of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such cause, start taking MENDACO to combat effects, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

Judge Jones Leaves 'Day in Court'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television's most popular judge, Edgar Allan Jones, has left his "Day in Court" show just two steps ahead of a sea of soap suds.

The show has been turned into a legalistic soap opera, a way of life which runs against Jones' courtroom grain.

Judge Jones is a law teacher on the staff of the University of California at Los Angeles. He is a teacher first, an actor second.

And even though his television jurisprudence paid him much more than his university work, Jones always insisted that he would leave his show if it conflicted with practical courtroom procedures.

IN HIS contract with ABC-TV, Jones had a clause which barred the network from requiring him to perform "in any manner not comfortable with Jones' status as a law teacher," he said.

Jones decided recently that he would have to leave the show after the network decided to change the program's concept.

"I left because my concept of my involvement on TV was basically oriented towards education and particularly towards presenting an authentic image of trial court and some understanding of why the law disposes of certain problems the way it does," Jones said.

The network turned "court" into a serialized thing which has running characters in it. They totally de-emphasized the judge.

"They are emphasizing what they call dramatic values," he added.

JONES, WHO is also a writer and serves on labor and management arbitration boards, has appeared in almost 2,000 law-type shows since 1958. He appeared in "Traffic Court" and "Accused" before his recent "Day in Court" show.

His insistence on authenticity was such that he sometimes didn't know what decision he would render until hearing both sides of the cases, which were based on fact.

"I never said the same thing twice because I never wrote it down," he said.

Jones also used the show as an aid to law students. During the years, several dozen students earned money for school by doing legal research on the show.

The decision by Jones to leave the series cost him approximately $65,000 in salary. It's money he could easily spend on his wife and 11 children.

But the decision to leave hasn't saddened the teacher-actor. His earnings have been invested for the family's future.

"I like law teaching and writing," Jones said. "So it's much easier to make the choice."

EDGAR A. JONES

Ingels to Broadway

Marty Ingels, a video headliner a couple of seasons back in the "I'm Dickens—He's Fenster" series is headed for Broadway this winter as a featured comedian in the musical "Kelly." ## New Prince

The actor playing Prince Charming in the "Cinderella" special to be aired by CBS Feb. 22 will not be Jack Jones, as planned. Jones came down with a throat infection just as taping of the show was to start, and composer Richard Rodgers brought in Stuart Damon, who had scored a success in the New York revival of Rodgers' "The Boys from Syracuse."

Series for Dean

NEW YORK (UPI)—NBC has decided that Dean Martin, who must have appeared on almost everyone else's show by now, will have his own variety series starting next fall. It will be a one-hour affair with guest stars.

You need a more powerful TV antenna to clear up that picture. One that takes more of the signal from the airwaves, and amplifies it before it reaches your set. When your set receives a strong, clear signal from the antenna, your picture becomes sharp, clear, bright... more enjoyable.

Model for model, Winegard's new electronic Colortrons are the world's most powerful antennas. Distant stations come in clearer and sharper. Snow and interference are reduced or eliminated.

For color or black & white, you can't own a finer antenna for best reception. Priced from $64.90. Antenna without electronic amplifier $24.95 up.

A. Otto Frisch, now at Cambridge University, and Rudolph Peierls, now at Oxford, both refugees from the Nazis, wrote a three-page letter in 1940 when they were teaching physics at the University of Birmingham, explaining the feasibility of an atomic bomb. They suggested that one might be built from uranium 235. Certainly they were pioneers in nuclear theory.

A NEW WAY TO TEST BABIES' HEARING

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

Seven-hour-old Kent Michael Larson is about to have his sleep disturbed. He lies in a bassinet in the nursery at Clairemont General Hospital here as volunteer Mrs. Robert H. Waddle adjusts what looks like an upside-down flowerpot over his head. Mrs. Waddle pushes a switch. The machine sounds a persistent "beep-beep-beep." The baby stirs. Mrs. Waddle readjusts it, making the sound louder. Now Kent blinks his eyes, jerks his arms up. After a few more moments of testing, Mrs. Waddle says with a smile: "There's nothing wrong with that baby's hearing."

The test was one of almost 1,000 made on newborn babies here. One of the first programs of its sort in the U.S., it was begun by the HEAR Foundation and the Clairemont Woman's Club. The Clairemont Hospital Woman's Auxiliary has since taken over the program. In contrast with general practice, in which hearing is not tested until a child is nearly 2, the test pinpoints hearing problems and allows an early start to correct them.

The Clairemont tests are built around a new device called the "Hearometer." It emits a controlled tone at different decibel levels covering all the modifications of human speech. Doctors and other trained personnel can tell from a baby's reactions whether or not he can hear.

AN EARLY START

The test, free to all babies born at the hospital, so far has uncovered three infants with hearing defects and started them on the way to correction.

"If a child cannot hear," says a HEAR official, "it is difficult, sometimes impossible, for him to learn to speak. Occasionally a child with a hearing defect is diagnosed as retarded or brain-damaged. We believe that all babies should have their hearing tested within a few hours of birth so that necessary corrective measures can be taken as early as possible."

—SID ROSS

Volunteer worker, Mrs. R. H. Waddle, watches baby's reaction to Hearometer, a new device used to test the hearing of newborn infants in a free program at Clairemont Hospital.

Woman's Club and hospital auxiliary volunteers discuss program for early detection of hearing defects with hospital administrator, A. Malik.

2. Drink plenty of fluids
3. Take aspirin to reduce fever and relieve pain

REPORTING ON A Government-Financed Study of Five Leading Pain Relievers, an article in The Journal of The American Medical Association shows that Bayer Aspirin is as gentle to the stomach as any product tested, including the higher priced buffered product. Furthermore, not one of the products tested, not even the higher priced combination-of-ingredients one that claims to be 50% stronger — none of these products is faster or stronger than Bayer Aspirin.

A SPECIAL PARADE REPORT

DOES YOUR TEENAGER DRINK?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Center of tragedy, Michael Smith, 18, was convicted in crash death of date after party in which adults gave him drinks.

Ask the police. Ask the social workers. Ask the fellowship of Alcoholics Anonymous. Ask the claims adjusters. Ask the coroners. Ask the magistrates. Ask your sons and daughters. They will tell you that more and more teenagers are drinking at earlier and earlier ages.

The Youth Service Board of Massachusetts and the alcoholic clinic of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital recently interviewed 500 boys, age 7 to 19, who had been arrested and processed through the courts. Of the 500, 318 admitted they were repeat drinkers and 20 per cent blamed alcohol for their trouble.

Many of the heavy drinkers, incredibly enough, were 11, 12 and 13 years old, but most of the boys admitted that the dangerous drinking age was 14, when the young adolescent first seeks to prove his manhood via alcohol.

Richard Snow, a research analyst in the Division of Alcoholic Rehabilitation, California State Department of Public Health, pointed out in a recent seminar that today, throughout America, a teenager's idea of a good time consists frequently of going out and "getting smashed."

"When Alcoholics Anonymous was first founded in the 1930's," one of the A.A. veterans explains, "we didn't attract many young drinkers. Mostly we got men and women in their middle years. Nowadays more and more youngsters are turning to us for help. Now these teenagers don't live in a vacuum. Their drinking habits reflect our adult world. As our population increases, so do the number of young alcoholics."

John Ryan, information officer of the California Highway Patrol, reveals from a joint study made with the Coroner's Association this shocker: Of the 29 teenage drivers killed on California highways in the first 8 months of this year, 15 were found to have had varying amounts of alcohol in their blood streams at the time of death—this, mind you, in a state where the minimum drinking age is 21.

Over 40 per cent of all arrests in this country are for the crime of drunkenness. In Massachusetts more arrests are made for drunkenness than for all other crimes put together, except for minor traffic violations.

Each year about 40,000 Americans are killed in automobile accidents, in more than half of which alcohol is involved.

A DRINK OR A DIPLOMA?

According to the National Safety Council, the chances are 500 to 1 that the average American teenager will be handed a drink before he's handed a high school diploma.

A Los Angeles police sergeant, assigned to the juvenile division, says, "Last year we arrested 693 juveniles for plain drunkenness, kids from all walks of life. We picked up another 55, the really dangerous ones, for drunken driving and another 900 for possession of liquor. I've arrested kids after their supposedly harmless beer busts, and I'm telling you, you've never seen such potentially dangerous, sloppy, irresponsible drunks in your life.

"I called one mother," the sergeant recalls, "and told her to come down to the station. Her kid was loaded. She wouldn't believe it. 'Is this some sort of fraternity initiation?' she asked. 'My son never drinks.'"

"'Madame,' I told her. 'Your boy right now is a staggering distillery who's ready to pass out.'"

Getting down to cases—Does your teenager drink? If so, how much have you told him about alcohol and its effects? Have you put a limit on his drinking? What does he drink? When does he or she drink? Where? And most important of all, why?

Since the adolescent in our culture is often impulsive and rebellious and performs acts he is later ashamed of, he is frequently secretive with his parents, who find out little or nothing of his drinking habits until it is too late.

"The first time my old man knew I was drinking," a 17-year-old from Raleigh, N.C., told me, "was when the sheriff phoned him from jail. They'd booked me for drunken driving, resisting arrest and assaulting an officer, but the truth is, I'd been drinking pretty good since I was 14."

"I came from a very religious family," a 19-year-old female member of A.A. confessed, "where drinking was prohibited, so I learned to drink with my dates in drive-in theaters, and that's really dangerous, because then the boy's got to drive, and usually he's in no condition. Anyway, my parents never discovered that I drank until I became alcoholic and pregnant. Then they disowned me. If they hadn't closed their eyes to how all the other kids drank in high school, they might've warned me. I learned the hard way."

THE DARIEN SCANDAL

A few weeks ago the nation was afforded a shocking example of how careless adults can be in relation to minors and alcohol. In Darien, Conn., a swank suburb of New York, a psychiatrist, a consulting engineer, a vice-president of Johns-Manville Corporation, an executive from Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation and a few other prominent and respectable pillars of that wealthy community were arrested for serving alcohol at two parties to Michael Smith, 18, and his teenage drinking.

(8) Most teenagers taste their first alcohol at 13 or 14.

(7) They regard alcohol as part of the American social heritage.

(8) There is more drinking in urban areas than rural areas.

(9) Teenagers drink for many of the same reasons adults do. But to many a teenager, drinking is a way of demonstrating that he is no longer an adolescent but a man.

(10) Approximately 6 per cent of the high school students who drink report that it brings on the following troubles: (a) heterosexual misconduct, (b) fighting, (c) talking too much and talking too loudly, (d) getting overemotional, (e) getting into accidents.

To understand why your teenager drinks or will drink, you must first know something about adult drinking.

The most alcoholic country in the world is France. It has the world's highest rate of alcoholism, about 10 per cent. In France two quarts of wine and distilled spirits per day is considered normal for the average person. Children are given wine at an early age to quench their thirst.

The U.S. is the second-most alcoholic country in lem. Men who were unable to control their drinking were regarded as individuals who had no character. Today the medical profession accepts the disease-concept of alcoholism. It can be treated with drugs. For example, the man who drinks to reduce his fears and anxieties can be placed on tranquilizers instead of alcohol until he learns how to live without alcohol. To help the alcoholic abstain from drink, doctors now prescribe Antabuse and Temposil, two drugs which make the drinker horribly sick if he imbibes while taking the drugs.

In a world replete with stress and strain, the average person drinks beverage alcohol because it is a depressant, an anesthetic, which, operating on the central nervous system, reduces tension, nervousness and fear. Small amounts of alcohol in the body are not harmful. They prevent blood pressure from rising during tension-periods and probably relieve worry.

About 10 per cent of all alcoholics are alcoholic from their first drink. They simply cannot control the amount they imbibe. Alcohol so reduces their perception that they continue to drink excessively.

Alcoholism is not hereditary, but in any home where at least one parent is alcoholic, there is a good chance that one of the children will follow the parental pattern and also become alcoholic.

Doctors and researchers who examine teenage alcoholics are amazed at how many parents do not prepare their children for social drinking but let them learn by trial and error.

LACK OF CONSISTENCY

Dr. Marvin Block of Buffalo, N.Y., an international authority on problem drinking, has said many times: "A father will be extremely careful about allowing his son to drive a car. He'll make sure the boy has had driver's education, gotten his license, has had a good deal of experience before he lets him take the family car. But that same father will let his son go out and learn to drink from the boys at a football game without even telling him about the possible dangerous effects of his drinking."

Why do your teenage sons and daughters drink? This is what teenagers told PARADE researchers in New Haven, Conn., Madison, Wis., and Los Angeles, Calif.

♦ "I drink because many times I am keyed up and a drink will calm me down. It's particularly true when I'm going out with a boy for the first time. I get a case of nerves, and a straight shot of bourbon calms me down."

♦ "I hate the taste of liquor. I really do. The only reason I drink is that I'm too chicken not to conform. I want to be one of the guys. Since they drink, I drink. That's the only reason. I mean, when you go to a party and everyone else has a drink, you feel very self-conscious being the only guy without one."

♦ "I drink because it gives me more self-confidence when mixing with the opposite sex."

♦ "I find life a bore. Schoolwork is drudgery. I fight with my parents. There's nothing else to do, so I drink. You can call it an escape mechanism."

♦ "Drinking is a way in which we kid ourselves into believing that we're adults. Adults have the right to drink, and if we drink it makes us feel like big shots."

♦ "I have yet to find a girl who likes the taste of liquor. The reason we drink is because boys expect us to drink. Who wants to be regarded as a square?"

♦ "Drinking serves as a rationalization for bad behavior. If I have two or three drinks, I can make a pass at a girl, and she'll just shake me off. If I were to proposition her cold sober, she'd slap my face. In that way drinking serves its purpose."

♦ "Like most kids I started drinking out of curiosity. Now I drink to hide the pain of failure, failure in exams, in sports, failure with girls, teachers, parents."

Almost every public opinion poll taken in this country on the cause of rising juvenile delinquency, Angry judge, Rodney S. Elelson, ordered arrest of adults who served drinks to youths. He said they violated state law.

Crash victim, Nancy Hitchings, 17, died in accident which followed Darien, Conn., teenagers' party.

date, Nancy Hitchings, 17.

Young Smith drank himself into a stupor, but not one adult prevented him from trying to drive his date home. On the way his car went off the road. Nancy Hitchings was killed. Young Smith's punishment: 60 days in jail. Punishment of the adults who permitted the young couple too much alcohol: notoriety.

Since 1941 approximately 16,000 high school students in this country have been subjected to a series of searching studies on teenage drinking. These studies were made in a suburb of Washington, D.C., in Nassau County, N.Y., in Racine County, Wis., in Wichita, Kan., and selected areas of Utah and Michigan.

Parents should be acquainted with the results:

(1) The typical high school teenager drinks alcoholic beverages.

(2) He patterns his drinking behavior mostly on the model of his parents or other prestigious adults in his community.

(3) Usually he is introduced to alcohol by his parents in his own home.

(4) From 14 to 18, the percentage of high school students who drink rises steadily.

(5) There is little connection between or reality in laws relating to teenage drinking and the practice of the world, tied with Australia and Chile. We have approximately 5 million alcoholics, people who cannot control their drinking, or 6 per cent of the adult population.

A WHISKY CULTURE

Our drinking culture goes back to colonial times, when we operated the slave trade on the golden triangle of rum, cloth and trinkets. These three items were carried by slave ships from New England to Africa. There they were traded for slaves who were brought to the West Indies and Southern states and sold for cotton, sugar and molasses, which were then converted to rum, cloth and trinkets. As America expanded westward, the fur trade was founded on the simple bartering of whisky and weapons for pelts. Pioneer farmers who produced surplus grain converted it into whisky, which was traded back East for tools and other manufactured goods. Thus, in America, from the earliest times, we have always had a whisky culture.

As our society grew more competitive through the years, our people became more psychologically vulnerable to alcohol, using it as a crutch to allay anxiety, tension and frustration.

Years ago alcoholism was regarded as a moral prob-

WHAT TO TEACH YOUR CHILD ABOUT DRINKING

Prominent victim of drinking, Edward G. Robinson, Jr., got jail term after crash. Other celebrities' sons have had similar trouble.

lawlessness, crime, drunkenness, etc., fixes the major blame on "parents and home life."

What can parents do as regards the teenager and alcohol?

They can flatly prohibit drinking, but all too frequently such prohibition invites adolescent rebellion. (The Straus-Bacon study of 27 colleges and 17,000 students reveals that 74 per cent of the college students studied used beverage alcohol.) Or they can educate their children about alcohol at a time when their parental influence is strongest and let the teenager decide himself whether he will or will not drink.

To teach, one must first know. Unfortunately many parents have studied little about alcohol. The minimum they should know is that beverage alcohol is either ethyl or grain alcohol. Once swallowed it is rapidly absorbed in the stomach, duodenum and small intestine. It then passes into the blood stream, where it dilates the arteries for quicker passage to all parts of the body.

Alcohol is not a stimulant. It is a depressant, an anesthetic, a sedative. As soon as it hits the brain it suppresses mental alertness by deceptively giving a feeling of well-being.

No one should ever drive and drink, either as driver or passenger. Liquor reduces discrimination and skill. Teenagers who feel like daredevils on the highway after a few drinks should be told that alcohol has suppressed the normal inhibitions which would ordinarily compel them to drive with caution. An automobile in the hands of a driver whose senses have been blunted by drink is a death weapon.

TWO DRINKS ARE THE LIMIT

The average man of, say, 150 lbs. can metabolize a fifth of a gallon of 100 proof beverage alcohol in about 24 hours at the rate of about 1 ounce per hour. The reason airlines will serve no more than two drinks to a customer is that two drinks are considered the safety limit. A man who has had two ounces of liquor or two bottles of beer can safely drive a car. Beyond that he becomes a questionable risk.

The blood concentration of alcohol reaches its maximum 10 to 30 minutes after a person has taken a drink. If a man doesn't wait until his first drink is metabolized by the body and continues to drink, the percentage of alcohol in his blood rises much faster than the liver can distill it, and he quickly becomes drunk. It is always safer to space drinks than to gulp them down in rapid succession. One hour between two-ounce drinks is a good rule, if only people would obey it.

Parents should warn their sons and daughters that alcohol must not be used as a psychological crutch or as a false symbol of adult pose or achievement. Shyness and lack of self-confidence are typical of teenagers, and inner security—not alcohol—can develop maturity, personality and popularity.

Most important of all, teenagers must be told that drinking an intoxicating liquor is an adult privilege which carries with it the obligation of control. Those who cannot honor or recognize that obligation have no business drinking.

As a matter of fact, there is nothing wrong with the statement, "I don't drink."

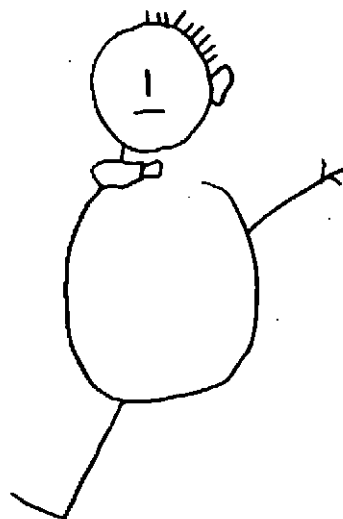

Many bright youngsters who refuse to run with the pack articulate those words with pride. They find confidence and security in knowledge and achievement—not in the bottle.

Riots like this one—at Seaside, Ore., Labor Day weekend—often stem from teenage drinking. Police say estimated 1,500 young people threw beer bottles and cans during riots.

THE INCOMPLETE man

by JACK HARRISON POLLACK

HOW MATURE IS YOUR CHILD? HERE'S A TEST THE EXPERTS USE TO FIND OUT. TRY IT OUT ON YOUR YOUNGSTER—YOU'LL BOTH HAVE FUN IN THE PROCESS.

The strange-looking doodle shown here can be important in the life of your child. Called the Incomplete Man Test and published here for the first time in a nontechnical publication, it is used by the famous Gesell Institute of Child Development to test emotional and maturity level. Its most important application is to determine whether your child is ready for school—and if he's in school, whether or not he's in the right grade. And it may be fascinating for you—and fun for your youngster—to use the example to find out his capacities.

Because school readiness is a major factor in a child's success or failure (see "Is Your Child in the Wrong Grade?" Parade, Sept. 20, 1964), researchers are increasingly interested in making sure that a youngster isn't predisposed to failure, simply because his parents—or his teachers—are unable to spot signs of immaturity.

The Incomplete Man Test has been given to thousands of children between 2 and 9 ever since it was introduced in 1925 by the late Dr. Arnold Gesell, founder of the Yale Clinic of Child Development. And recently it has aroused tremendous interest in educational circles, after being used in Weston and North Haven, Conn., schools.

Here is how the test works: The child is given a letter-size sheet of green paper showing the outline of a man in black ink. As in the illustration here, the figure has one arm and hand, one leg and foot, one ear, a nose, a mouth, a half-head of hair and a half-bow at the neck. The examiner asks the child, "What is this?" He is allowed ample time to respond, but if he doesn't, the tester says, "Somebody made this man but forgot to finish him. You finish him."

The answers children give vary with age. Though some 4-year-olds may call the figure a "snow man," or "Santa Claus," by 5 it is referred to as "a man." Older kids qualify this by saying, "part of a man," "half a man," "a man with—" or "without—" certain parts.

As the youngster adds parts to the man, the Institute investigator records his order and method, plus any comments such as, "Now he can walk" (when a second leg is added) or, "Now he can see" (when eyes are added).

TEST IS REVEALING

"A great deal can be told about the child's maturity level simply by noting the way in which he adds these parts," points out Dr. Frances L. Ilg, pediatrician-director of the Gesell Institute. "A skilled examiner can spot an immaturity at a glance," adds Dr. Louise Bates Ames, the Institute's psychologist-research chief.

Child behavior experts Ilg and Ames, reporting their Incomplete Man Test findings in a recent issue of Genetic Psychology Monographs, state, "With age and maturity individual parts improve steadily in placement, direction, shape and length. More intelligent subjects add more parts, add them sooner and reach accuracy or approximate accuracy for placement of any one part at an earlier age."

For example, as the child grows older, he places the arm higher on the body line, turns it upward and draws it shorter.

The leg gradually moves from too far out on the body line to the correct position and becomes shorter. It is usually the first part completed by the child, perhaps because it is closest to and most easily seen by him.

Eyes—which provide the potential drama of the test—change with age from scribbles to large open circles, to small open circles, to filled-in circles, to dots, until they finally assume an oval shape with pupils.

Ears move from too low to too high. Efforts to shape the ear correctly often mean advanced intellectual perception.

Gradually hair is more accurately rendered. It is added from 4 on, though some 5-year-olds have difficulty in seeing the need of hair.

The neckline area—which demands most of the child—is generally not drawn accurately until at least 7. And he still tends to draw the bow over the neckline or vice versa.

An imaginative 4-year-old often supplies a bellybutton, but after 5 this is a sign of immaturity. A markedly too long leg, foot, arm or finger is also suspect after 5½. Scribbled eyes are likewise a sign of immaturity after 3.

Many children work a long time on their drawings. After the child finishes the drawing, the examiner often asks, "What is his facial expression?" "How does he feel?" "Is he happy or sad?" "How can you tell?"

The response "sick" is common in the 4-year-old: Many 5½-year-olds say, "He looks good but feels sad." However, 7-year-olds often deny both emotions: "Not happy and not sad." But the majority cannot respond to "facial expression" before 8.

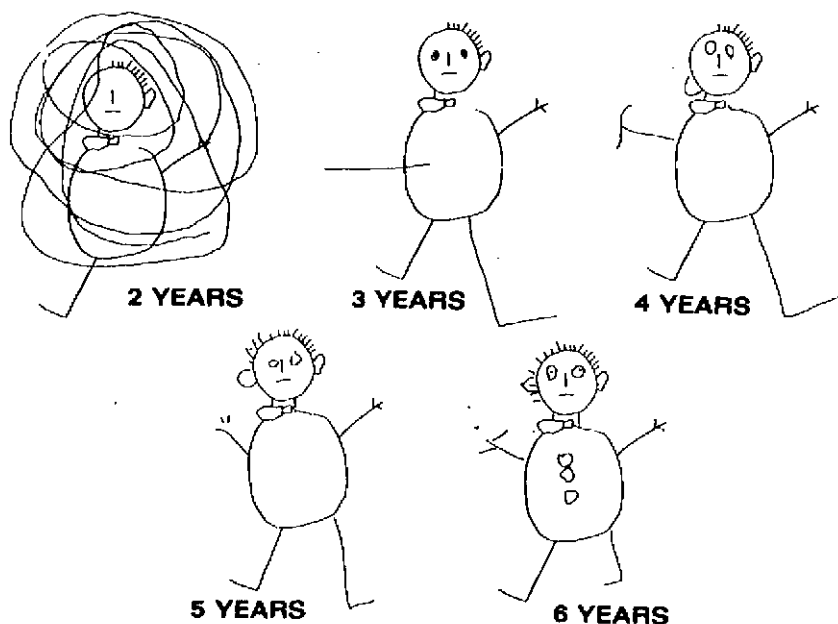

The simplicity of the Gesell Incomplete Man Test is part of its charm. It can be scored easily on the basis of the number of parts the child adds. More important, by assessing the quality of each part as added, the tester can determine the age level of the child's performance, as the Institute's forthcoming book, School Readiness, points out.

Gesell researchers consider its Incomplete Man Test more revealing than other psychological tests, which simply require the child to draw a man from scratch. Because the partly finished figure is the same for all children, artistic ability is less of a factor in the youngster's response. Thus, what he draws is more truly a measure of his real emotional maturity.

Whether you decide to try the test at home or to turn your children over to experts, you'll have fun finding out more about your kids.

And remember, the test should be fun, especially for your child. If he isn't a Rembrandt at the first sitting, don't panic. Let him complete the man at his own pace and in his own way.

Happy drawing!

Child's maturity shows in his drawing: 2-year-old produces a scribble; at 3, some effort is made to complete figure by adding second arm and leg, eyes; 4-year-old adds a second ear, places arm more realistically; 5-year-old adds hair and completes neck; 6 shapes ears, adds pupils, provides buttons.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

SILENT PARENTS. Most children in Great Britain cannot rely on their parents to tell them the facts of life. So reports the Board of Education of the Church of England. A survey worked on by a team of doctors, teachers and clergy points out that most adults have "abdicated their responsibilities for the sex education of their children," leaving them to find their own way in an area where experience is frequently tragic, expensive and traumatic. The report stresses that sex education should be the combined responsibility of schools and parents and part of the preparation for marriage.

HIGHEST EARNERS. Among self-employed professional persons in the U.S., doctors as a group earn more money than any other professional category. The U.S. Census Bureau reports that more than 62% of self-employed doctors earn $15,000 per year or more.

could use some French cash. On a personal basis De Gaulle's trip was equally disappointing. Latin-Americans not only found him cold and remote, but his 64-year-old wife, Yvonne, proved equally lacking in glamour. Fashion-conscious Latin women, who expected the pious, Mme. de Gaulle lacks what the French call "chic." She is inelegant, frumpy and plump, habitually wears an expression of boredom or melancholy.

BEWARE OF SPIES. British Intelligence is distributing to all government officials a paperback on Soviet methods of espionage and subversion. It's entitled, Their Trade Is Treachery. The book describes in detail ways and means used by Soviet agents to trap the unwary into disclosing security information. The book consists of 10 chapters, describes Soviet espionage techniques, advises that every Russian diplomat, chauffeur, servant and embassy employee is an active spy. The paperback is part of the British government's attempt to strengthen its security setup.

SUICIDE UP. The suicide rate in the U.S. has risen in the past decade. The rise has been more rapid for females than males. Greatest rise has been in the 15-to-19 age group, an increase of nearly 50%. In the 20-to-24 age group the rate increased 25%. Old people in the 65-to-74 age group, who used to have the highest suicide rate, showed an 18% decrease. The figures are from a statistical study made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, comparing data for 1960-62 with those for 1950-52.

HAS BRIGITTE BARDOT A FUTURE AS AN ACTRESS?

BRIGITTE'S BIRTHDAY. A few weeks ago Brigitte Bardot reached her 30th birthday. The most publicized woman in France celebrated the day in her walled-off St. Tropez villa with her latest love, wealthy Brazilian Bob Zaguri. The occasion prompted the French press to ask the all-important question: "Is Brigitte finished?" At 30 the sex kitten has few personal friends, sees few people, remains most unco-operative with the newspapermen who made her famous. French film producers believe that Brigitte has at least another good 10 years in films. She refuses to work in Hollywood, speaks little English, is embarrassed by frequent attacks of acne.

FIRST-TIME VOTERS. Now that the 1964 Presidential election is over, it is interesting to note on what basis first-time voters voted. A PARADE survey reveals that more than 80% of the young women sampled voted for Johnson or Goldwater on an emotional rather than intellectual basis, frankly basing their vote on the recommendation of some man they respected and loved: husband, boy friend or father. As for young men who voted for the first time, the higher their education, the more intellectual the basis of their vote.

GEN. CURTIS LeMAY:

THE MISUNDERSTOOD GENERAL

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

A whole new literature has grown up around bomb-happy generals, who are portrayed in such novels and movies as Dr. Strangelove, Fail Safe and Seven Days in May as being eager to plunge the world into a nuclear holocaust.

In many minds, this mythical brandish-the-bomb breed is personified by Curtis Emerson LeMay, the burly, scowling, cigar-chomping Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

His men call him "Old Stoneface" or "Old Iron Pants," though not within his hearing, which has been impaired by the roar of too many airplane engines. He looks like a general who could go to war without blinking an eye, and indeed, he was the general who whipped the mighty Strategic Air Command into wartime alertness. Without much doubt, he is the general most feared by the Russians. But he also scares some Americans who fear he has an itchy finger too near the nuclear trigger.

The Russians have reason to be nervous about LeMay. He was the World War II bomber commander who ordered his pilots to stop taking evasive action over German targets because too many of their bombs were missing. Nor did LeMay balk at ordering the fire-bomb devastation of Tokyo. He didn't relish the idea that thousands would perish, but he was convinced that only a ruthless and relentless attack would end the war quickly, thus saving millions more lives in the end.

Does his boldness in battle, his belief in a powerful Sunday punch, mean LeMay is callous of humanity? Some of his blunter statements may make him sound that way. But LeMay also is a warmhearted, compassionate man who hates war as bitterly as any man on earth.

It is hard to separate LeMay the man from LeMay the legend. His truculent appearance gives embodiment to the legend. He seldom smiles, a trait attributable more to paralyzed facial muscles than to lack of humor. The jutting cigar, which he clenches between his teeth to anchor the muscles, adds to his ferocious look.

He has always been taciturn, and his terseness is often taken for toughness. Most of all, he owes his forbidding reputation to the stern demands he makes on his men.

Yet those who know this Sphinx of a man have been warmed by his compassion. He worries about his men and battles for their welfare. He fought to get rid of the old 40-man barracks and replace them with comfortable apartments. He introduced a special "family service" to help new families get settled at Air Force bases. During the hectic days after Pearl Harbor was bombed, LeMay phoned home repeatedly to ask about daughter Janie's chicken pox. He is deeply worried now, his wife confides, over the health of his ailing father. Gruffly, LeMay confessed to PARADE: "My friends tell me I'm too damn soft-hearted."

However, LeMay comes close to losing his temper when he discusses the charges, implied in Fail Safe, that a nuclear war could come about by accident. "The incidents in Fail Safe are deliberate lies!" he snorts. "Nothing like that could happen."

Reporting to President Johnson, LeMay pays a White House call. He was appointed Chief of Staff by the late President Kennedy.

LeMay helped establish elaborate safeguards to prevent accidental war. "We have improved these procedures," he says, "until it would be impossible today for any reckless or berserk person to pull the trigger."

PARADE asked Gen. LeMay whether he would ever use nuclear weapons to repel local aggression. His answer: "I would want to use the best and most efficient weapons available. Some of them might be nuclear." But he stresses there would be important political and psychological factors that his civilian superiors must consider. No matter how we may differ with them, he says, the choice is theirs. He is merely a general obeying orders.

KEEP AMERICA STRONG

But LeMay believes with all his heart that the best way to keep the horror bombs from raining down on mankind is to keep America strong. His military philosophy can be capsuled into two words: "strength" and "restraint." Military preparedness will prevent, not provoke, an attack, he believes.

LeMay serves up his views without sugar coating. Though he doesn't mean to be rude, he is so painfully blunt that his friends teasingly call him "the diplomat." A foreign officer, after proudly showing LeMay a new plane, asked for his opinion of it. "Lousy," was LeMay's one-word verdict.

He could also do without pomp and protocol. His rank requires him to put in certain appearances. But he holds the record for escaping from Washington parties once the formalities are out of the way. At these events, he shies away from chatty women and remains stonily silent through trivial conversations.

Associates have learned not to interrupt his periods of silence. When his hands are plunged deep in his pockets and his eyes are on the horizon, they know he is lost in deep thought. At home, he is most silent in the mornings, hardly saying a word between rising after 7 and reaching his office.

He dislikes wasting time and gets his shaving, showering and eating done in record time. He also likes his wife to be at the door ready to kiss him good-bye.

In their college days, Curtis LeMay (Ohio State) met Helen Maitland (University of Michigan) on a blind date. They were married three years later. Their only daughter, Janie, is married to a doctor in Lincoln, Neb.

Helen LeMay, an accomplished artist, chuckles over the first time she showed her husband one of her paintings. He scanned it, chomped on his cigar and grunted: "You're no Rembrandt." He became more impressed, however, when she started selling her paintings for up to $200 each.

MAN OF MANY TALENTS

Now 57, his thick dark hair growing gray, LeMay is expert himself at nearly everything he does. He is a crack shot, a skilled mechanic, a black-belt judo champion.

LeMay must be the nation's No. 1 do-it-yourself fan. He built his own stereo set, installed his own ham radio equipment, makes his own furniture, puts together his own sports cars (one was concocted from a Cadillac engine, an Oldsmobile transmission, assorted Ford parts and a fiberglass body). He also installed his own organ and learned to play it by using a numbers system that substitutes numbers for notes.

Behind the grim mask, LeMay has a sense of humor, too, though some subordinates find this hard to believe. ("It would be like Dracula trying to be funny," remarked one.) When a Girl Scout troop made him an honorary member, he boasted happily to friends: "Any guy can become a Boy Scout, but it took me 46 years to become a Girl Scout." Once he accepted a phone call from a Mr. Vance, thinking it was Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance. It turned out to be a veteran who didn't like the treatment he was getting. "What service were you in?" asked LeMay.

"The Navy," said the veteran.

"Then call the Chief of Naval Operations," grunted LeMay. "I run the Air Force."

No one in the Air Force would dispute this last statement. He is a commander who is accustomed to giving orders and expects to have them obeyed. A forbidding man, perhaps. A war monger, no. Both friends and critics, interviewed by PARADE, agreed: "I'm glad LeMay is on our side."

THE REMARKABLE STORY OF 'A GOLDEN PRISON'

PARIS, FRANCE.

This Tuesday evening, a remarkable NBC television show will spotlight the famous Louvre museum, home of the Mona Lisa, Venus de Milo and thousands of other famous works of art. For the first time, TV cameras have been allowed inside this beautiful building on the Right Bank of the Seine. And they'll show a side of the Louvre few persons know—the Louvre as the history of France.

The Louvre has been the home of kings, queens and the court of France. But it has also been a fortress, built by King Philip Augustus in 1190, a dungeon and one of the most elaborate palaces in the world. As these photos show—and as Charles Boyer will relate on the program—it gradually grew into a great repository of paintings and sculpture.

The show will describe the art treasures and the events they depict. As the kings of France were building and rebuilding the Louvre, they bought art from the great masters—Titian, Raphael, da Vinci, Rubens and others. Napoleon Bonaparte made many additions to the structure, but most important, he brought art stolen from all the conquered nations of Europe. Even after his fall, many nations elected to leave their art treasures in this great building.

The public was allowed to share the treasures of the Louvre until World War II, when they were hidden to avoid capture by the Germans. Today, the Louvre is neither fortress nor palace but, in the words of one Frenchman, a "huge golden prison" housing 300,000 art treasures serving life sentences.

Narrator Charles Boyer examines model of Louvre showing building's growth.

Either she has a very bad cold or she loves our new floral boxes.

Let's start with the happier possibility. Here's a lady who went to the market, spotted Crown Chiffon's five new floral boxes, and flipped. (You can see why.) But then she began to wonder. How would the pink chrysanthemums look in the dressing room? The lilac chrysanthemums in the bathroom? The aqua chrysanthemums in the kitchen? Which would go best in the bedroom — the white or the yellow daisies? So because she couldn't make up her mind, she decided to buy them all. (Faced with the same pleasant problem, mightn't you?) Of course, maybe our tissue-laden friend simply has a bad cold. If so, she has the right facial tissue to go with it. Crown Chiffon tissue. (You should have it so soft.)

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by WILL JORDAN

EDITOR'S NOTE: Will Jordan, the first American comic to have his hair transplanted, hit the big time in 1954, when he created the most hilarious imitation of Ed Sullivan ever given. Born in New York City and raised in Flushing, N.Y., Jordan studied as a youngster at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts with Jason Robards, Jr., Don Rickles and others, but serious acting gave him no satisfaction, and he turned to comedy. He became a mimic, won first prize on an Arthur Godfrey program, then found himself booked into night clubs where his stock in trade was the Ed Sullivan imitation. Jordan has appeared on the Sullivan program 22 times, has played all the major night spots throughout the country and has expanded his act to include jokes as well as mimicry. Jordan is myopic, insecure and unmarried, although he doesn't look it. Herewith some of his favorite funnies:

These days the walls of new apartment buildings are so thin you not only hear your neighbor's TV set, you also see the picture.

I have a girl friend who's crazy about TV. "Look," I told her last week. "I don't mind you spending 12 hours a day in front of the TV set...but at least turn it on."

Did you hear about the French airline that doesn't show movies? Just postcards.

In the immortal words of Ben Franklin—"A fool and his money are some party."

Last week I finally solved the parking problem which plagues everybody in large cities...I bought a parked car.

In Paris recently I saw the new movie they're filming with Brigitte Bardot. Radical new technique. She's fully dressed, and the cameraman is naked.

An American tenor making his concert debut in Milan, Italy, finished his first song, an Italian aria. The audience shouted, "Again, again." So the singer sang it once more. The audience repeated, "Again, again." This happened 10 times. Finally the tenor addressed the audience. "Haven't you heard this wonderful song enough?"

In the orchestra a man jumped up and shouted, "Sing it again until you get it right."

Definition of a Civil War golfer: A guy who went out in 61 and came back in 65.

New song title: "Give Me a Home By the Side of the Thruway and Let Me Watch the Wreckers Go By."

My luck is so bad that when I bought an artificial flower a few days ago, it died.

Did you hear about the nearsighted whale who fell in love with a submarine? Every time the submarine discharged a torpedo, the whale would hand out cigars.

DRUG FIRM WAGES WAR ON SKIN PROBLEMS

Medical scientists have conquered 4 dread diseases in the past decade, but they are still having difficulty in finding relief for many who are constantly scratching their skin. New remedies containing antibiotic ingredients have been tested, but these have often caused side effects which are worse than the irritating desire to scratch a possibly already infected skin. RESINOL OINTMENT, a doctor's formula containing simple yet powerful and safe ingredients contains an amazing proven "anti-itch" ingredient called XEROXOLIN. Quickly relieves many minor skin problems such as dry and rough skin, athlete's foot, rashes, itching of pits or hemorrhoids, etc. Sold in Drugstores Everywhere. FREE SAMPLE: Resinol, 7-16, Baltimore, 1 Md.

*We're looking for people who like to draw

IF YOU LIKE TO DRAW, America's Twelve Most Famous Artists want to test your art talent. We'd like to help you find out if you can be trained to be a successful money-making artist.

This offer is part of a program we began 16 years ago. We found that many men and women who could have become artists—and should have become artists—never did. Most of them were unsure of their talent and had no way of finding out if it was worth developing. Others who were convinced they had talent simply couldn't get topnotch professional art training without leaving home or giving up their jobs.

A Plan to Help Others

We decided to do something about this. We decided to make it possible for anyone, anywhere, who likes to draw—and who has talent worth developing—to get the training he needs to become an artist. Taking time off from our busy art careers, we pooled the extensive knowledge of art, the professional know-how and the priceless trade secrets which we ourselves were able to learn only through long and successful experience.

We illustrated this knowledge with 5,000 special drawings, then organized it into a series of lessons covering every aspect of drawing and painting . . . lessons that anyone could take right in his own home and in his spare time. Finally—after years of teaching—we perfected what is probably the most personal and effective method ever developed for criticizing a student's drawings and paintings.

Our program of art training is now well known and respected all over America. We have helped thousands of people find success in art. Here are just a few:

"Your Course has been the difference between failure and success for me," writes Robert Meechan, now an artist in Toronto, Ontario. "I've come from an $18-a-week job to the point where I now own my house, two cars, and hold stock in two companies."

Makes $4,000 Extra Income for Her Family

Ellen Wilhelm—a housewife from Illinois—studied art with us. Last year she made over $4,000 from painting in her spare time. At one show, she sold 39 paintings at up to $180 each.

"What success I've had since taking your Course!" writes Mary Hampton of Marietta, Georgia. "I've been on TV; my paintings received the most bids at the Atlanta Art Association auction. And now I'm having a 'one-man show' of my work."

Changes His Whole Life

Charles Stockwell was a $45-a-week clerk until a few years ago. Then he decided to study art with us. Today he's a successful advertising artist—at a big increase in salary.

When Kathryn Gorsuch of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, found out she was to have a baby—she left her office job and studied art at home with us. By the time the baby was seven months old, she went back to work for the same company . . . this time as a well-paid commercial artist.

Father of Three Wins New Career

Stanley Bowen of Ohio—a married man with three children, unhappy in a "no-future job"—began studying with us, evenings. Now he's earning a much higher salary as an illustrator for a growing art studio. And his family sees a happy, secure future ahead.

Edward Cathony led a dull life as an electrical tester, knew nothing about art except that he liked to draw. Two years after starting our Course, he was hired as art and production manager for a growing advertising agency.

Wins Success at 78

Great-grandmother Alice Whittach wanted a new challenge, decided to study painting with us. Recently she said, "A year after I started the Course I exhibited 131 of my paintings and sold a lot of them. I used part of my earnings to send my great-granddaughter to college."

When Pat Browning sent for our "Talent Test," she wanted to escape from her dull typing job and do something creative. Soon after studying with us, she was promoted to full-time artist with the same firm. Now she loves her work, makes much more money.

Magazine Cartoonist at 17

Tommy Isbell of Corpus Christi studied cartooning with us in his free time after school. Now he's a cartoonist for a local tourist magazine, gets paid for two cartoons per issue and is building a bank account for the future.

Send for Famous Artists Talent Test

To find other men and women with talent worth developing, we have created a special 12-page Art Talent Test. Thousands of people formerly paid to take this test. But now our School offers it free and will grade it free. People who do well on the test—or offer other evidence of art talent—may enroll in the School. But there's no obligation.

If you like to draw and want to find out if you have art talent worth developing—mail the coupon today.
